WILLIAM FAITHORNE was one of the sons of the famous line engraver of the same names, and appears to have practised altogether in mezzotinto. He is said to have caused great grief to his father by his dissipated habits, and to have died before him; but the latter assertion cannot be true, for his father died in 1691, and the younger man's prints reach far into Queen Anne's reign, and could not possibly have been done before his father's death; besides, his earlier pieces are plainly inscribed, "W. Faithorne, junior" (Nos. 12, 27, 33, 34)), and without very good reason to the contrary, the conclusion must be come to, that when the remainder were done he was "junior" no longer.

It is not unlikely that the dissipated habits were truly imputed to him, for we find him merely working for a printseller, and not established, as was the custom of most other artists, at an address of his own; that on No. 33 is the address of his father, where he removed, according to Walpole, in 1680.

His style at his best is highly finished, and his ladies are very pleasing; but his prints generally have not the powerful effect of some other works of his time.

1. Anne, when Princess.

H. L., in oval, directed and looking to front, low dress. Under, Her Royal Highness The Princess Ann of Denmark W Faithorne fe. E Cooper Ex. H. 6 $\frac{3}{4}$; W. 4 $\frac{3}{4}$; O. D. H. 5 $\frac{3}{8}$; W. 4 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Suth: Coll.

2. Id. When Queen. DAHL.

H. L., in oval, directed and looking to front, earring, low dress, robes. Under, Anne by the Grace of God Queen of England, Scotland, France, & Ireland &c. M Dahll pinx. W Faithorne fe. Cum Privilegio. Sold by E Cooper at ye 3 Pidgeons in Bedford Street. H. 7 $\frac{3}{4}$; W. 5 $\frac{3}{4}$; O. D. H. 6 $\frac{3}{8}$; W. 5 $\frac{1}{4}$.

Suth: Coll.

3. Id.

ID.

H. L., in oval, directed and looking to front, facing slightly to right, long hair, crown at back of head, earrings, necklace, robes with star, order of the Garter hung round neck. Under, Anna D: G:

Angl: Scot: Franc: & Hiber: Regina &ct. M. Dahll pinx: W. Faithorne fecit Cum privilegio Regis Sold by E Cooper at the three pidgeons in Bedford street. H. 13½; Sub. (ground in panels nearly cleared off) 11¾; O. D. H. 11½; W. 9½.

Bromley, p. 252, mentions Caroline Wilhelmina, who was afterwards Queen of George II., as engraved by Faithorne after Kerseboom, when Princess of Hanover. The print, however, more probably represents, as stated in the "Sutherland Catalogue" (VOL. I., p. 431,) Sophia Dorothea, the Queen of George I. See No. 39.

4. Charles I.

H. L., directed and facing to front, looking upwards, cap, both hands raised, rays from head, long hair, at top to left a hand holding crown of glory, similar to print by Faber, jun., but without the cherub. Above at top, Corruptibilem pro incorruptibile. Under, verses as in Faber's print, see page 327; at bottom, W Faithorne fec. E Cooper ex. H. 12¼; Sub. 9½; W. 7½.

I. As described. Suth: Coll. Brit: Mus.

II. Orthography corrected, points added in and beneath the verses. Suth: Coll.

Charles II. after Riley, is mentioned by Bromley, p. 117. Suth. Cat. mentions one in armour, with George and ribbon, "Faithorne fecit. Beckett ex." This may be one of those mentioned under "Engraver not ascertained."

5. Charles XII. EHRENSTRAHL.

H. L., in oval, directed to left, facing and looking to front, long wig, armour. Under, Carolus XII D.G. Suecorum, Gothorum et Vandalorum Rex Augustissimus &c. &c. Qui, stratis ad Narvam Moschis, Die 20 Novemb: An: 1700, Ætatis suæ paulo plus XVIII, Justas et Graves a Fœdifrago hoste sumpsit Pœnas. D.K. Ehrenstrahl pinxit. W Faithorne Fecit. Cum Privilegio Regis. E Cooper excudit. H. 13¾; Sub. 11¾; W. 9¾; O. D. H. 11½; W. 9½. Suth: Coll. See page 328.

6. Jeremiah Collier. E. LELY.

H. L., in oval, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, thick wig, bands, black gown. Under, Mr Jeremiah Collier. Edmund Lely pinxit. W Faithorne Fecit. E Cooper exc. H. 10; W. 7¾; O. D. H. 8¾; W. 6¾.

Brit: Mus.

Born at Stow Qui, Cambridgeshire, 1650; educated at Cambridge; entered the Church, but afterwards left it; wrote against the Revolution, and was imprisoned; author of the "Great Dictionary," and of the celebrated attack on the Stage. Died of the stone, 26th April 1726; buried at St. Pancras.

7. (Elizabeth Cooper.) LELY.

W. L., a young girl, sitting on left, directed and looking to front, right hand on seat beside her, left taking grapes from a young Moor towards right, who presents them kneeling on his right knee, trees and buildings in background. Under, at bottom, P Lelly Eques pinx: E Cooper ex: W Faithorne fec. H. 13½; Sub. 12¾; W. 10.

I. As described.

II. Well retouched. Under, Beauty's Tribute—

*Beauty commands Submission as its due,
Nor is't the Slave alone that owns this true,
Much fairer Youths shall this just Tribute pay,
None Fate deplore, but thankfully obey.—*

"E Cooper ex" erased; instead, Sold by W Herbert at the Golden Globe on London Bridge.

8. John Cooper. KERSEBOOM.

T. Q. L., a youth standing, directed slightly to right, facing and looking to front, right hand pointing before him, left holding a bow, quiver slung at back, mantle blown by the wind, to left dog's head, woodland scene in background. Under, John Cooper I Kerfseboom Pinxit. W Faithorne fecit. Cum Privilegio Regis. Sold by E Cooper at the three Pidgeons in Bedford Street. H. 13¾; Sub. 11½; W. 9¾.

I. Before any inscription.

II. As described.

The likeness between the faces of the two foregoing would show them to be brother and sister; it has been conjectured that they are the children of the publisher of the plates, the celebrated printseller Edward Cooper, and that Priscilla Cooper, engraved (as was also his own portrait) by Pelham, was his wife.

Could this John Cooper have grown up to be the J. Cooper whose works have been described, page 142?

9. John Dryden. CLOSTERMAN.

Short H. L., in oval, directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, long wig, lace cravat. Under, Mr Dryden I Clofterman Pinxit. W Faithorne fecit Cum Privilegio Regis. Sold by E Cooper at ye 3 Pidgcons in Bedford street. H. 9 $\frac{5}{8}$; W. 7; O. D. H. 8 $\frac{1}{4}$. Brit: Mus.

Bromley (p. 189) mentions two prints, but there is probably only the one; perhaps some variation of it may exist.

"Glorious John," born 1631. Died, 1st May, 1701; buried in Westminster Abbey.

10. Prince Eugene. PFEFFER.

H. L., in oval, directed towards right, looking to front, long wig, armour, collar and order of Golden Fleece. Under, The most Serene Prince Eugene of Savoy, Knight of ye Order of the Golden Fleece, Privy Councillour to his Imperial Matie & Generalifsimo of all his Forces in Italy. Done from the Original painted at Vienna. I. A. Pfeffer pinx. W Faithorne fecit. Cum Privilegio. Sold by E Cooper at the 3 Pidgcons in Bedford Street. H. 13 $\frac{1}{2}$; W. 10 $\frac{1}{4}$; O. D. H. 11 $\frac{3}{4}$; W. 9 $\frac{5}{8}$. Suth: Coll.

Born at Paris, 1663; son of Count Soissons by a niece of Cardinal Mazarin, and grandson of Charles Emanuel, 1st Duke of Savoy, but left the French for the service of the Emperor Leopold, and was one of the most celebrated generals of the period, acting in conjunction with Marlborough for some time. Died at Vienna, 21st April, 1736. He was attached to the arts, and formed a fine and extensive collection of prints.

11. (Thomas Flatman.)

T. Q. L., standing, directed to front, facing and looking towards left, long hair, cravat tied round throat, dark dress, right elbow leaning on scroll on base of pillar to left, left hand holding open roll with shield of arms and coronet, mountain and buildings in distance to right. H. 13 $\frac{1}{4}$; Sub. 12 $\frac{1}{2}$; W. 9 $\frac{7}{8}$.

I. As described.

II. Shield of arms and coronet erased; instead, a head in profile with laurel wreath, but it does not resemble Charles II., as mentioned by Bromley (p. 189).

In catalogue of Stowe Granger, p. 125, three states are mentioned, first with the roll plain, which is probably intermediate between the foregoing; second, with the portrait; third, with the arms; this order of arrangement will not be sustained on careful comparison of the prints.

This is probably the engraver's earliest print, and he may have been assisted in it by his father, by whom, or by Flatman himself, the drawing or painting was probably made.

Born about 1633; was both poet and painter. Died in London, 8th Dec., 1688.

12. Prince George of Denmark.

H. L., in oval, directed towards left, looking to front, long wig, lace cravat, breastplate. Under, His highness George Prince of Denmark W Faithorne jun fec. Sold by W Beckett at ye back side of ye Royal Exchange. H. $7\frac{3}{8}$; W. $4\frac{3}{4}$; O. D. H. $5\frac{3}{4}$; W. $4\frac{5}{8}$.

Suth: Coll.

See page 32.

13. Id.

DAHL.

H. L., in oval, directed towards right, looking to front, robes, collar and George. Under, His Royal Highness George Prince of Denmark M Dahll Pinxit. Wm Faithorne fecit. Cum Privilegio Regis. Sold by E Cooper at the 3 Pidgeons in Bedford Street. H. $13\frac{3}{4}$; Sub. 12; W. 10.

I. Before inscription; plate not cleared. Suth: Coll.

II. As described. Suth: Coll.

14. George of Hanover, afterwards George II. FOUNTAIN.

H. L., in oval, directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, large wig, muslin cravat, armour. Under, Gulielmus Ernestus Prince of Hanover, Grandson to ye most Illustrious Princess Sophia, Dutcheffs Dowager: Daughter to Elizabeth Queen of Bohemia, Sister to King Charles ye First; Declared to Succeed to ye Crown of England &c by ye late Act for settling the Succession in the Protestant Line. Done from ye original brought over by ye late Earl of Macclesfield & humbly dedicated to ye Rt Honble ye Ld Mohun By his most humble Servt E. Cooper. Fountin Pinxit. W Faithorne fecit. Cum Privilegio Regis. Sold by E Cooper at ye 3 Pidgeons in Bedford street. H. 13; W. $9\frac{7}{8}$; O. D. H. $11\frac{1}{2}$; W. $9\frac{3}{8}$.

I. Before any inscription. Suth: Coll.

II. As described. Suth: Coll. Some of the impressions have a slip, on which "Georgius Augustus" is printed, pasted over the erroneous name, "Gulielmus Ernestus."

III. "Gulielmus Ernestus" erased; instead, Born Octr ye 30, 1683 Georgius Augustus. Suth: Coll.

15. Lady Grace Gethin. DICKSON.

II. L., in oval, directed and looking to front, hair dressed high, with pearls, falling over left shoulder, low dress, with armlets and breast-loop of jewels. Under, The Hon The Lady Grace Gethin A Dickson Pinxit. W Faithorne Fec. E Cooper ex.* H. $6\frac{3}{4}$; W. $4\frac{7}{8}$; O. D. H. $5\frac{1}{4}$; W. $4\frac{1}{4}$.

The portrait is prefixed to a book entitled, "Reliquiæ Gethinianæ," which was "Printed by D Edwards for the Author 1699."

Daughter of Sir George Norton, of Abbot's Leigh, Co. Somerset; mistress of great accomplishments; married Sir Richard Gethin, of Gethin-grott, Ireland. She died in her 21st year, 11th Oct., 1697; buried at Hollingbourne, and a beautiful monument erected to her in Westminster Abbey. The above-mentioned book is a collection of her short essays and witty sentences, much of it extracted from Lord Bacon's works.

16. Richard Gomeldon. KERSEBOOM.

Nearly W. L., sitting, directed slightly to left, facing slightly to right, looking to front, wig, coat, and laced shirt open at breast, right elbow on pedestal of fluted pillar to left, left hand on seat, trees in distance to right, large building to left. Under, Mr Richard Gomeldon. I. Kerfeboom Pinxit. W. Faithorne fecit. Cum Privilegio Regis. Sold by E Cooper at ye 3 Pidgeons in Bedford Street. H. $13\frac{1}{2}$; Sub. $12\frac{1}{8}$; W. $9\frac{7}{8}$.

I. Before any inscription.

II. As described.

Called a musician by Bromley, and a dancing-master by Noble, but there is no evidence in the print to corroborate either assertion; he may not improbably have been of the family of Gomeldon, of Somerfield, Co. Kent, of which the Gumbletons of Cork are an offshoot. Richard is the principal family name of the latter.

17. Sir Richard Haddock. CLOSTERMAN.

H. L., in oval, directed to left, facing towards and looking to front, long dark wig, lace cravat. Under, Sr Richard Haddock Kt Comptroller of his Maties Navy I. Closterman Pinxit. W Faithorne fecit. Cum privilegio Regis. Sold by E Cooper at ye 3 Pidgeons in Bedford str. H. $10\frac{1}{4}$; W. $7\frac{1}{2}$; O. D. H. $8\frac{1}{4}$; W. 7.

I. As described.

II. "Regis" and address erased.

Knighted in 1678; appointed as above, and an admiral. Died, 26th February, 1714; aged 85.

* There is a slight erasure here on all the impressions met with, and the letters "ed" are put in with a pen.

18. Mariamne Herbert. KERSEBOOM.

H. L., directed and looking to front, facing slightly to right, hair high, curl on left shoulder, earring, low dress. Under, The Honble Mrs Mariamne Herbert 1 Kerfsaboom pinx. W Faithorne fecit. Cum privilegio Regis. E Cooper excudit. H. 9 $\frac{3}{4}$; Sub. 8 $\frac{5}{8}$; W. 7 $\frac{1}{4}$.

I. As described. Brit: Mus.

II. Hair, eyes, &c., retouched; modern.

Plate sold at Boydell's sale.

See remark on No. 37.

19. Lady Katherine Hyde. DAHL.

T. Q. L., standing, directed towards right, facing and looking towards left, ribbons in hair, low dress, mantle over left shoulder, held by right hand and blown by the wind, left hand gathering oranges from tree to right. Under, The Lady Katharine Hyde. M Dahl pinx: W Faithorne fec: Cum Privilegio Regis. E Cooper Ex: H. 13 $\frac{5}{8}$; Sub. 12 $\frac{3}{8}$; W. 9 $\frac{3}{4}$.

I. Before name of personage.

II. As described.

Bromley says this plate was altered and inscribed, "Lady Frail."

According to Bromley, youngest daughter of Lawrence, Earl of Rochester, Lady of the Bedchamber to Queen Anne, who died, 1737, aged 72; but the print more probably represents another of the same name who was daughter of Lord Cornbury (in 1709, 3rd Earl of Clarendon), and who died in 1708, aged 18. It could not, in any case, as queried by Bromley, be the Lady Catherine Hyde, afterwards the celebrated Duchess of Queensbury, as she was not born until 10th Feb., 1700, and would only have been a child when the print was engraved.

20. (The Impeached Lords.)

Four ovals on one sheet, titles under each, William Earl of Portland, Edward Earl of Orford, John Lord Somers, Charles Lord Halifax. Under, W Faithorne fec. cum Privilegio Regis. Sold by E Cooper at ye 3 Pidgeons in Bedford Street. H. 12 $\frac{7}{8}$; W. 9. Each portrait O. D. H. 5 $\frac{5}{8}$; W. 4 $\frac{3}{8}$.

I. As described. Suth: Coll.

II. Privilege and address erased; at bottom, Sold by 1 Overton at ye white horse without newgate. In this state, "Charles Lord Halifax" is altered to Charles Earl of Halifax which title he obtained in 1714.

Bromley does not mention this print, but alludes to 8vo portraits of Somers and Orford, having met, no doubt, with them after they had been cut from the others.

The first Partition Treaty between England and Holland, for regulating the Spanish Succession, was signed October 11th, 1698; in April, 1700, through a series of machinations of the Tories, aided by France, articles of impeachment, founded on Secretary Vernon's letters, were brought up by the Commons against these four noblemen for their conduct in the matter. These proceedings were very unpopular, and the noblemen were afterwards acquitted by the Lords.

The Index to "Sutherland Catalogue" calls this print the "Lords Justices."

21. Benedict Ithell.

H. L., in oval, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, curled hair, open collar, cloak. Under, in centre arms, Benedict Ithell G Faithorne ad Vivum Delineavit et Fecit. H. $10\frac{1}{8}$; Sub. $9\frac{1}{8}$; W. $7\frac{5}{8}$; O. D. H. $8\frac{7}{8}$; W. $7\frac{3}{8}$.

Brit: Mus. Two known.

According to Noble and Bromley, of Welsh extraction; deputy-paymaster at Chelsea College; of Temple Dunsley, in the parish of Hitchin, Herts. Died 1737. His son died 1758.

22. Mary II. (Queen of William III.) KNELLER.

H. L., in oval, directed towards right, looking to front, earrings, low dress, necklace, two large brooches on boddice, knots and curls on shoulder. Under, Maria D G Angliæ, Scotiæ Franciæ et Hiberniæ Reginæ &c G Kneller pinx W Faithorne fecit. Sold by W Beckett at the backside of ye Royal Exchange. H. $13\frac{3}{8}$; W. $9\frac{7}{8}$; O. D. H. $11\frac{3}{8}$; W. $9\frac{3}{8}$. Suth: Coll.

H. $11\frac{3}{4}$; W. $9\frac{3}{4}$.

I. As described. Suth: Coll.

II. Altered dress, necklace added, address erased, name "W Faithorne," changed to J Simon, who probably was the engraver who retouched and altered the plate. Suth: Coll.

T. Q. L., sitting, directed and looking towards front, facing slightly to right, curl on right shoulder, robes, left hand on lap, right hand holding sceptre, elbow on cushion to left, on which is a crown, statue of a female burning incense in niche in background. Under, *Serenissima Maria D.G. Angl: Scot: Franc: & Hiber: Regina I Vandervaart Pinxit. Wm Faithorne fecit. Cum Privelegio Regis. 1698. It is this print which Le Blanc mistakes for Mary Queen of Scots. See under Faithorne le jeune, No. 4.

25. John Moore. KNELLER.

T. Q. L., sitting, directed and facing towards left, looking to front, long hair, robes, right hand to breast, left hand on arm of chair, square cap on table to left, fluted pillar in background. Under, in centre arms, Reverendus admodum in Christo Pater Joannes Moore permissione Divina Episcopus Norwicensis. Consecrat, Julij 5 1691. G Kneller S.R. Imp: et Angl: Eques Aur: pinx. W Faithorne fecit. Cum Privilegio Regis. Sold by E Cooper at 3 ye Pidgeons in Bedford Street. H. 13 $\frac{3}{8}$; Sub. 12 $\frac{1}{8}$; W. 9 $\frac{7}{8}$.

II. As described. Brit: Mus. Suth: Coll.

III. Inscription erased; instead, Reverendus admodum in Christo Pater ac Dominus Dnus Joannes Moore permissione divina Episcopus Norwicensis. Consecrat July 5 1691. Inde ad Sedem Eliensem Translatus Julij 31 1707. G Kneller Eques Aur. Pinx. W Faithorne fecit.

Born at Market Harborough, Leicestershire; educated at Cambridge; chaplain to Heneage Finch, Earl of Nottingham; Bishop of Norwich, 1691; translated to Ely, 1707. Died at Ely House, Holborn, July 31st, 1714, in his 68th year. He was an eminent patron of learning, and his library was purchased by George I., and presented by him to the University of Cambridge.

Mrs. Morgan, of Norwich, is mentioned in Musgrave sale catalogue, p. 301, as by this artist. Bromley, p. 247, mentions the print, without the engraver's name, and says it is often mistaken for the Princess of Hanover. No impression with the name is in the Pepysian collection, as stated by him.

26. Margaret Nicholls. DAHL.

T. Q. L., standing, directed towards and looking to front, loose dress, displaying outline of figure, veil from back of head, right hand leaning on rock to left, left hand held to parrot perched on short branch of tree to right, overhanging rock in background to left, landscape in distance towards right. Under, Madam Margaret Nicholls M. Dahll Pinxit. W Faithorne Fecit. Cum Privilegio Regis. Sold by E Cooper at ye 3 Pidgeons in Bedford Street. H. 13 $\frac{1}{4}$; Sub. 12 $\frac{1}{4}$; W. 9 $\frac{1}{8}$.

I. Before any inscription. One known.

II. As described.

III. Cooper's address erased; at bottom, Printed & Sold by Tho : Glaß next the Exchange Stairs in Cornhill London.

Noble, VOL. II., p. 382, says that this print and that of Madam Plowden (No. 29) resemble each other so much that they can hardly be distinguished; he evidently never saw the prints he writes about.

27. Mary, Princess of Orange. HANNEMAN.

T. Q. L., standing, directed slightly to left, facing towards and looking to front, hair in curls, earring, necklace, low white satin dress trimmed with jewels, right hand to breast, left hand hanging beside her, curtain to right, to left a table covered with a cloth, large trees in background through window. Under, Her Royall Highness Mary Princess of Orange, eldest Daughter of King Charles ye first, & Mother to our present Sovereigne K. William ye Third. Adrian Hannaman pinxit 1660. Willm Faithorne junior fecit. Cum Privilegio Regis. Sold by R Tompson at ye Sun in Bedford-berry & E Cooper at the three Pidgeons in Bedford Street. H. 12 $\frac{5}{8}$; Sub. 11 $\frac{5}{8}$; W. 9.

I. As described. Brit: Mus. Suth: Coll.

II. Under subject, Van Dyke Pinxt. Willm Faithorne Fecit; inscription after "Mother to" erased; instead, King William the Third Printed for & Sold by Robt Sayer at the Golden Buck in Fleet Street. Suth: Coll.

III. Sayer's address erased.

Daughter of Charles I. and Henrietta Maria. Born 1631; married, 2nd May, 1648, William II., Prince of Orange. Died, 23rd Sept. 1660.

28. James, Duke of Ormond. KNELLER.

H. L., in oval, directed slightly to left, facing slightly to right, looking to front, long wig, armour, scarf. Under, The Most Illustrious Prince James Duke of Ormond &c. General of the Horse, Capt of Her Majesties Guards, and Commander in Chief of the Confederate Forces, in the Expedition at Vigo : wherein the Spanish Galions, and the French and Spanish Fleets that attended them, were either taken, or distroy'd, October the 12th 1702. G. Kneller S. R. Imp: et Angl: Eques Aur: pinx. W Faithorne fecit. Cum Privilegio. Sold by E. Cooper at the 3 Pidgeons in Bedford Street. H. 13½; W. 10¼; O. D. H. 11¾; W. 9¾. Brit: Mus. Suth: Coll.

Born, 29th April, 1665; succeeded his father as Earl of Ossory 1680, and his grandfather, as 2nd Duke of Ormond, 1688; held high commands under William III., and Anne; Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, 1703-6, and 1710-12; after the accession of George I. was impeached; left this country, and resided chiefly at Avignon. Died, 16th Nov., 1745.

29. Madam Plowden. CLOSTERMAN.

T. Q. L., sitting, directed and looking to front, facing slightly towards right, hair high, edges of dress turned back showing striped lining, right elbow on rock to left, garland held between hands, trees in distance to right. I. Before name of personage.

II. As described. Hair lower than first state.

III. Name of personage erased, face and hair entirely altered to resemble another personage (probably Margaret Nicholls, but she is somewhat older than in No. 26), garland erased and necklace substituted; trees to right erased, and landscape with buildings in distance substituted.

Noble, VOL. I., p. 344, says that this lady was Sarah Chicheley, and confuses the print of that name by J. Smith, with this by Faithorne; as the alliance is not mentioned by any other writer met with, it may be that Noble was entirely wrong, and that the lady was one of the three wives of William Plowden, Esq., of Plowden, Co. Salop (who was born in 1666, was colonel in the Life Guards of James II., and died, 1740).

30. Frederick I., of Prussia.

Died, 23rd October, 1792. Princess Amelia, when Ranger of Richmond Park, had shut up a passage; for doing so an action was brought against her by Lewis and others, and they were ultimately successful. See an account of Lewis in "Gilbert Wakefield's Life." London, 8vo, 1792, page 245.

A head of Thomas Warton after Reynolds, similar to that by Hodges, has been met with. Under, in MS., "R Field sculpsit." H. $10\frac{1}{8}$; Sub. $9\frac{3}{8}$; W. $7\frac{1}{2}$.

JOHN FINLAYSON is stated to have been born about 1730, and to have died about 1776; he was a member of the Free Society of Artists in London, 1763, and was awarded premiums by the Society of Arts, in 1764 and 1773.

His portraits bear dates from 1765 to 1773; many of them are on an unusually large scale, and should be viewed at a little distance; they display considerable knowledge of the art.

His stock of plates appear to have fallen, at his death, into the hands of Boydell (except Nos. 3, 12, 13, 15, and 16), who issued impressions from them without altering Finlayson's address. These plates and the remainders of the proofs and prints were sold at Boydell's sale, on 1st June, 1818, mostly at very moderate prices.

Bromley, p. 417, mentions a print of the Duchess of Argyll after Hamilton, by Finlayson ; but this is probably an error for Faber's plate (page 364), which Bromley does not mention.

II. As described.

Eldest daughter of John Gunning, Esq., Co. Roscommon; married, 5th March, 1752, George William, 6th Earl of Coventry. Died, 30th September, 1760.

This print appears to have been executed as a companion to that of her sister (see No. 1), and it is somewhat doubtful that the picture was painted directly from life. The portraits of this celebrated beauty were so numerous that a painter would have had little difficulty in producing a passable likeness, if commissioned to do so; and both costume and age of this personage are long previous to that of No. 1.

5. William Drummond. JANSEN.

II. As described.

Walpole mentions this singer in a letter of Dec., 1769, as not having a voice; and, in one of Feb., 1771, as being the mistress of Mr. Hobart, Lord Buckinghamshire's brother, who was then managing the Haymarket theatre.

EDWARD FISHER, according to Redgrave, was born in Ireland, in 1730; was at first a hatter, but took to engraving; went to London; became a member of the Incorporated Society of Artists in 1766, and died about 1785.

His earliest dated print is 1758, and his latest, 1781; so that he may have been born later and died sooner than stated.

Pasquin says that he lived in the house in Leicester-square, in which Gardelle murdered Mrs. Anne King. This occurred on 19th February, 1761. He appears to have moved to Ludgate-street in 1778.

As no engraving of his certainly done in Ireland has been met with, it is possible that he learned the art in London, and probably from his countryman, MacArdell, with whom he is often mentioned, and some of whose plates he published.

It is said that Reynolds called him "injudiciously exact," for finishing too highly what this painter considered the unimportant parts of the plate, and which possibly were carelessly done in the picture. This appears to be rather hypercriticism, and Fisher must be allowed a high place for both breadth of treatment and delicacy of finish.

After his death, his plates were dispersed amongst several print-sellers; some of them were dishonestly tampered with, and by erasing the lettering, false proofs were produced. An examination of the genuine ones will, however, at once exhibit the vast difference between them.

II. As described. Brit : Mus.

Born in Cork, 1759 ; appeared on the stage at Liverpool, in 1773 ; at the Haymarket, in 1777 ; was received with great applause, and ranked as the first actress in ladylike characters of her time, up to her retirement in 1797, when she married Edward, 12th Earl of Derby (his second wife), and died universally esteemed, 23rd April, 1829.

Zoffany undoubtedly painted her from life in the position she assumed on the stage, and the difficulty of placing herself so as to maintain it precisely the same as long as the play demands, explains a constraint appearing in the attitude, still "one would speak to her, and stand in hope of answer."

II. As described.

Born about 1680; educated at Cambridge; master as above, 1733; professor as above, 1749; published works on astronomy, and invented a curious sphere, described by himself, and repeated in "Chalmers." Died, 16th December, 1770. He was witty and facetious, and many clever repartees are told of him; at the commencements, in 1714, he delivered the music speech, commencing:—

"The humble petition of the ladies, who are all ready to be eaten up with the spleen,

To think they are to be locked up in the chancel, where they can neither see nor be seen,

But must sit i' th' dumps by themselves, all stew'd and pent up,

And can only peep through the lattice like so many chickens in a coop;

Whereas, last commencement the ladies had a gallery provided near enough

To see the heads sleep and the fellow-commoners take snuff."

40. Hart Lyon. TURNER.

41. (William Markham.) (REYNOLDS.)

H. L., standing, directed to front, facing slightly to and looking towards right, wig, bands, black gown, large book in left hand. H. 13; Sub. 11 $\frac{1}{8}$; W. 9 $\frac{1}{4}$.

This plate has been called the last work of the engraver ; but this is not likely, both because an engraving would not be made of a personage in plain black gown who was a church dignitary at the time, and because the portrait is too youthful. The plate, for some reason or other, was not used, and was found amongst the engraver's effects ; but there is nothing to prove that it had not been scraped years before.

Master of Westminster and Christ Church Schools, and preceptor to the Prince of Wales and Duke of York ; Bishop of Chester, 1771 ; Archbishop of York, 1776. Died at his house in South Audley-street, 3rd Nov., 1807 ; buried in Westminster Abbey. He was in his 89th year at the time of his death.

42. J. B. Monnoyer. KNELLER.

H. L., in oval frame, directed towards front, facing and looking towards right, cap, collar open, plain coat. Under, Jean Baptiste Monoyer Peintre des Fleurs. G. Kneller S R. J. Equ : Aur : et Mag : Brit : Equ : Aur : et Baronettus Pinx. E. Fisher fecit. H. 13 $\frac{1}{4}$; Sub. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$; W. 9 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Copied from first state of plate by G. White, with the greatest possible spirit and fidelity, so much so that they could scarcely be distinguished except for the engraver's name ; the omission of a full stop in the copy after the "S" following the painter's name ; and the flourish from down-stroke of "B" in Baptiste, in the copy pointing towards down-stroke of the "p," in the original to the crossing of the "t."

The copy was probably made by Fisher, for the sake of improvement.

It is curious to compare this with the beautiful contemporary print by Simon, when the work of so excellent an engraver as Fisher appears tame and wanting in character, showing how much depends on the engraver's having the picture in its original freshness, and on his knowledge of the personage.

II. As described. Brit: Mus.

Daughters of Philip, Viscount Royston, who succeeded his father as 2nd Earl Hardwicke in 1764. Lady Amabel-Grey was born 22nd Feb., 1751; married, 1772, Alexander, Lord Polwarth (who was created Baron Hume in 1776; died 1781, before his father, the Earl of Marchmont); on her mother's death, in 1797, succeeded to the Barony of Lucas in her own right; created Countess De Grey, 1816. Died, 4th May, 1833. Lady Mary Jemima was born 9th Feb., 1757; married, 1780, Thomas, 2nd Lord Grantham (who died, 1786). Died at Whitehall, 7th Jan., 1830. Her eldest son succeeded to the titles both of Grantham and De Grey.

I. As described.

II. Retouched; inscription erased; instead, W Hoare Pinxt. E. Fisher fecit. Miss Plunkett. Printed for Tho Bowles in St Pauls Church Yard & Jno Bowles & Son at the Black Horse in Cornhill.

This interesting print is not mentioned by Bromley, but he does mention (p. 443) one by Houston of Miss Plunkett, which is similar to this. It is unlikely that the print is that of the Miss Plunkett alluded to at page 96; and possibly not of any Miss Plunkett, but of the painter's daughter.

63. Hope nursing Love. REYNOLDS.

MICHAEL FORD appears to have been a pupil of John Brooks along with MacArdell, Houston, Purcell, and Spooner. He did not leave Ireland with them, but set up in the same locality, as successor to Brooks, and both painted and engraved there.

His name is also found on some of Andrew Miller's plates.

Brooks, as has been observed, quitted Ireland about 1747, and the dates on Ford's prints would not prove that he maintained the establishment in Dublin for more than four or five years after ; it is very probable that he then also visited London, but he does not seem to have settled there.

There is some ground for supposing that he was lost in the ship "Dublin Trader" (Capt. White), which left Parkgate for Dublin, on 28th Oct., 1758, and was not afterwards heard of ; she had on board £70,000 in money ; and £80,000 in goods, and amongst her passengers were Edward, 5th Earl of Drogheda, and his son ; Theophilus Cibber ; and Maddox, the rope-dancer.

In the appendix to Gilbert's "History of Dublin," VOL. II., a list of prints by Ford is given, which mentions, in addition to those described, the following, which have not been met with :—

"Admiral Anson ;" perhaps the one under "Engraver not ascertained."

"Dr. Richard Baldwin."

"Dr. Hugh Boulter" after Slaughter.

"Charles Cobbe ;" probably either the proof under "Engraver not ascertained," or the print by A. Miller, with Ford as publisher.

"Cromwell and Lambert ;" probably the print by A. Miller, published by Ford.

"Duke of Cumberland," after Barrow. There is one, on horseback, after Hudson, by Miller, published by Ford.

"Garrick as Richard III." W. Hogarth pinxt. ; probably the curious line-engraving by Charles Spooner, published by Ford, and dedicated by him to the Dublin Society

"Earl of Kildare;" probably the print by MacArdell, after Reynolds, published by Ford.

"Chief Justice Marlay."

"William III. crossing the Boyne," after Wyke.

Gilbert does not mention Nos. 1, 4, 5, 7, or 11.

I. Before inscription. One known.

Suth: Coll., with note by Mrs. Sutherland appended, stating "that all endeavours to ascertain the original of this fine mezzotint had failed; but, as it evidently belonged to the period, it was too curious and valuable not to find place, although wholly unknown."

II. As described. Two known.

Not mentioned by Bromley.

Born, 1667; colonel in King William's army, 1688; held various high military posts; became 4th earl on the death of his half-brother, Lawrence Barry, the 3rd earl, in 1699. Died, 5th January, 1747, at Castlelyons, where a magnificent monument was erected in 1753; this print being probably executed about the same time.

2. Henry Boyle. FORD.

T. Q. L., standing, directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, wig, robes, holding up paper in right hand, left hand on folded papers, lettered, Acts Passed, which, with inkstand and open paper, lie on table to right, behind mace and chair, pillars to left. Bromley (p. 257) states that the name of Ford was erased, and that of A. Miller substituted; but the one by Miller is a different plate.

Born, 1710; privy councillor, 1736; commissioner of revenue in the following year; in 1743, succeeded his grandfather (who had rendered great services to William III.) as 2nd viscount. Died, unmarried, 18th April, 1746.

THOMAS FRYE was born in or near Dublin, in 1710; when a young man he went to London in company with Stoppelaer, and soon afterwards painted and engraved Frederick, Prince of Wales, and others.

A few years afterwards, a scheme was set on foot to introduce the art of making china into England, and a manufactory was established at Bow, of which Frye was requested to undertake the management; this he engaged in with alacrity, and spent fifteen years in bringing it to perfection, losing his health amongst the furnaces. The undertaking was, however, not prosperous; the clay brought from South Carolina was so heavily taxed that the price of the china was very high; the specimens being, however, esteemed very fine, as to elegance of design and painting of the figures, excellences due to this artist's talents; in glazing they were defective. From the ruins of this factory those of Chelsea and Worcester had their origin.

After a tour to Wales to recover health, during which he painted portraits to defray his expenses, he took a house in Hatton Garden, London, and resumed his profession with eagerness. He frequented the playhouse in order to obtain likenesses of George III. and his queen, and it is said that this was perceived, and that their majesties looked towards the artist to enable him to complete his work. He scraped other heads of life-size, chiefly from imagination, as the ladies who were applied to would not consent to it, excusing themselves by saying that they did not know in what company they might be placed.

Being corpulent and subject to gout, he adopted too sparing a regimen, thereby bringing on various diseases; these, assisted by too great an application to his art, brought on consumption, of which he died, on 2nd April, 1762.

By his wife he left a son, who turned out an idle, drunken fellow, and two daughters, who assisted him in painting the china at Bow, but both married indiscreetly.

His character was open, affable, and humane, patient under misfortune, and very industrious. He was particularly kind to young artists, to whom he afforded opportunities of improvement by watching him at work. He was on terms of familiarity with the President of the Royal Academy (Sir Joshua Reynolds), to whom he was introduced by Mr. Ellis, whose portrait he painted.

His pictures in general were well finished, the colouring correct and lasting, and he was an excellent miniature painter.

The foregoing particulars are from "Walker's Hibernian Magazine" for 1789; and Redgrave gives substantially the same account.

Frye's epitaph is in the "Gentleman's Magazine" for 1764.

One of his pupils was Mr. Pether, who engraved some of his designs in a style similar to his own: it is probable that those of the following, dated subsequently to the artist's death, may have been completed by Pether.

1. Queen Charlotte.

H. L., directed to front, facing and looking towards left, hair adorned with jewels and lace, rich earrings and necklet with ornament, and several strings of pearls, robes with shoulder-knots and pearls. Under, Thos Frye pictor ad vivum delineavit et sculpsit. Her Most Excellent Majesty Charlotte Queen of Great Britain &c. Published by Thomas Frye, according to Act of Parliament May 24th 1762 and Sold by him at the Golden Head in Hatton Garden H. 24 $\frac{3}{8}$; Sub. 22 $\frac{1}{8}$; W. 16 $\frac{7}{8}$.

I. As issued by the engraver. Brit: Mus.

II. As issued by Boydell.

As no alteration was made in the plate, the states can only be discriminated by the superiority in impression of the first issue.

2. Id.

Similar, of smaller size, some differences in the arrangement of the jewels. Under, T. Frye ad vivum delineavit et sculp. Her Most Excellent Majesty Charlotte Queen of Great Britain &c. Published according to Act of Parliament May 24th 1762, and Sold at the Golden Head in Hatton Garden. H. 19 $\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. 18 $\frac{1}{2}$; W. 14.

States as those of No. 1.

3. Id.

Similar, of smaller size, none of the arms shown, one string less of pearls round neck, jewelled brooch. Under, Frye ad vivum delineavit. Her Most Excellent Majesty Charlotte Queen of Great Britain &c. Published according to Act of Parliament May 24th 1762, and Sold at the Golden Head in Hatton Garden. H. 13 $\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. 12 $\frac{5}{8}$; W. 9 $\frac{7}{8}$.

States as those of No. 1.

The foregoing are very pleasing portraits, the companion ones of George III. will be found under Pether.

4. Charles Cholmondeley. B. WILSON.

H. L., in oval frame, directed and facing towards right, looking to front, full wig, plain coat. Under, in centre arms, motto, CASSIS TUTISSIMA VIRTUS T. Frye fecit. Charles Cholmondeley of Vale Royal, who died Representative in Parliament for the County Palatine of Chester after forty Years Service and upwards March 30. 1756 Aged 72.

*In this plain Guise, a Senator is shewn,

From an Original Painting by Benjn Wilson F.R.S (1755) in the possession of Willm Cowper Esqr M.D. Sold by J. Lawton Bookseller in Chester, and J. Boydell Engraver in Cheapside London. price 2s. H. 13 $\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. 12 $\frac{1}{2}$; W. 9 $\frac{7}{8}$; O. D. H. 10 $\frac{1}{2}$; W. 8 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Born 1684. In "Gentleman's Magazine," the date of his death is given as on 28th March, and he is stated to have represented the county in eight parliaments. He married, in 1714, Essex, daughter of Thomas Pitt, and aunt of William, afterwards Earl of Chatham. His grandson was created Baron Delamere, in 1821.

5. Frederick, Prince of Wales.

W. L., sitting, directed and looking to front, facing towards right, robes, collar and George, right hand extended, left hand on hip, coronet on table to left, curtain above. Under, His Royal Highness Frederick Prince of Wales. From an Original Picture in Sadler's Hall Cheapside painted & script by Thos Frye 1741. H. 20; Sub. 18 $\frac{3}{4}$; W. 14.

6. Thomas Frye.

W. $3\frac{7}{8}$. Under to left, T F, to right, Ipfe.

Bromley, p. 301, mentions Mellish, a Ship Painter, as engraved by Frye.

8. Thomas Wright.

Full H. L., directed and facing towards right, looking to front, own hair, plain coat, right elbow on table to left, paper in hands, partially unrolled, showing portion of a diagram, pilaster in background to right. Under, Thos Frye Pinxt & Fecit April ye 18th 1737 Mr Thomas Wright. H. $13\frac{1}{8}$; Sub. 13; W. $9\frac{1}{8}$.

Born at Byer's Green, Durham, 22nd Sept., 1711; became an ingenious mathematician and astronomer; author of many almanacks, calculations of eclipses, treatises on use of the globes, &c; visited Ireland, in 1746, and published the first volume of "Louthiana;" retired, in 1762, to the locality where he was born, and there died, in February, 1786. There is a description of his house in "Gent's. Mag." for 1793, p. 213.

9-25. Life-sized Heads.

Eighteen Plates, including No. 6.

Short H. L.'s. States as those of No. 1.

"Boydell's Catalogue," of 1783, mentions Nos. 9 to 19, with No. 6, as one set of twelve, and Nos. 20 to 25 as a second set of six. At the Boydell sale, June 1st, 1818, the plates of all, with the two larger sizes of George III. and Queen Charlotte, were sold to Robinson for twenty guineas.

These prints were mentioned as portraits, but the personages are not stated, and names have been guessed for several without any really sound reason. From examination, it would seem likely that the first set of twelve were drawn from persons sitting as models, probably some of the painter's own family and acquaintance, and that the second set of six were elaborated afterwards from sketches taken at the theatre, or perhaps from recollection only; but however this may be, their great artistic merit must be admitted.

The arrangement which follows is that of Boydell's Catalogue of 1783.

First Series. Each, H. $19\frac{1}{8}$; Sub. $18\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$; W. $13\frac{7}{8}$.

Same personage as No. 11.

No. 6 is the last of this series.

Second Series. Each, H. 19 $\frac{7}{8}$, W. 13 $\frac{1}{8}$.

"Ladies, very elegantly attired in the fashion, and in the most agreeable attitudes."

20. Directed to front, facing and looking towards left, lace cap, flowers and jewels, earring, necklace, left hand holding up mantle; at bottom, in centre, scraped, T. Frye 1761.

21. Directed to front, facing downwards and looking towards right, cap with pearls worked in, earring, necklace, right hand on left wrist; at bottom to right, T. Frye. 1761.

J. GAINER is not mentioned by Redgrave. That he was pupil of John Dixon is proved not only by the inscription on No. 1, but by the similarity of style. He was probably a native of Ireland, the name being still common there, but now usually spelled "Gaylor." It is probable that No. 1 was engraved there.

1. Rt. Hon. John Ponsonby. GAVEN.

I. Before any inscription.

II. As described.

Born, 29th March, 1713; second son of Brabazon Ponsonby (created Earl of Bessborough, 1739); married, 1743, Lady Elizabeth Cavendish, daughter of 3rd Duke of Devonshire; Commissioner of the Revenue in Ireland, 1744; Speaker, 1756 to 1771. He died at Bishop's Court, near Naas, Co. Kildare, 16th August, 1787. (Debrett gives this date incorrectly, 1789.) His eldest son was created Lord Ponsonby of Imokilly, in 1806; his second son was Lord Chancellor of Ireland, and a leading member of Opposition in the English Parliament.

2. John Wesley.

H. L., in oval frame, directed, facing, and looking towards right,

My Lady Anne Barrington and My Lady Mary Stanish

long hair, bands, black gown. Under, John Wesley M.A. Publish'd as the Act directs April 20. 1779. H. 13; Sub. 12; W. 9; O. D. H. 8; W. 7 $\frac{1}{4}$.

I. Before inscription, indistinctly scratched, J Gainer fecit Publish'd as the Act Directs Nov. 6 1775. One known.

II. As described.

Not mentioned by Bromley. See page 64.

HENRI GASCAR was, according to Nagler, born in Paris, in 1635, and died at Rome, in 1701. He was brought to England under the patronage of the Duchess of Portsmouth, and became, in the fashionable estimation of the day, the rival, as a painter, to Lely himself. He is stated to have amassed a considerable sum by his portraits, and after his leaving England (about 1680, as stated by Graham), to have been successful in Italy also.

There is no certain proof that he engraved the following prints, which bear his name as painter only; but, by whomsoever executed, they are of the greatest interest, as being amongst the earliest specimens of the art in this country, and as being authentic and contemporary likenesses of the leading beauties of Charles the Second's court.

The scraping upon them is finished and artistic in manner, but the ground is open and more coarsely prepared than was afterwards the case when Blooteling had improved the method: this may have led to Strutt's remark, that they were "vile," and Bryan calls them "miserable;" but connoisseurs are not likely to be guided by such ignorant and flippant remarks, which might, with as little reason, be applied to the works of Von Siegen and Prince Rupert.

The inscriptions are so quaint in expression, and the characters so peculiar, that they strongly point to the conclusion that they were done by a Frenchman not accustomed to engrave letters.

All the prints are referable to dates previous to 1676.

1. Ladies Barrington and St. John.

T. Q. L.'s., sitting, to left Lady Anne, looking and facing nearly to front, curls, low dress, necklace, pointing with right hand to vase of flowers on table between them, on which her left arm rests; to right Lady Mary similarly dressed, facing towards left, looking to front, right elbow on table, hand holding flower to cheek, left hand in lap, curtain and pillar to left, terraces and temple in distance to right. Under, H Gascar Pinx My Lady Anne Barrington and My Lady Mary Saniohn. W. $15\frac{5}{8}$; H: $11\frac{3}{8}$; Sub. $10\frac{3}{8}$. Brit : Mus.

Granger states that he knows nothing of the personal history of these ladies, and Bromley only says that the print is very scarce. It has therefore not yet been placed on record, that they were the daughters, and, with their sister Essex, the co-heiresses of Robert Rich, Earl of Warwick. Anne was married to Thomas, son and heir to Sir John Barrington, of Barrington Hall, Essex, third baronet of that family. He died before his father, but their two sons succeeded as 4th and 5th baronets. Mary was married to Henry St. John, who succeeded, in 1708, as 4th baronet, and was created, in 1716, Baron St. John of Battersea, and their only son was Henry, the famous Viscount Bolingbroke.

2. (Lord James Beauclerk.)

As Cupid, looking to front, wings, resting among clouds, left hand holding an arrow, which he touches with second finger of right hand. Under, to left, H Gascar Pinx. H. 8; Sub. $7\frac{5}{8}$; W. 7.

Not mentioned by Bromley. One known. Brit : Mus.

Second son of Elinor Gwin and Charles II. He died in France, about Michaelmas, 1680; aged about 9 years.

The print has been also called the Earl of Burford. See No. 6.

3. Madame Sophia Bulkeley.

Nearly T. Q. L., standing, directed and looking to front, facing slightly towards left, hair in flowing curls behind right shoulder, low dress, brooch, hands holding vase, on which are carved heads and garlands, rocks in background. Under, H. Gascar Pinx. H. $13\frac{1}{8}$ Sub. $12\frac{1}{4}$; W. $9\frac{5}{8}$.

I. As described. One known.

II. More worked on face, neck, and bosom, "Pinix" corrected to Pinxit. Brit : Mus.

III. At bottom, in large, slight letters, Madame Sophia Bulkeley.

IV. Inscription erased.

Daughter of Walter Stuart, and younger sister of the Duchess of Richmond; married the Hon. Henry Bulkeley, who was fourth son of Thomas, 1st Viscount Bulkeley, and master of the household to Charles II., and James II. One of their daughters, Charlotte, married Lord Clare, another, Anne, married James, Duke of Berwick, so that the family probably accompanied James II. into France after his abdication. Madame Bulkeley is said to have been imprisoned in the Bastille for holding correspondence with Lord Godolphin, and Granger supposes that there was some connexion between them from the following lines, written in 1680 :—

“ Bulkeley's Godolphin's only care,
As Middleton is Hyde's.”

Bromley, p. 118, mentions a mez. of Charles II., from Gascar's painting; it is distinct from the one engraved in line by Vandrebanc, in 1675. This may be one of the portraits under “ engraver not ascertained;” or it is possible that an impression of Corbetta (No. 5), without the separate plate, may have been mistaken for Charles II., as there is some resemblance, and a superficial observer might not detect the difference.

4. Barbara, Duchess of Cleveland and Daughter.

See page 27. The child was her third daughter, born July 16th, 1672, who became a nun, at Pontoise. Granger states that the picture of this print was in the possession of Lord Dacre.

5. Francis Corbetta.

H. L., in oval frame, directed to right, facing and looking to front, large dark wig, lace cravat, embroidered gown. H. 10 $\frac{1}{2}$; W. 8 $\frac{5}{8}$. Under, on separate plate, H. 1 $\frac{5}{8}$; Francesco Corbetta famosisso Mastro di Chittarra qual Orfeo nel suonar ogn 'un il narra. H gas-car Pinx.

Grammont mentions the performance of this player, as highly relished by Charles, being full of grace and tenderness. This brought the guitar into so much vogue that everyone played upon it well or ill. Corbetta seems also to have composed music; and anecdotes of his saraband are related by the lively French count.

6. (Eleanor Gwin and her two Sons.)

T. Q. L.'s, standing, she is on right, directed towards and facing slightly to left, looking to front, curls, earring, necklace, low dress, basket of flowers in hands, from which the child to left is taking a sprig, but is gently pushed back by the other; (the child to left has its hair divided in centre, and earring and necklace, like a girl, but the children resemble those in print under R. Tompson, and also in the line-engraving after Gascar, in both of which prints the names of the two sons are engraved underneath), in background a balcony with trees and flowers. Under, H. gascar. pinxit. W. $12\frac{1}{2}$; H. $9\frac{1}{2}$; Sub. $9\frac{3}{8}$.

Not mentioned by Bromley. Three known. Brit: Mus. Suth: Coll.

* Uncommon qualities of head and heart must have been added to sprightly wit and fascinating appearance, to explain why Nell, the orange-girl, was the special pet and favourite, not only of Charles and the Londoners of the time, but of all English-speaking people down to the present day. She died in 1687. The eldest boy was born, May 8th, 1670; created Earl of Burford, 1676, and Duke of St. Alban's, 1684. He died, 11th May, 1726. For Lord James, see No. 2.

James II., when Duke of York, is mentioned by Bryan, as having been scraped by Gascar. Bromley, a much more reliable authority, does specify an 8vo print, but not in mezzotinto.

7. Mrs. Jane Middleton.

Nearly W. L., sitting under a tree to right, directed to left, facing towards and looking to front, hair full, low dress, hands folded on lap, crook lying across under arm, sheep in valley to left, with castle, lake and mountains in distance. Under, H Gascar Pinx Ms Jenny Middleton. W. $12\frac{1}{2}$; H. $10\frac{3}{8}$; Sub. $9\frac{7}{8}$. Brit: Mus.

See page 115. Grammont speaks of her as his first flame on his arrival from France.

8. George, Earl of Northumberland.

W. L., standing, directed to right, facing and looking slightly to left, long hair, Roman costume, sandals, spear in left hand, right hand pointing before him, to right a sheet of water with two swans, behind them steps, terraces with ladies and at top a range of palaces, trees to left. Under, George Fitzroy Earle of Northumberland &c. H: Gascar pinx. H. $13\frac{3}{8}$; Sub. $12\frac{3}{8}$; W. 10.

H. Goussier Pinx.
Charles Duke of Richmond and Lenox & c.

I. Before inscription. One known. Brit : Mus.

II. As described.

III. With "A Tooker exc." Mentioned by Granger and Bromley. Third son of Lady Castlemaine and Charles II. ; born at Oxford, 1665 ; created Earl of Northumberland, 1674, and Duke, 1683 ; married, 1685, Catherine, daughter of Robert Wheatley of Brecknol, Berkshire, and widow of Thomas Lucy, of Charlecote ; appointed constable of Windsor Castle, and Lord Lieutenant of Surrey. He died without issue, 1716.

9. Louise, Duchess of Portsmouth.

11. Frances Duchess of Richmond.

W. L., standing, directed towards and looking to front, facing slightly to right, costumed as Minerva, plumed helmet, sandals, right arm leaning against pillar to left, hand holding spear, left hand hanging beside her, shield with Medusa's head partly seen to left, gardens and porticoes in distance to right. Under, H Gascar pinx Frances Theresa Dutcheffe of Richmond. H. 15 $\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. 15 $\frac{3}{8}$; W. 10 $\frac{3}{8}$.

Five known. Brit : Mus. Suth : Coll.

See page 49.

Mrs. Jane Roberts is mentioned in "Sutherland Catalogue" as by Gascar, but it is doubtful that it is so. The personage is represented as W. L., sitting, looking to front, low dress, band round hair, another across right shoulder, right elbow on pedestal of column to left, left hand pointing across lap. H. $13\frac{1}{8}$; W. $9\frac{1}{8}$; but the print appears to have been clipped.

See page 119.

JOHN GISBORNE is not mentioned by Redgrave, nor are any particulars of him known. He probably lived near the end of the last century.

1. Sir Henry Hatsell. KNELLER.

T. Q. L., standing, directed towards right, looking to front, long wig, robes, bands, right hand on cape, left holding scroll and hat. Under, Painted by Sir Godfrey Kneller. Engraved by John Gisborne Sir Henry Hatsell Knt One of the Barons of the Court of Exchequer in the reign of King William 3d. Born in March 1640-1. Died in April 1714. H. $18\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. $16\frac{3}{8}$; W. $13\frac{1}{4}$.

Not mentioned by Bromley. Brit: Mus.

Appointed as above, November 25, 1697, superseded June 8, 1702; but Noble states that he died in the office in 1714. His son married Penelope, only daughter of Sir James Robinson, Bart., of Cranford Hall, Northamptonshire.

2. Willey Reveley. WOODFORD.

Evans' Catalogue, No. 20,674.

Architect of All Saints Church, Southampton. Died in Oxford-street, London, 1799.

G : GRAHAM is mentioned by Redgrave as engraver of portraits and other works in the dot manner in the last half of the 18th century. The following in mezzotinto are by him.

1. John, Earl of Bute. RAMSAY.

H. L., similar to print by Purcell, but features very different, directed and looking to front, facing towards left, robes. Under, Ramsay pinxt. Graham sculpt. The Right Honble John Earl of Bute &c. H. 6; Sub. $5\frac{1}{8}$; W. $4\frac{1}{2}$.

2. (Mrs. Collier.) REYNOLDS.

H. L., similar to print by J. Watson. Under, J. Reynolds pinxt. Graham Sculp. Cælia Lamenting her Dead Sparrow.

*Ah, stretch'd in Death my Cælia's Sparrow lies
And o'er it Cælia pours her Tears and Sighs ;
But let not Cælia weep away her Eyes.*

and Latin verses as in Watson's print. Printed for John Bowles, at the Black Horse in Cornhill, London. H. $13\frac{3}{4}$; Sub. $12\frac{1}{8}$; W. $9\frac{7}{8}$.

I. Before inscription.

II. As described.

Not mentioned by Bromley.

According to Bromley, the first and divorced wife of Capt. George Collier, who was knighted in 1775, and died in 1795, when Vice-Admiral of the Blue. Hamilton states that her maiden name was Gwyn.

3. Van Tromp. REMBRANDT.

H. L., directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, cap, earring, mustache, cloak over armour. Under, Rembrandt Pinx. G Graham Sculp Van Tromp. London Published according to Act May 25 by Colnaghi & Co No 132 Pall Mall. H. 15 ; Sub. $12\frac{3}{4}$; W. $10\frac{7}{8}$.

See page 122. The resemblance to the contemporary print there described is not sufficiently strong to make it certain that the personage is correctly named.

4. Poverty. RISING.

W. L., a poor boy reclining at foot of a wall, right hand on stone, left hand holding hat. Under, Rising Pinxt. Graham Sculpt. Poverty. London Publish'd 1st Aug 1791 by Bull & Jeffryes, Ludgate Hill. W. $15\frac{1}{2}$; H. 13 ; Sub. $12\frac{3}{8}$.

BENJAMIN GREEN is stated to have been born at Hales-Owen, about 1736, and to have died about 1800.

It would therefore appear very probable that he was an elder brother of Valentine Green ; as this, however, has not been confirmed by any record, there may have been some reason for suppressing it, if it were the fact. Few particulars of him have been met with; and a letter in "Gentleman's Magazine" for 1800, p. 847, asking for an account of him, on the ground that it was a pity that such a character should be suffered to sink into oblivion, drew forth no response.

His connection with Christ's Hospital is undoubted; but he does not seem to have been engraver to the King, as stated in this letter, and also in Redgrave.

His works in mezzotinto are chiefly of animals, after Stubbs, and many of them are good examples of the art.

1. Miss Baldwin. KETTLE.

H. L., directed to front, facing and looking downwards towards right, wide hat, necklace, cape, arms leaning on balcony before her. Under, Kettle pinxit. B Green fecit. Publish'd by T Kitchin No 59 Holborn Hill. Price 3s. H. 14 $\frac{3}{4}$; Sub. 13; W. 10 $\frac{3}{4}$.

II. As described.

Son of Richard Pigot, Esq., of Westminster; created a baronet 5th Dec., 1764, and raised to the Irish peerage as Baron Pigot of Pats-hull in the following year; went out, in 1775, to India as Governor of Fort St. George, Madras, for the East India Company, and in carrying out their directions for placing the Rajah of Tanjore in power, incurred the enmity of the Nabob of Arcot and of several of the English; was deposed, and died in 1777. It was suspected that his death was caused by violence ; and by order of Parliament, Messrs. Stratton, Brook, Floyer, and Mackay, were tried at the King's Bench, Westminster, before Lord Mansfield, on 20th Dec., 1779 ; they were found guilty, and two months afterwards were each fined £1,000, which they at once paid, and were discharged. The date of his death is erroneously given in the "Peerages" as 1783.

3. Henry Townshend. HUDSON.

Bromley, p. 381, a small oval.

See under Mac Ardell.

F : GREEN appears as the engraver of the following ; but, probably, there may be an error in the inscription ; an impression has been met with having "Green" crossed out and Hodges written instead, and it resembles that engraver's work.

William George Frederick, Prince of Orange. JONES.

H. L., directed to right, facing and looking to front, white uniform. Under, Painted by H : Jones Painter to the Emperor of Germany Engraved by F: Green. William George Frederick Prince of Orange & Nassau Major Genl in the Imperial Service &c &c &c London. published by J: Green No 701 Oxford street 23 Jan'y 1797. H. 10 $\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. 10 ; W. 8 $\frac{1}{4}$.

Born at the Hague, 18th Nov., 1774 ; second son of William V. ; with his elder brother, who afterwards became King of the Netherlands, served against the troops of the French Republic with much credit ; soon after the annexation of Holland to France, entered the Austrian service, and took part in the victory of Wurzburg and siege of Kehl. He died suddenly when about to be named Field Marshal, 6th Jan., 1799.

RUPERT GREEN was the son and partner of Valentine Green. He has not been mentioned as an engraver. He probably died before his father.

George III.

H. L., in oval frame, directed and looking towards right, plain dress, sash, star. Under, in centre arms, Drawn & Engraved by Rupert

Green. George the Third by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland King, Defender of the Faith. Published by V. Green No 1 New Road, opposite Fitzroy Square, London. March 31st 1801. H. 13 $\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. 12 $\frac{1}{2}$; W. 9 $\frac{7}{8}$; O. D. H. 8 $\frac{7}{8}$; W. 8.

It is somewhat remarkable that no portrait of George III. himself was engraved by Valentine Green, although he did those of all the Royal Family, and although there were so many pictures of the King to engrave from. George III. was a great admirer and collector of mezzotinto prints, as evidenced by the collection at Windsor Castle, and Green must have been well known to him.

VALENTINE GREEN was born, according to Sandby and Redgrave, at Hales-Owen, near Birmingham; according to a letter by James Ross, in "Gentleman's Magazine" (VOL. LXXXIII., Pt. II., p. 446), at Salford, near Evesham; the first place being near the northern, the second near the southern extremity of Worcestershire. The date given by Mr. Ross is Oct. 3, 1739, and he says that his father was a dancing-master. The first-named authors proceed to state that, after spending two years in a lawyer's office, he became pupil to an obscure line-engraver in Worcester. Mr. Ross states that this was Robert Hancock (who was no mean engraver in mezzotinto), and that he himself succeeded Green with Hancock in 1765, but he does not mention about the lawyer's office. There is nothing in Green's style to lead to the conclusion that he was self-taught, as stated by Bryan and Sandby, and there is every reason to believe Mr. Ross to be correct in his account.

Green then came to London; exhibited at Spring Gardens in 1766; was a member of the Incorporated Society of Artists, in 1767; in 1775, appointed associate-engraver to the Royal Academy, and mezzotinto-engraver to his Majesty, distinctions well merited by his artistic talents and unwearied diligence. He soon afterwards removed to Newman-street, Oxford-street, from Salisbury-street, Strand, where he had resided nearly from the time of his coming to London; and he also kept, for a short time, an establishment at 52, Strand.

In 1789, he obtained from Charles Theodore, Elector of Bavaria (to whom, when Elector Palatine, he had been appointed engraver), the exclusive privilege of engraving the pictures of the Dusseldorf Gallery. He completed over twenty plates, but, in 1798, much of his property was destroyed at the siege of the town, and this, with the failure of some other speculations, involved his pecuniary affairs; his son, Rupert, whom he had made his partner, sharing the misfortune.

On the foundation of the British Institution, in 1805, he accepted the office of Keeper, and retained it to his death, which took place at St. Alban's-street, London, 29th June (not 6th July, as stated by Redgrave), 1813.

This engraver bestowed great labour upon producing in mezzotinto West's ideas of events in classical history; but it is doubtful if these now add anything to his reputation. A century ago, however, Boydell published and sold the prints of Regulus and Hannibal, each at six times the price at which he published and sold the "Girl in the Snow" (Lady C. Montague) after Reynolds, which would now be worth a hundred of the others put together. He executed some fine works after the old masters, amongst them, "The Dutch School," by Jan Steen, "Time clipping wings of Cupid," after Van Dyck, "A Hermit," after Mola, "Descent from the Cross," after Rubens, and several other Scriptural pieces.

His portraits exhibit great mastery of his art, joined to delicate and effective manipulation. They also exhibit the leading characteristic of the painters of his day; this was to make their portraits pictures or works of art apart from the representation of the personage; sometimes both objects were attained, as in No. 7, but often, especially with Reynolds, the picture was more thought of than the likeness, which had been the principal object of the earlier painters, with the exception, perhaps, of Lely.

T. Q. L., sitting, directed to front, facing and looking towards right, full wig, plain dress, right elbow on table to left, on which is a graver and paper, headed, A Catalogue of Prints Published by John Boydell Engraver Cheapside London, hand holding print of St. George and the dragon, left hand on knee, in background to right three large volumes, headed, Boydell's Collection of Prints. Under, Josiah Boydell pinxit. Valentine Green fecit. John Boydell Engraver. Published Augst 10th, 1772 by John Boydell in Cheapside London. Vol II No 61. H. $17\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. $16\frac{1}{4}$; W. $12\frac{7}{8}$.

In the collection of prints, forming nine folio volumes, published in various years, at £12 12s. each, containing in all 675 plates.

Born at Stanton, Co Salop; when over twenty, was apprenticed to W. H. Toms, engraver, and having been successful in some publications, became an extensive print merchant, no doubt greatly encouraging the art of engraving in this country, and extending abroad the knowledge of our productions in this branch of art. In this business he amassed a large fortune; was elected alderman of Cheap Ward, 1782, sheriff 1785, and lord mayor 1790. He died at his house in Cheapside, 12th Dec., 1804, aged 86, and was buried in St. Olave, Jewry. An account of his nephew and partner will be found at page 81.

Boydell's merits would be still more appreciated by the genuine admirers of our English engravings, if he had confined himself to the publication of original prints; but his habit was to purchase all the plates of the older engravers which he could procure, and to circulate impressions from these, taken when they were utterly worn out, and could give no idea of their original beauty. This is a custom which, unfortunately for art, neither began nor ended with Alderman Boydell.

11. Alexander, Lord Bridport. ABBOTT.

II. As described.

Born, July 10, 1748; son of Sir John Stewart, by Jane, only sister and heiress of Archibald, Duke of Douglas, who died, 1761; his title to the estates, worth £17,000 per annum, was disputed by the ducal house of Hamilton, and decided in favour of the latter by the Court of Session. The House of Lords, however, on appeal, reversed this in 1769, and the allegorical figures and portraits on the print allude to this remarkable trial. Having assumed the name and arms of Douglas, he married, first, in 1771, Lady Lucy Graham, daughter of William, 2nd Duke of Montrose; second, in 1783, Lady Frances Scott, sister of Henry, 3rd Duke of Buccleugh; M.P. for Forfar, 1782; created Baron Douglas, of Douglas Castle, 1790. He died at Bothwell Castle, Lanarkshire, 26th Dec., 1827.

The death of Thomas Fielder, of Idol-lane, Great Tower-street, Fruit Broker, is recorded at Walworth, 6th Sept., 1794, but only in his 55th year; if, therefore, this age and that in the print are correct, this was probably a son of the personage.

44. (Henrietta Fordyce). KAUFFMAN.

W. L., standing, directed towards and facing to left, looking downwards, and strewing flowers on grave of Fingal, Highland scenery in background to right. Under, scratched, *Painted by Angelica Kauffman R.A. Engraved by V. Green, Mezzotinto Engraver to his Majesty & to the Elector Palatine. Publish'd May 1st 1782 by V. Henrietta Cumming's parents having died when she was very young, she was brought up by a maternal relative, Mrs. Bacon Muir, and went to reside in the family of the Countess of Balcarras; her accomplishments, especially in embroidery, having been brought under the notice of Queen Charlotte, she was invited to superintend the education of the Princesses; this, however, she declined. She corresponded with Miss Fordyce; and as Margaret, daughter of the Earl of Balcarras, had married Alexander Fordyce, who aspired to be the richest commoner in England, she thus became acquainted with and married their brother, Dr. James Fordyce, who was the eloquent pastor of the Presbyterian congregation in Monkwell-street, London, and author of "Sermons to Young Women," and other works. His popularity, however, declined, partly in consequence of the failure of his above-mentioned brother's bank in 1772, and partly from a dispute, in 1775, with his assistant, Mr. Toller. He retired to Bath in 1783, where he died, in 1796. His wife died at the same place, Jan. 10, 1823, aged 89. In her biography she is said to have been one who was "peculiarly annoyed by the imperfections of servants."

II. As described.

Born at Carr End, in Yorkshire, 1712, of Quaker parents; came to London in 1736, and attained great eminence as a physician, acquiring a fortune which was computed at £80,000. He died at his house in Harpur-street, 26th Dec., 1786, and was interred at the Quaker's burying-ground at Winchmore Hill. He had a great taste for natural history, especially botany and shells, and formed fine collections in these pursuits. He also purchased, for eighty guineas, the English portraits collected by Mr. John Nicholls of Ware, arranged in four folio and six quarto volumes, a catalogue of which was published by Ames, in 1748; these were purchased at Dr. Fothergill's death for 200 guineas by Thane, the printseller, who broke up the volumes and disposed of the prints separately, realising an exceedingly large profit upon the transaction. These prints are occasionally met with, and may be recognised by having been cut to the plate-mark and inlaid in an ugly, coloured, border.

46. David Garrick. GAINSBOROUGH.

W. L., standing, directed towards front, facing and looking towards right, plain coat, edged vest, right arm round pedestal of bust of Shakespeare, which appears to incline towards the great actor, hand holding hat, left hand on hip, holding end of cane, trees to left, lake, bridge, and temple in distance to right, at bottom, scraped, David Garrick, Esqr. Under, in running hand, *T. II. As described. Brit : Mus.

Hannah Vaughan was noticed by Mr. Booth, and when married to Mr. Pritchard, came on the stage and excelled in tragedy, especially in characters requiring force of expression and dignity; she retired, after a career of thirty-six years, in April, 1768, taking her leave in the character of Lady Macbeth (this picture being probably then painted), and died at Bath in the following August. A monument to her in Westminster Abbey was erected as a well-deserved tribute to the memory of her talents and excellent conduct.

Francesco Gerniniani. See under M'Ardell. Although it would seem beneath Green to place his name as engraver on an after-state of the plate of another, yet it is impossible to discover any distinction sufficient to show it to be a copy.

II. As described.

Bromley, p. 344, calls them "Jos & John Gulston, sons of Joseph G. The former died a child, the latter in 1795 or 1791."

Joseph Gulston died at Lausanne, 18th Dec., 1790, aged 22 years and 1 month, a dreadful victim to drinking, a habit contracted even before he left school; he would, therefore, have been only two years old when the print was published, and it is not on record that he had a brother.

The matter can be explained by supposing that Bromley was in error, and that the portrait is that of this lad's father and his brother, and that the picture was painted when they were young, about fifteen years before the print was engraved.

An account of the Gulston family is given at the commencement of VOL. V. of Nichols' "Literary Illustrations."

John Gulston, a lad of great promise, died at Eton, in 1764, at 14 years of age, from a fever contracted by drinking cold water when very hot from playing cricket.

Joseph, his elder brother, came into the possession of his father's large property (about £250,000 and landed estates), in 1766; he was indolent, good-natured, hospitable, and a delightful companion, probably had no idea of distinguishing between capital and revenue; and his wife (see page 141), not knowing better, they squandered all this money, except the portion entailed, and raised life annuities upon that.

How much Mr. Gulston expended upon books and prints cannot be known, but he formed collections which have, probably, never been equalled; he had read more English literature, especially biographical and quaint and curious books, than anyone of his time; and his abilities, retentive memory, and appreciation of wit and humour, enabled him to use this knowledge in attaining extraordinary conversational powers.

But his chief delight was in collecting prints, especially British portraits. Granger was in a manner taught by him, and he was always ready to assist ingenious men and artists. He is said to have commenced collecting in 1768, and he lived to see all dispersed; first his books were sold; he then offered his prints to the Empress of Russia for £20,000; but this, most fortunately for after generations of English collectors, not having been accepted, they were sold by Greenwood at his auction rooms in Leicester-square, commencing Monday, 16th January, 1786, at six, p.m., and concluding on Wednesday, 15th March following, being the fortieth night. The catalogue was made by Thane, and is lotted in a very curtailed and promiscuous manner.

The produce, which was only £4,364, must have deeply mortified the owner; this and the grief caused by the habits of his son were, probably, predisposing causes of his death, which took place on the 16th July, 1786, when he was only in his forty-first year.

Prints from his collection are frequently met with; they are marked at the back, near the bottom, with a number to left and a price to right; this latter may have been what he estimated them at when valuing his collection for sale; it was not the price he paid, for a print has been met with inscribed by him, "No. 11,669, rare, 10s. 6d. I bought this print at Nottingham for 1s."

Although there is no reason to suppose that Mr. Gulston knew of the variations of state described in these volumes, yet such a judge of impression was he that his mark will rarely be found on any but a first state.

II. As described.

Bromley, p. 426, calls this lady "Elizabeth," and gives the date of the print 1773, in both of which statements he appears to be mistaken. For Elizabeth, or rather Elizabeth Alicia Maria, see page 163; but this portrait is considered by nearly all the authorities to be that of Lady Henrietta Antonia (sometimes called Harriet), daughter of Henry Arthur Herbert, 1st Earl of Powis; born 3rd Sept., 1758; married, 7th May, 1784, Edward, who had succeeded his father, as 2nd Lord Clive, 1774, and (the Powis estates having come to his wife on the death of her brother, the 2nd Earl of Powis, in 1801) was created Earl of Powis, 12th May, 1804. The Countess died at Walcot, 3rd June, 1830, and was interred at Bromfield.

II. As described.

Born at Honiton, Devonshire, 8th Sept., 1742; followed the profession of a miniature painter at Bath, and came to London in 1764, where he met with unexampled success. Went to Rome with Romney, 1773-7, afterwards to India, 1785-8. R.A. 1790. His failing sight then obliged him first to adopt crayons, in which he quickly excelled, and, about 1797, to renounce his art. He died, 9th March, 1810, in Thornhaugh-street, and was buried in St. James's Chapel, Tottenham-court-road. It is told of him that he called upon West, who was employed at his large picture of Achilles, and asked him what it was; "Sir," said West, "it is epic." "Heaven preserve me," said Humphrey.

Daughter of Thomas Orby Hunter, Esq., and generally known as Kitty Hunter; Walpole relates her escapade with the Earl of Pembroke (see page 214), in 1762. She afterwards married Captain Alured Clarke, who became a Field-Marshal, and died in 1832.

As the date of her marriage is not mentioned, the print may have been engraved after it, Bromley, however, p. 433, says it was done when Miss Hunter; and Mr. Gulston has written "Miss Hunter" at the back of his impression of the print. In Boydell's catalogue of 1786, she is called "Mrs. Clarke." See No. 78.

II. As described.

Born about 1738; succeeded his father as baronet, in 1762; on his first marriage, took the name of Norcliffe, to the estates of which family his first wife, eldest daughter of Sir John Wray, was heiress. This name he dropped in 1807, and assumed that of Ker. On the death of the 4th Duke of Roxburghe, in 1805, he claimed that title, and, his claim being finally admitted by the House of Lords, in 1812, he became 5th Duke of Roxburghe. Died 19th July, 1823, at Fleurs, near Kelso.

He is noted by Sir Joshua amongst his sitters, in May, 1769, as Sir James Norcliffe, under which name he does not appear to have been identified by the writers on Reynolds's pictures.

A print is thus named in Boydell's catalogue; and Bromley (p. 439) calls it the same person as that by J. Watson after Read; but the two personages do not resemble each other. Bromley mentions Jones as an alias of Miss Kennedy in the next lines, and it is not unlikely that he intended to place the three prints after Calze, Hamilton, and Reynolds together, being all published in the year in which she was so famous.

No. 71 bears a strong resemblance to the Reynolds Miss Kennedy engraved by T. Watson, it may be therefore that Mr. Gulston's note is incorrect, and that No. 78 is Miss Hunter, and No. 71 Miss Kennedy, and that the name Jones is an error.

79. (Miss Kettle.) KETTLE.

I. Before inscription, scratched. T. Kettle pinx. Val Green sculp.

II. As described.

Thus named by Bromley (p. 448), but it is doubtful. The print has been called Mrs. Cantrell, who was a singer in Marylebone Gardens.

80. Henry Laurens. COPLEY.

W. L., sitting in carved arm-chair, directed and facing slightly to left, looking to front, court-dress, ruffles, sword, right hand on table to left, on which are a number of papers, left hand on chair, left foot on stool, curtain above, pillar to right, trees in distance to left. Under, in centre arms, supported by an Indian, motto, OPTIMUM QUOD EVENIT, Painted by J. S. Copley, R.A. Elect. 1782. Engraved by V. Green Mezzotinto Engraver to his Majesty & to the Elector Palatine. Henry Laurens Esqr. President of the American Congress 1778. Publish'd Octr 1st 1782 by J. Stockdale Bookseller, No 181, opposite Burlington House, Piccadilly, London. H. 25; Sub. 23; W. 16.

lution; President as above, afterwards Ambassador to Holland, when he was taken prisoner by the English and committed to the Tower of London; detained there for more than a year, but released on the defeat of Earl Cornwallis (who was then Governor of the Tower) at Yorktown, the terms of the capitulation being drawn up by Colonel Laurens, son of the personage. At the conclusion of the war, Mr. Laurens retired to his country-seat at Mepkin, and died there in 1792, aged 70 years. According to his direction, his body was burnt two days after death. Neither father nor son (who was killed near the end of the war) would ever receive pay or profit for their services.

81. Nicholas Lechmere.

H. L., in oval, directed and facing towards left, looking to front, judge's robes. Under, G: Powle delint V Green Vigorniensis e Sculptoribus regie Majestatis æri incisit. Nicholas Lechmere Knt Baron of the Exchequer Born 1613 Died 1701 From an Original Picture. Published Jan 1st 1776. H. 6; W. $4\frac{1}{2}$; O. D. H. 5; W. $4\frac{1}{8}$.

Appointed as above, 1689.

This portrait with those of Pakington and Perrot (No. 95), Sandys (No. 118), and Thomas (No. 130), are illustrations to "Collections for the History of Worcestershire," by Rev. Tredway Nash, D.D. 2 vols., Fol., London, 1781. The engraver being from this county signs himself "Vigorniensis."

II. As described.

82. Thomas Coke, Earl of Leicester. ZINCKE.

W. L., standing, directed and looking towards front, facing slightly to left, wig, plain dress with sash, star, and sword, right arm on plan on pedestal of large vase to left, compasses in hand, left hand holding case, right leg crossed before left, mansion of Holkham in distance to right, on pedestal, Sir Thomas Coke Knight of the Bath Baron Lovell Vicount Coke Earl of Leicester, at bottom, scraped, Zinks pinx. W Lawranson del. V. Green fecit. H. $24\frac{1}{8}$; W. $15\frac{1}{4}$.

I. As described.

II. At bottom, Publsh'd by J Wefson in Litchfield Street, St. Ann's, Soho.

Created Baron Lovel, 1728; Viscount Coke and Earl of Leicester, 1744. He died, 20th April, 1759, his titles becoming extinct, as his only son died before him.

As the personage is represented young, the painting was probably executed some years before the print.

83. Mrs. Le Maistre. CALZE.

Full H. L., directed nearly to front, facing and looking towards left, high headdress, long plait of hair over right shoulder, low dress with lace veil over, right elbow on table to left, on which is a vase, hands clasped, wreath of flowers round right wrist. II. As described.

III. Under subject, Mrs Lemaistre.

Mary, daughter of James Roche, a barrister in Dublin, and a descendant of the Fermoy family; born in Dublin; was educated in England by her maternal grandfather, Commodore Brown (see page 318); married, first, Stephen Cæsar Le Maistre, Recorder of Rochester and one of the judges in Bengal, who died in 1778; second, in 1779, Baron Nolcken, who died at Richmond, Dec. 16, 1812. She died in Gloucester-place, in her 75th year, 2nd July, 1816. She was celebrated for the charms of her person and elegance of her manners, as well as for a striking resemblance to Marie Antoinette. Captain David Roche, rather a remarkable Irishman, who died in 1793, was her brother. Her eldest daughter was Mrs. Rawlins, who died in 1797.

84. Lady Louisa Manners. REYNOLDS.

W. L., standing, directed towards front, looking towards right, hair falling on right shoulder, left elbow leaning on pedestal at base of column with curtain to right, hand to chin, right arm hangs beside her, hand holding end of sash, landscape in background to left. II. As described.

Born, in 1741, at Eastbourne, Sussex; pupil of Hudson, afterwards of Pine; gained prizes for historical pictures from the Society of Arts; A.R.A., 1778, and would have been raised to Membership except for his death, which occurred suddenly at Norfolk-street, Strand, 4th Feb., 1779. His very dissipated habits had shattered his herculean frame and handsome figure, and led to his early death.

88. Charles Blount, Lord Mountjoy. VANSOMER.

W. L., standing, directed and looking to front, facing slightly to left, robes of Garter, collar and George, ruff, right hand on table to left, on which are plumed hat and despatch addressed to him, left hand on side, pillars in background. Born about 1527; noticed at Court by Henry VIII. and Edward VI.; in 1571, sent to Ireland by Elizabeth as Lord President of Munster; quelled rebellion there, and returned to England. He was again sent as Lord Deputy in 1583, but in consequence of murmuring against his arbitrary assumption of power he was recalled; brought to trial before a special commission in 1592, and sentenced to death. He died a natural death in prison in September, 1592. It was conjectured from his resemblance to Henry VIII. that there might have been relationship between them.

II. As described. Brit: Mus.

On 8th Jan., 1770, a petition, expressive of loyalty, was presented to the Prince of Wales, from the Corporation of Flint, by Sir Richard Perrot, Bart. It appeared soon afterwards that this title was assumed, and that Perrot was an adventurer of very bad character, especially if the account of his life in "Gentleman's Magazine," VOL. XL., be correct. It is very probable that he imposed upon the engraver and swindled him about this print.

102. Peter, the Wild Boy. FALCONET.

W. L., sitting under a tree, directed, facing, and looking towards right, long hair, great coat, twigs in right hand, left hand on bank, at his feet a bowl, on which is Peter Wild Boy. Under, *P. Born, 24th Nov., 1698; succeeded his father, as 3rd Duke, 1711; held various high appointments; in 1778, was visited by their Majesties at his seat, Ambresbury, in Wiltshire; on his way to return thanks for the distinction, hurt his leg in stepping out of his carriage, mortification ensued, and he died on 22nd Oct., 1778, and was buried at Durrisdeer. His wife was the daughter of Henry Hyde, Earl of Rochester, so celebrated by Prior, as “Kitty, beautiful and young,

And wild as colt untam'd.”

The Duke and Duchess gave offence to the Court by their patronage of Gay, the poet, to whose memory they erected a monument in Westminster Abbey, with inscription by Pope.

II. As described.

Born in humble life; when apprenticed to a milliner, in her 16th year, she attracted the attention of Lord Sandwich (see page 584), and lived under his protection for 16 years; she displayed great taste for music, and became generally accomplished. The Rev. Mr. Hackman seems to have been esteemed by her at one period, but on her refusing to continue his acquaintance, he shot her dead, as she was coming out of Covent Garden Theatre, on above-named day. For this murder he was executed at Tyburn, on the 19th of same month.

Sir Joshua Reynolds, Knight, President of the Royal Academy, Member of the Imperial Academy at Florence, Doctor of Laws of the Universities of Oxford and Dublin, And Fellow of the Royal Society.* H. 19; Sub. 17 $\frac{3}{4}$; W. 15.

I. As described.

II. Inscription erased.

Born, 16th July, 1723, at Plympton, Co. Devon; was placed under Hudson; afterwards went to Italy, and on his return became the leading portrait painter of his day; and his works have continually increased in estimation down to the present time. He died in his house in Leicester Fields, 23rd Feb., 1792, and was buried in St. Paul's.

He was the intimate friend of Burke, Goldsmith, and Johnson, and was pre-eminently distinguished at an epoch of excellence in art and literature. His portraits of these and some other literary persons display a power of representing the intellect as well as the face which does not seem to have been possessed by any other painter. His portraits of ladies have been much admired, but it is very doubtful if they surpass in real merit such works as those of Gainsborough and Romney.

111. William Henry, Earl of Rochford. PERONNEAU.

H. L., in oval frame, directed, facing, and looking to front, short wig, frill, hat under left arm, lappets of coat buttoned back. Under, in centre arms, motto, SPES DVRAT AVORVM, *Peronneau pinxit. The picture is thus named in Smith's "Catalogue Raisonné," No. 243, where it is stated to be at the Hague. Although it is probably by Rembrandt, it is excessively doubtful if it be a portrait of the personage named.

115. Mary Isabella, Duchess of Rutland. REYNOLDS.

Born, 16th Aug., 1750; second daughter of Wills, 2nd Viscount Hillsborough, who was created Marquess of Downshire in 1789; married, 2nd Dec., 1773, to James, 7th Earl of Salisbury, who was created Marquess in 1789. She was burnt to death in a fire which consumed the west wing of Hatfield House, 27th Nov., 1835; and only some mutilated remains were found, which were identified as hers by the peculiar formation of the lower jaw. She was another leader of haut ton, of vigorous constitution, and an excellent horse-woman.

117. John, Earl of Sandwich. ZOFFANY.

T. Q. L., sitting, directed to front, facing and looking towards right, embroidered coat and vest, lace frill and ruffles, right hand on knee, holding letter addressed To the Earl of Sandwich First Lord Commissioner of the Admiralty, left elbow on table to right, on which are large books upright with papers at top, curtain in background to left. III. As described.

Born, 3rd Nov., 1718; succeeded his grandfather as 4th Earl, 1729; displayed considerable powers of oratory in Parliament; Minister Plenipotentiary at the Congress of Aix-la-Chapelle, in 1746; and held several State offices, principally, First Lord of the Admiralty, 1748-51, '63, '71-80. He died at his house in Hertford-street, Mayfair, 30th April, 1792. He possessed great convivial talents, was an ardent lover of music, and one of the Founders of the Dilettanti Society. He was very unpopular at one period, and was then nicknamed "Jemmy Twitcher."

118. Sir Edwin Sandys.

David, 3rd Viscount Sarsfield of Kilmallock, suffered attainder in 1691; but, as this attainder would not have been recognised in France, this portrait probably represents the wife of one of his descendants who inherited the title. There may have been a connection, although not a very near one, between this family and the famous Patrick Sarsfield, Earl of Lucan.

I. Before inscription, scratched, P. Falconet pinx. V. Green fecit.

II. As described.

A similar print in reverse, engraved in line by Picot, inscribed "Miss Thellusson," and published March 26, 1773.

According to Bromley, daughter of Peter Thelluson, merchant; died (date not specified). She is not mentioned in the Peerages, for Anne Thelluson was not born until 1774; but as Peter Thelluson was married, 6th Jan., 1760, to Anne Woodford, it may be considered as tolerably certain that this was an elder daughter who died young.

Peter Thelluson died in 1797, leaving a very remarkable will, under which the greater portion of his property was to accumulate for many years, and in the event of there then being no descendant of his, it was to be applied to the Sinking Fund, under direction of Parliament.

His eldest son was created Baron Rendlesham in 1806.

III. Name "Henry" corrected to John.

Born, 1720, of a Yorkshire family, some of whom had been engaged in commerce at Hull and London; succeeded on his father's death, in 1747, to his property at Clapham, and a capital of £100,000, which he increased by his business, as a Russia merchant, to six times that amount. He was eminently distinguished for benevolence, and the great amount of his charities, and was a principal promoter of the propagation of the Gospel in foreign parts. He died at Bath, 7th Nov., 1790. His three sons were M.P.'s; Samuel, for Surrey; Robert, for Colchester; and Henry, for Southwark; the latter, with Clarkson and Wilberforce, who was nephew to the personage, took a leading part in obtaining the abolition of the slave trade.

132. Anne, Viscountess Townshend. REYNOLDS.

Daughters of James, 2nd Earl Waldegrave, and Maria, second daughter of Sir Edward Walpole. Lady Elizabeth Laura, born, 1760; married, 5th May, 1782, her cousin, George, Lord Chewton, who became 4th Earl Waldegrave, in 1784, and died in 1789: she died at Strawberry Hill, 29th Jan., 1816. Lady Charlotte Maria, born, 1761; married, 16th Nov., 1784, George, Earl of Euston, who, after her death, which took place on 1st Feb., 1808, succeeded as 4th Duke of Grafton. Lady Anne Horatia, born, 1762; married, 2nd April, 1786, the Hon. Hugh Seymour Conway, who was styled Lord Hugh Seymour on his father being created Marquess of Hertford, and was Vice-Admiral of the Blue: she died, 12th July, 1801; and her husband died on board the "Tisiphone," on 12th Sept. following.

Hamilton, p. 104, places the eldest daughter to left and the second in centre; but the note signed "H. W.," on the picture, which was one of the leading attractions of the Portrait Exhibition of 1867, places them as mentioned in the description; furthermore, on the Strawberry Hill proof of this plate, Horace Walpole has written under the lady to left "Countess of Euston," under the lady in centre, "Lady Chewton," under the lady to right, "Mrs. Conway." As the picture was of his grandnieces, and painted expressly for himself, Walpole's authority on this point must be considered conclusive.

Publish'd Decr 27th 1770 by J. Boydell Cheapside. Val Green fecit.* H. 16; Sub. $14\frac{3}{4}$; W. $11\frac{3}{8}$.

Companion to Nos. 71, 78, and 83, but not mentioned in Boydell's Catalogue. Nagler places Lady Molineux after Calze, amongst Green's works, but although there is a likeness in this to other prints of her, and the name has been met with written on this print, it cannot be considered as quite proved.

150. Wounded Hussar. CARTER.

W. L., seated on broken-down gun-carriage, woman behind him with her hands clasped. Published by Sayer and Bennett, 4th June, 1776. H. $19\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. $18\frac{1}{4}$; W. 14.

151. Nampont. ID.

Illustrative of the celebrated chapter, in the "Sentimental Journey," headed, "The Dead Ass." Published by Boydell, 9th May, 1774. H. $21\frac{1}{2}$; W. $17\frac{1}{4}$. Under, a separate plate, H. $1\frac{5}{8}$.

152. Youth rescued from Shark. COPLEY.

A boat with eight men rescuing a young man, bathing, from a shark on right, which is just about to turn in the water. Published by the engraver, 1st May, 1779. W. $23\frac{3}{4}$; H. 20; Sub. $18\frac{1}{4}$.

As the original picture is stated on the print to be in the possession of Brook Watson, Esq., it probably represents the scene when he lost a leg at Havannah, in 1749, by the bite of a shark, at sixteen years of age. He was afterwards Commissary-General to the army in North America; M.P. for London, 1781; Lord Mayor, 1796. He died at East Sheen, 2nd Oct., 1807.

153. Acta Historica Reginarum Angliæ. HUCK.

Set of Twelve Plates.

Each plate contains a number of whole length figures, illustrative of the event represented. They were published by V. and R. Green, between 1st Aug., 1786 and 3rd Sept., 1792, though not in the order of the plates, and were dedicated to various royal personages. Each plate is W. $24\frac{1}{4}$; Sub. $23\frac{1}{2}$; H. $19\frac{1}{4}$; Sub. 17.

1. Queen Matilda soliciting the Empress Maude.
2. Queen Eleonora delivered of Edward, first Prince of Wales.
3. Queen Philippa soliciting Edward I. for the lives of the Calais citizens.
4. Queen Margaret and her son attacked by a robber.
5. Lady Elizabeth Grey soliciting the restoration of her husband's lands from Edward IV.
6. Same, when Dowager of Edward IV., delivering up her son to Cardinal Bouchier.
7. Marriage of Henry VIII. and Ann Bullen.
8. Death of Lady Jane Gray
9. Death of Mary, Queen of Scots..
10. Queen Elizabeth at Tilbury Fort.

154. Lap-dogs. Birds' Nest. ID.

Two plates of a lady and five children. H. L.'s, on large scale. Published by V. and R. Green, 1st Sept., 1787. W. $24\frac{1}{2}$; H. 21; Sub. 20.

155. Pamela and Phyloclea. LELY.

T. Q. L.'s, in oval frame, two shepherdesses, with bird's nest. Published by W. Shropshire, 17th Nov., 1777. H. 10; Sub. $8\frac{1}{4}$; W. $7\frac{1}{2}$; O. D. H. $5\frac{3}{8}$; W. $4\frac{1}{2}$.

156. A School. OPIE.

T. Q. L.'s, old schoolmistress sitting on right, listening to boy in spotted dress repeating his lesson, four other boys towards left, one holding a cat. Published by V. Green and Son, 1st Feb., 1786. W. $24\frac{1}{2}$; H. 21; Sub. 20.

157. A Winter's Tale. ID.

T. Q. L.'s, lady sitting on right, telling a story to three young women and two children, closely clustered around her, probably in consequence of the sensational character of the tale. Published by V. Green and Son, 1st Dec., 1785. Same dimensions as last, to which this is companion.

It is probable that some of the figures in these compositions, which are fine specimens of the British School, are portraits of Opie's wife and her relatives. See page 168.

158. Virtuous Comforted. Profligate Punished. PENNY.

Two plates. W. L.'s. In the first, a sick lady addressing her husband, and carefully attended by three women. In the second, a gouty man, with two females, a young man, and a little boy, who are all attending to their own business. Published by Sayer and Bennett, 8th April, 1775. H. $23\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. $22\frac{3}{4}$; W. $17\frac{7}{8}$.

159. The Golden Age. WEST.

W. L.'s, in oval, lengthways, a mother sewing, her child asleep beside her to left, an old man and woman in background to right. Published by Boydell, 4th June, 1777. W. $22\frac{1}{4}$; H. $18\frac{1}{2}$.

160. Fidelia and Spiranza. ID.

W. L.'s, two ladies descending steps, one carrying large book, and cup with serpent, the other with her left hand to her breast, knight on horseback, and other figures in distance to left. Published by Boydell, 9th Nov., 1778. H. $24\frac{1}{8}$; Sub. $23\frac{5}{8}$; W. 17.

Query, if Fidelia be a portrait of Miss Hall? See page 250.

161. Virtue and Innocence. ID.

163. The Air Pump. ID.

In centre a lecturer admitting air to a receiver, in which is a parrot fallen to the bottom in consequence of the exhaust, to left two lads, a young man and woman, to right an old man sitting and a man pointing out the revival of the bird to two young girls, in background a boy pulling down the cage. Under, *Joseph Wright pinxit. J. Boydell excudit 1769. Valentine Green del & fecit. The Picture is in the National Gallery.

All these persons are undoubtedly portraits. Bromley, p. 448, mentions the family of Mr. Williams of Derby as engraved by this artist. The young people have a resemblance to those in No. 141.

See page 260.

JOHN GREENWOOD was born in Boston, 7th Dec., 1727; son of Samuel Greenwood, and nephew of Professor Isaac Greenwood of Harvard College; in 1752, he went to Surinam, afterwards to Holland, practising painting and dealing in works of art. He came to London about 1763, and practised as a painter and engraver in mezzotinto up to 1773, when he quitted this profession and became an auctioneer, at first in the Haymarket, afterwards in Leicester-square. He died at Margate, 15th Sept., 1792. His grandson was late Sergeant-at-arms to the House at Wellington, New Zealand.*

In Holland he engraved portraits of Simon Fokke, after Buys, T. Q. L., sitting, and holding up a print; Schouman and others; possibly also No. 3. may have been engraved there.

His own portrait was engraved by Pether.

JOHN GRIFFIER was born at Amsterdam, in 1645; came to England about 1667, and painted landscapes; purchased a vessel in which he lived on the Thames, and, having amassed some money, set sail for Rotterdam, but was wrecked, and lost all his possessions. He again came to England after a few years, and took a house at Milbank, where he died in 1718.

He is mentioned as having etched some plates of birds and animals, but not as working in mezzotinto, which was probably owing to his use of slight initials, or a monogram of them only, on his prints.

Brulliot (Dictionnaire des Monogrammes, Ed. 1832, Appendice, No. 256, 2156 bis), gives as his a monogram which is not precisely that on the following prints, but composed, like it, of the letters J. and G.

1. (Daniel Boon.)

Playing on a violin, with asses braying, owls screeching, &c., half-sheet, mezz., mentioned in E. W. Martin's sale, lot 690.

7. Madame de Montespan.

H. L., in oval, directed to front, facing and looking towards left, curls, very low dress. Under, Diane Francoise Mse de Montespan. I. G. f. H. $7\frac{3}{4}$; Sub. $5\frac{1}{2}$; W. $5\frac{1}{4}$; O. D. H. $5\frac{5}{8}$; W. $4\frac{5}{8}$.

Born, 1641; married, 1663, the Marquis de Montespan; succeeded Madame La Vallière in the affections of Louis XIV. about 1670; left his court in 1686, entered a convent, and died in 1707, preserving almost all her beauty to the last.

8. Mary, Princess of Orange.

H. L., in oval, directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, hair in curls, necklace, low dress. Under, Maria Princeps Auriaca. H. $7\frac{3}{4}$; Sub. $6\frac{5}{8}$; W. $5\frac{3}{8}$; O. D. H. $5\frac{3}{4}$; W. $4\frac{5}{8}$.

9. William, Prince of Orange.

H. L., in oval, directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, long wig, lace cravat, armour. Under, Guilielmus Henricus D.G. Princeps Auriacus I. G. F. H. $7\frac{3}{4}$; Sub. $6\frac{5}{8}$; W. $5\frac{3}{8}$; O. D. H. $5\frac{3}{4}$; W. $4\frac{5}{8}$.

These last prints are similar in same direction to those of the same personages by A. Blooteling. (Wessely, Nos. 35, 47.)

JOSEPH GROZER executed the following prints between the years 1786 and 1797. Nagler states that he was born about 1755, but this appears to be merely a guess. Redgrave does not even give his Christian name correctly.

So many of his plates appear to have fallen into other hands before 1799, that he probably died somewhat before that date.

He engraved in the stipple method portraits of D. MacLeod, Lady St. Asaph, and others.

1. William Augustus Bowles. HARDY.

H. L., directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, plumes in cap, gorget, light hunting shirt, armlet. Under, Painted by T Hardy. Engraved by I Grozer. William Augustus Bowles, Chief of the Embassy from the Creeke & Cherokee Nations. Published as the Act directs, March 26, 1791. by T Hardy No 4 Great Marlborough Street. H. 16½; Sub. 14½; W. 11¾.

I. Inscription in open letters.

II. As described.

In the "Gentleman's Magazine," for 1791, will be found several letters relating to the discovery of a colony of Welsh descent in North America called the "Madawgwys," and stating that the theory is supported by the evidence of this Mr. Bowles; at p. 800 will be found a letter stating that Bowles was only an Indian trader in 1777, and not a chief, but that there was a chief of the Creek Nation called "Mad Dog," hence the story. This letter does not appear to have been answered, although further allusion is made to the traditions in the next year.

2. Master Thomas Braddyl. REYNOLDS.

W. L., standing, directed nearly to front, looking towards left, leaning against a large vase to right, right hand holding hat, left hand pointing downwards, landscape in distance to left. Under, Painted by Sir Joshua Reynolds Engrav'd by J Grozer Master Braddyl. Publish'd May 17th 1786 by J Grozer No 8 Castle Street Leicester Fields. H. 18½; Sub. 17¾; W. 14. Brit: Mus.

According to Bromley, son of Wilson Braddyl, Esq., of Conyshead Priory, Lancaster.

3. George Byng. DOWNMAN.

H. L., standing, directed towards, facing, and looking almost in profile to left, short queue, dark coat, light vest, within which right hand is placed. Under, W. Austin excudit J. Downman pinxt Engrav'd by J Grozer. George Byng Esqr Publish'd as the Act directs March 31st 1786 by Wm Austin, Drawing Master, Engraver & Print Merchant, No 195 Piccadilly near St James's Church. H. 15½; Sub. 14; W. 11.

I. Before "W. Austin excudit," remainder of inscription in traced letters.

II. As described.

Grandson of George, 1st Viscount Torrington; M.P. for Wigan, afterwards for Middlesex, in several Parliaments; married, 1761, Anne, daughter of William Conolly of Castletown, Ireland. He died at Bath, 28th Oct., 1789.

4. James, Earl of Cardigan. ROMNEY.

H. L., directed to left, facing towards and looking to front, hair powdered and tied at back, plain coat, frill. Under, in centre arms, motto, EN GRACE AFEIE, Painted by G Romney Engrav'd by J Grozer The Right Honble James Brudenell, Earl of Cardigan &c. &c. &c. Constable & Governor of Windsor Castle & Keeper of the Privy Purse to the King. From the Original Picture in the Possession of Anthony Storer Esqr. Published as the Act directs Sep. 29 1792 by J Grozer No 8 Castle Street Leicester Square. H. 15; Sub. 12 $\frac{3}{4}$; W. 10 $\frac{3}{4}$.

Born, 1725; M.P. for Shaftesbury, Hastings, and Bedwin; created Baron Brudenell, 1780; in 1790, succeeded his brother as 5th Earl of Cardigan. He died at Grosvenor-street, 24th Feb., 1811.

5. Lord John Cavendish. REYNOLDS.

H. L., directed to left, looking to front, plain coat. Under, Painted in 1768 by Sir Josa Reynolds P.R.A. W Austin ext. Engrav'd by J. Grozer. The Right Honble Lord John Cavendish, Uncle to his Grace the Duke of Devonshire. Publish'd as the Act directs March 31st 1786 by Wm Austin, Drawing Master, Engraver & Print Merchant No 195 Piccadilly near St James's Church. H. 15 $\frac{1}{2}$; Sub. 13 $\frac{3}{4}$; W. 11. Brit: Mus.

Born, 1732; 4th son of 3rd Duke of Devonshire; M.P. for Weymouth, Knaresborough, York, and Co. Derby; Chancellor of the Exchequer, 1782; again, in 1783. He died 19th Dec., 1796.

6. Eusby Cleaver. STEWART.

Bromley, p. 354; print dated, 1790.

Native of Buckinghamshire; educated at Oxford; through the interest of the Grenville family obtained the Rectory of Petworth; afterwards, in 1789, the Bishopric of Cork; he was translated to Ferns in the same year, and became Archbishop of Dublin in 1809. He died at Tunbridge Wells, Dec. 1819.

7. (John Craufurd.) REYNOLDS.

H. L., sitting, directed and facing slightly to left, looking to front, left elbow on table, hand to chin. Under, scratched, Painted by Sir Joshua Reynolds R.A. Engraved by Joseph Grozer. H. 14 $\frac{1}{2}$; Sub. 12; W. 10 $\frac{3}{4}$. Brit: Mus.

M.P. for Old Sarum, in 1768, afterwards for Co. Renfrew; friend of Charles James Fox. Died in 1814.

8. Henrietta Frances, Viscountess Duncannon. REYNOLDS.

H. L., directed to, facing and looking towards right, hair high and powdered, black silk mantle, to front of which a bunch of flowers is attached, trees and water in distance to right. Under, scratched, Painted by Sir Josa Reynolds Engraved by Josh Grozer Viscountess Duncannon Publish'd as the Act directs Decr 21st 1785 by Wm Austin Drawg Marster & Print Merchant at his Patriotic Print rooms, No 41 St James Street. H. 15½; Sub. 14; W. 11.

I. Before any inscription. Brit: Mus.

II. As described.

III. Date of publication altered to March 31st 1786.

Born, 1761; daughter of John, 1st Earl Spencer, and younger sister of Georgiana, Duchess of Devonshire; married, Nov., 1780, to the following personage. The Countess died at Florence, 11th Nov., 1811.

9. Frederick, Viscount Duncannon. ID.

H. L., directed to right, facing towards and looking to front, short powdered hair, plain coat. Under, Wm Austin excudit Painted by Sir Josa Reynolds P.R.A. Engrav'd by J Grozer The Right Honble William Ponsonby Viscount Duncannon, Only Son of the Earl of Besborough and Brother in law to Earl Spencer. Publish'd as the Act directs March 31st 1786 by Wm Austin Drawing Master, Engraver & Print Merchant No 195 Piccadilly near St James's Church. H. 15½; Sub. 14; W. 11.

I. Before any inscription. Brit: Mus.

II. In scratched letters, Painted by Sir Josa Reynolds. Engraved by Josh Grozer Viscount Duncannon Publish'd as the Act directs Decr 21 1785 by Wm Austin Drawg Marster and Print Merchant at his Patriotic Print Rooms No 41 St James's Street.

III. As described.

Born, 4th Jan., 1758; educated at Oxford; M.P. for Knaresborough, and held office in the Rockingham administrations, in 1782-3; in 1793, succeeded his father (see page 223) as 3rd Earl of Besborough. He died at Canford House, Dorsetshire, the seat of his youngest son, Lord de Mauley, 3rd Feb., 1844.

It is remarkable that the inscription on the print should give a wrong Christian name; the 2nd Earl had two sons named William, but they both died when infants.

Duncombe, see Legge.

10. Euhun Sang. DANLOUX.

H. L., directed slightly to left, facing to front, looking slightly to right, cap, gown fastened at throat, Chinese characters at top to left. Under, arms, motto, JE SUIS CONSTANT, H Danloux Pinxt. J. Grozer Sculpt. *Euhun Sang Lum Akao. The Chinese arrived at London, in 1793. I. Before any inscription. Brit: Mus.

II. As described. Brit: Mus.

Born 30th May, 1748; succeeded his father, in 1756, as 4th Earl in the Peerage of Ireland, and 2nd Earl in that of England; President of the Council, 1794, again in 1806; on the death of the Marquess of Rockingham (see page 504) succeeded to the great Wentworth estates, in Yorkshire and Ireland; in 1795, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, but was recalled in consequence of his support of Mr. Grattan's Bill for the Relief of the Catholics. He died at Milton House, near Peterborough, 8th Feb., 1833.

12. Frances Harris. REYNOLDS.

W. L., a child, directed to front, her right hand on head of large dog, sitting beside her towards left, her left hand holding her dress, trees in background, landscape in distance to left. Under, in centre arms, motto, FINEM RESPICE, Painted by Sir Josa Reynolds Engraved by J. Grozer. The Honble Miss Frances Harris. From an Original Picture in the Possession of Earl Darnley, To whom this Plate is Dedicated by his most Obedient Humble Servant Joseph Grozer. Publish'd as the Act directs July 20 1791 by J Grozer No 8 Castle Street Leicester Square. H. 18 $\frac{1}{2}$; Sub. 17 $\frac{1}{4}$; W. 14.

I. Before any inscription. Brit: Mus.

II. Inscription in open letters, without "July 20."

III. As described. Brit: Mus.

IV. Address after "Act directs," erased, instead, Jan 1 1799. by H Roemer No 4 Clare Court, Drury Lane.

Born, 1784; second daughter of Sir James Harris, who was created Lord Malmesbury in 1788, and Earl of Malmesbury, 1800; married, 1815, the Hon. Sir Galbraith-Lowry Cole, a distinguished officer in the Peninsula War, and second son of the 1st Earl of Enniskillen.

It is said that this was the last portrait painted by Sir Joshua Reynolds.

13. Robert, Lord Hobart. LAWRENCE.

T. Q. L., standing, directed to front, looking and facing towards left, plain dress, coat buttoned, right hand on paper lettered The Convention Bill on table to left on which are books, left hand hanging beside him, fluted column and curtain in background. Under, in centre arms, *Painted by T Lawrence R.A. Engraved by J Grozer The Right Honble Lord Hobart. London Published as the Act directs May 1796 by I. II. As described.

Mary, daughter of Baptist Proby, D.D., Dean of Litchfield, and brother to John, 1st Lord Carysfort; married, 22nd April, 1782, Francis Humberston Mackenzie, who succeeded to the estates of Seaforth and Humberston on the murder, by the Mahrattas, of his elder brother, in April, 1783. He was descendant of the Earls of Seaforth, a title attained in 1715, and was created Lord Seaforth and Baron Mackenzie of Kintail, 26th Oct., 1797; was Governor of Barbadoes for some years, and died in Edinburgh, aged 61, 11th Jan., 1815. His sons having pre-deceased him, the title became extinct. Lady Seaforth died at Edinburgh, 27th Feb., 1829, aged 75.

The child is, in all probability, their eldest daughter, Mary Frederica Elizabeth, who married, first, at Barbadoes, 6th Nov., 1804, Sir Samuel Hood; second, James Alexander Stewart, Esq., who assumed the name of Mackenzie.

To this lady, Walter Scott, in 1818, addressed the lines :

"And thou, gentle dame, who must bear, to thy grief,
For thy clan and thy country, the cares of a chief,
Whom brief rolling moons in six changes have left,
Of thy husband, and father, and brethren bereft;
To thine ear of affection how sad is the hail
That salutes thee, the Heir of the line of Kintail."

It is to be noted that Sir Joshua's Pocket-book and also Bromley, p. 444, call this lady "Mrs. Seaforth and Child." If the identity of the personage be now here correctly ascertained, the full name in the Pocket-book should have been "Mrs. Mackenzie of Seaforth." The surname Seaforth has not been met with, as belonging to anyone of note at the period.

John Mudge is mentioned by Bromley, p. 392, as engraved by F. Grozer, 1790. If this be not entirely an error, it is probably another state of the plate by Dickinson (see page 189), which is not mentioned by Bromley.

18. Abraham Newland. ROMNEY.

T. Q. L., standing, directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, powdered hair, plain dress, right hand in pocket, left hand on table to right on which are bank-note, inkstand, and letter addressed to the personage, curtain in background. Under, Pub. as the Act directs Augt 20 1795 by J. Grozer No 8 Castle Street, Leicester Fields.

Painted by Geo. Romney. Engraved by J. Grozer. Abraham Newland Esqr. Chief Cashier of the Bank of England. To the Governor Deputy Governor and Directors of the Bank of England. This Plate is with Permission dedicated by their most Obedient Humble Servant J Grozer. H. 18 $\frac{5}{8}$; Sub. 16 $\frac{7}{8}$; W. 14.

I. As described.

II. Address altered to 40 Gerrard Street Soho London.

See page 10.

William Preston, Bishop of Ferns, proof by Grozer, is mentioned in Musgrave Catalogue, p. 110. This may be an error of personage for Eusby Cleaver (No. 6), or of engraver for Dickinson. See page 193.

Seaforth. See No. 17.

Miss Smith of Westminster, as a Shepherdess, after Westal, is mentioned by Bromley, p. 448. Query, if No. 26.

Thomas Storer, after Dance, by Grozer, is mentioned in Musgrave Catalogue, p. 93.

19. Miss Wallis. GRAHAM.

W. L., standing, directed towards front, facing and looking towards right, hair dressed full and long, light dress, hands clasped, vase of flowers on table to right, trees and fountain in distance to left. Under, Painted by J Graham Engraved by J Grozer Miss Wallis in the Character of Juliet. Published as the Act directs Jany 7 1796 by W Atkins 35 Leicester Square. H. 24 $\frac{1}{2}$; Sub. 23 $\frac{7}{8}$; W. 15.

I. Inscription in open letters.

II. As described. Brit : Mus.

Born at Richmond, in Yorkshire; daughter of an actor; appeared on the stage in Dublin when a child; afterwards at various provincial theatres, at Bath and at Covent Garden; on her marriage with Mr. Campbell, in 1797, she left the stage. She is spoken of as "most unassuming, yet accomplished, a good daughter, a good sister, and a good wife." Her pleasing portrait fully confirms this.

20. (John Ward.) LAWRENCE.

Nearly W. L., sitting, directed towards front, facing and looking towards right, plain dress, right elbow on table to left, on which is inkstand, hand holding paper, left hand hanging over arm of chair.

Under, in centre arms, Painted by T Lawrence R.A. Engraved by J Grozer. From an original picture in the possession of John Ward Esqr. H. $19\frac{1}{2}$; Sub. $17\frac{3}{4}$; W. 14.

Born, 1764; Collector of Customs at Cowes and Dover. Died 16th June, 1834.

21. Ann Yearsley. SHIELLS.

T. Q. L., sitting at a table, directed and facing towards right, looking to front, large cap, short sleeves, writing, To Mrs N——n

*Sequester'd from the busy whirl of Permit soft fancy in the Vale to stray
In dark Obscurity my Life began
Where Science scorn'd to Cheer the dreary way.*

Under, Painted by Sarah Shiells Engraved by Joseph Grozer. Ann Yearsley, The Bristol Milkwoman. London, Publish'd as the Act directs May 16th 1787, by Sarah Shiells Lambeth Terrace, Mr Dickinson Bond Street, & Mr Boydell Cheapside. H. $17\frac{1}{8}$; Sub. $16\frac{3}{8}$; W. 13.

Born, about 1756; and lived in above-named position until her poetical talents were brought forward by Hannah More, who revised her pieces (mostly written under the name "Lactilla"), which were published, and realised a profit of £600, with which she set up a circulating library at Bristol. She afterwards retired to Melksham, Wilts, where she died, 8th May, 1806. The above extract may be taken as a fair specimen of her rhyming.

22. Duke and Duchess of York. SINGLETON.

W. L.'s, with portraits of George III., Queen Charlotte, Prince of Wales, and several others. Under, London Publish'd Jan'y 4 1797, by J Brydon at his Looking Glafs & Print Warehouse, Charing Cross. Painted by H. Singleton. Engraved by J. Grozer. The Marriage Ceremony of their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of York. At Buckingham House on the 29 of September 1791. W. $24\frac{3}{4}$; H. $20\frac{1}{8}$; Sub. $19\frac{3}{4}$.

24. Morning Amusement. REYNOLDS.

W. L.'s, six ladies, one reading, some of the others making lace.

25. Death of Dido. ID.

W. L., on funeral pyre, Æneas sailing away in distance to right. Published by the Engraver, 30th May 1796. Said by Leslie, VOL. II., p. 343, to be the portrait of Miss Wateridge, a model.

26. Shepherdess. ID.

W. L., a young girl, right hand on rustic seat, left hand to cheek, three lambs to right. H. $17\frac{3}{8}$; Sub. $16\frac{3}{8}$; W. $13\frac{3}{4}$.

27. Officer. ROMNEY.

H. L., directed and facing towards left, looking to front, uniform, epaulette on right shoulder. Under, Painted by G Romney Esqr. Engraved by J. Grozer. H. ; Sub. $12\frac{3}{4}$; W. 11.

The name Col. Butler has been written on this.

JOHN GOTTFRIED HAID was born in Wurtemberg, in 1730. A very great number of works in mezzotinto were produced by his father, brothers, and other relatives, who resided at Augsburg. He was invited to London by Boydell, and engraved the following in this country. He afterwards returned to Germany, and died in 1776.

1. Charles, Lord Camden. REYNOLDS.

T. Q. L., standing, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, wig, robes, curtain overhead, right arm leaning on back of chair to left, left hand on book upright on table to left. Under, J. Reynolds pinxt. J. G. Haid fecit. Lord Camden. H. 14; Sub. $12\frac{5}{8}$; W. 10.

Similar in same direction to the W. L. by Ravenet, after Reynolds, engraved in line; published by Boydell, 1766.

Born, 1713; son of Sir John Pratt, Chief Justice of the King's Bench; went to the Bar, but for years had a most limited practice; M.P. for Downton, 1754; Recorder of Bath, 1759; Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, and knighted, in Dec., 1761; gained great popularity by discharging Wilkes, in 1763; created Baron Camden, 1765; Lord Chancellor, 1766; Earl Camden, in 1786. He died, 18th April, 1794.

Bromley, p. 325, mentions a W. L. of Lord Camden, after Reynolds, by J. G. Haid. This may be a first state of the foregoing before the plate was cut, or it may be of another picture which represents the personage sitting in robes; there is also a W. L., without name of painter, of him standing, holding Magna Charta, to right figure of Britannia holding Amor Populi. Neither of these prints are mentioned by Bromley; the descriptions of them will be found under "Engraver not ascertained."

2. Samuel Foote. ZOFFANY.

W. L.'s, Foote on right as the Major of the Westminster Militia, with large boots and cane in right hand, recounting the circumstances of the death of his predecessor, Major Molossus, to Sir Jacob Jollop, who stands on left, in large wig, hands on his sides, guns, map of London, arms, and buckets with initials "Sir J. J." hung on walls, to left a table on which are books, to right an armchair. Under, J. Boydell Excudit. Zoffanij Pinxit. J. G. Haid fecit. Mr Foote in the Character of Major Sturgeon in the Mayor of Garratt. Published according to Act of Parliament August 14th 1765 by John Boydell Engraver in Cheapside, London. W. 19 $\frac{3}{8}$; H. 17; Sub. 16.

I. Before inscription, scratched, Zoffanij Pinxit Published as ye Act directs Augt 1st 1765 by J. Boydell in Cheapside. J. G. Haid fecit.

II. As described.

See page 102. The piece was written by Foote, and produced at the little theatre in the Haymarket, in 1763. The character of Sir Jacob is stated to have been performed by Mr. Hayes, an actor unknown to fame, but who, as delineated by Zoffany, must have possessed merit. Foote, however, does not seem to have promoted the fortunes of any of the actors who appeared on his stage, with the exception of Weston.

3. David Garrick. ID.

W. L.'s, Garrick as the Farmer, seated in centre, his right hand on table beside him, his left hand holding his pipe, girl and boy to left, farmer's wife to right, scene represents cottage and its furniture. Under, J. Boydell Excudit Zoffanij Pinxit. J. G. Haid fecit. Mr

Garrick in the Farmers Return. Published according to Act of Parliament March 1st 1766 by J. Boydell, Engraver in Cheapside, London. W. 19 $\frac{7}{8}$; H. 17; Sub. 15 $\frac{3}{4}$.

I. Before inscription, scratched, Zoffanij Pinxt Jno Boydell excudit 1766. Haid fecit.

II. As described.

This interlude was written by Garrick, in 1762, for the benefit of Mrs. Pritchard. It represents a farmer returning from London, who relates to his family the various things he had seen, such as the King and Queen and the Cock-lane Ghost. The wife is said to be the portrait of Mrs. Bradshaw.

4. The Musician. AMOROSO.

T. Q. L., a young man, sitting, singing and playing the guitar, looking to front, cap, small mustache. Under, in centre arms, motto, A CUSPIDE CORONA, *Amoroso Pinxt. J. Godfrid Haid fecit. The four following are published by Boydell, H. 20; Sub. 18; W. 14.

I. Before inscription, artist's and publisher's names scratched.

II. With inscription.

6. Achilles. REMBRANDT.

Young warrior in profile, helmet and armour. From the picture in the collection of Sir Joshua Reynolds.

7. De Witt. ID.

A young man, sitting, looking to front, cap, gown, chain round neck. From the picture in the collection of Henry Isaac, Esq.

8. Rembrandt's Mistress. ID.

A young woman, sitting, on right, very long hair, right hand holding a letter, looking-glass to left, old woman in background.

Smith (Catalogue Raisonné, Part VII., p. 13) considers that the picture represents Bathsheba receiving a message from David.

9. Rembrandt's Mother. ID.

An old woman, sitting, trimming her nails with scissors. From the picture in the possession of Mr. Ingham Foster.

ROBERT HANCOCK is stated by Redgrave to have been born in Staffordshire; employed in the Pottery Works at Battersea, and later in his native county; saved about £6,000, which he lost by the failure of a bank, and then commenced as an artist, executing small portraits in the crayon manner, amongst them one of S. T. Coleridge, in 1796; and that he resided for the latter part of his life at Bristol.

He is elsewhere mentioned as the discoverer of the art of printing on china, and as the engraver of the first plate that was used for calico printing.

It is not an unreasonable supposition that he learned engraving in mezzotinto at Battersea from Brooks or Frye, and that on the breaking up of the works there he removed to Worcester, and executed the following; V. Green being, as already mentioned, one of his pupils.

The prints produced after the loss of his money are chiefly little portraits for booksellers; amongst them are, John Freeth, Job Hart, Hugh Horsman, John Wesley; but none of them are mezzotinto.

1. Lady Chambers. REYNOLDS.

H. L., in oval, similar, in same direction, to print by M'Ardell. Under, Ƴ Reynolds Pinxt. R Hancock fecit. Lady Chambers. H. 5 $\frac{3}{4}$; W. 4 $\frac{1}{2}$; O. D. H. 4 $\frac{3}{8}$; W. 3 $\frac{7}{8}$. Brit: Mus.

2. Miss Day. REYNOLDS.

Bromley, p. 421, small oval. Probably, as the foregoing, similar to M'Ardell's print.

3. (Robert Hancock.) (WRIGHT.)

H. L., directed, facing, and looking towards right, short wig, plain coat, neckcloth, hat under left arm, uncleaned and not quite finished. H. 14; Sub. 12 $\frac{3}{4}$; W. 10 $\frac{1}{4}$.

In a MS., accompanying this impression, it is stated that the mezzotinto from a picture by Mr. Wright, is an essay of Hancock's, but not approving it, he destroyed the plate, reserving only one impression. Bromley, p. 404, calls the print unique.

4. William Hopley. WRIGHT.

W. L., standing, directed and looking to front, gown and mace, porch of cathedral to right, in background to left archway, houses and spire in distance. Under, I Wright Pinxt. R: Hancock fecit. William Hopley, Virger of the Cathedral Church of Worcester. H. 14; Sub. 12 $\frac{3}{4}$; W. 10.

I. Before any inscription.

II. As described. Brit: Mus.

III. At bottom, Pubd by W Richardson Antient & Modern Print Warehouse 174 Strand.

5. William Kingsley. REYNOLDS.

Bromley, p. 380. See under Houston.

6. R. Lovett. WRIGHT.

T. Q. L., sitting, facing towards and looking to front, wig, flowered gown, hands on open book, lettered Philosophical Essay, which, with a diagram, electrical machine, and inkstand, lie on a table to right, a globe underneath, curtain and book-shelves in background. Under, I. Wright Pinxt. R. Hancock fecit. R. Lovett, of the Cathedral Church of Worcester. Author of Philosophical Essays in Three Parts. H. 14; Sub. 12 $\frac{5}{8}$; W. 10.

I. Before any inscription.

II. As described. Brit: Mus.

III. At bottom, Pubd by W Richardson Antient & Modern Print Warehouse 174 Strand.

7. (Edward Scofield.) (WRIGHT.)

Bromley, p. 456. A dwarf, aged 71, Deputy Clerk of St. Chad's, Shrewsbury.

Before any inscription. Brit: Mus.

A small mezzotinto of Wright of Frome, father to Wright the painter, is catalogued in the Buckingham Sale (1834), lot 3,082. The print is mentioned by Bromley, p. 416, but not as mezzotinto.

CHARLES HANDASYDE was a miniature and enamel painter; resided in Covent Garden, and exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1776.

1. (C. Handasyde.)

H. L., in oval, directed to left, facing towards and looking to front, three-cornered hat. H. $2\frac{1}{2}$; W. $2\frac{1}{2}$; O. D. H. $2\frac{1}{2}$; W. 2.

2. (Id.)

Head in oval, facing towards left, looking to front, long hair, wide collar. H. $3\frac{1}{8}$; W. $2\frac{1}{2}$; O. D. H. $2\frac{3}{8}$; W. $2\frac{1}{4}$.

T. HARDY practised both as painter and engraver, the latter chiefly in mezzotinto. Redgrave incorrectly gives J. as the initial of his Christian name, and does not mention his prints. It might have had something to say to the suppression of his full Christian name that a Thomas Hardy was tried at the same time as John Horne Tooke, in 1794.

1. Arthur Blayney. BEECHEY.

H. L., directed, facing, and looking towards left, powdered hair, plain coat. Under, Painted by Wm Beechey A.R.A. Portrait Painter to Her Majesty. Engrav'd by T: Hardy. Arthur Blayney Esqr. H. 15; Sub. 13; W. 11.

The name of Dussek, the musician, has been given to this print, but the authority is incomplete.

HARRIS is given by Redgrave as the name of three different persons who might have executed the following, as far as dates are concerned. The amateur, Moses Harris, is perhaps the most likely, if it be one of the three.

Miss Fordyce. REYNOLDS.

H. L., directed to front, facing and looking towards music-book to left, playing guitar, similar in same direction to circular print by J. Watson. Under, Reynolds pinxit Harris fecit. Miss Fordyce. Printed for John Bowles at the Black Horse in Cornhill. H. 6; Sub. $5\frac{1}{2}$; W. $4\frac{1}{2}$.

FRANCIS HAWARD was born 19th April, 1759; student at the Royal Academy, in 1776, and Associate Engraver, in 1783. He died at his house, 29 Marsh-street, Lambeth, in 1797; and his widow received a pension from the Royal Academy for over forty years. Foregoing are the particulars given by Sandby, but the print of Cymon and Iphigenia, is published, June 4th, 1797, by Francis Haward, No. 3 Little George-street, Westminster.

He worked at first in the mezzotinto method, but about 1782 changed to the stipple manner, in which he engraved the Infant Academy and Mrs. Siddons, after Reynolds, and some other plates. It is much to be regretted that the artist, who could produce such a charming work as Master Bunbury, should not have continued to exercise his talents in the mode in which his success had been so signal.

1. Master Bunbury. REYNOLDS.

Full T. Q. L., a boy, sitting on a bank under trees, directed and looking to front, hair long, throat uncovered, short coatee buttoned across chest, hands resting on his legs. Under, *Painted by Sir Joshua Reynolds. I. Before inscription, scratched, Painted, by Sir Joshua Reynolds. Engrav'd, by Francis Howard. London Publish'd Novr 1st 1781 by Frs Howard, Lambeth Marsh, near the Turnpike.

II. As described.

III. Modern.

Henry Edward, son of Henry William Bunbury, the artist, and Catherine Horneck (see page 62), born, 4th May, 1778; succeeded his uncle as 7th Baronet, in 1821. Died, 13th April, 1860. He was a distinguished officer; Lieutenant-General, 1830; for some years M.P. for Suffolk, and Under Secretary for War, 1809-16. His second wife (married, Sept., 1830) was the daughter of the Hon. George and Lady Sarah Napier. See page 488.

2. James Ferguson. NORTHCOTE.

Euphrasia Vide Murphys Grecian Daughter.* H. ; Sub. $8\frac{7}{8}$; W. $7\frac{1}{2}$; O. D. H. $5\frac{5}{8}$; W. $4\frac{1}{4}$.

D. HEINS was a native of Germany; he settled in Norwich, and practised as a portrait painter there about the middle of last century; the following are by him, and although they do not show proficiency in the art, they have, at least, the merit of being very rare.

1. Robert Camell.

T. Q. L., sitting, directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, cap, bands, gown, writing on paper on table to left, on which is a lighted candle, left arm over back of chair. Under, Robertus Camell, L.L.D. Heins pinxit et Fecit. H. 14; Sub. $12\frac{1}{4}$; W. $9\frac{7}{8}$.

I. As described.

II. Plate cut 1 at top and bottom, $\frac{1}{4}$ on left, $\frac{3}{4}$ on right side; subject scraped away $1\frac{3}{4}$ from bottom, on it Robertus Camell L.L.D.

According to Bromley, Rector of Bradwell, Suffolk, and died, 1732.

2. Peter Finch.

II. As described.

Died, 1754, in his 92nd year.

3. Thomas Gooch.

T. Q. L., sitting, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, robes, attitude and accessories similar in reverse to print of Archbishop Tillotson, after Kneller, by J. Simon. Under, Thomas

Gooch S.T.P. Episc Norwic. Heins Pinx & Fecit 1741. II. 13 $\frac{1}{2}$; Sub. 12 $\frac{1}{4}$; W. 9 $\frac{3}{8}$.

I. Unfinished.

II. As described.

Master of Caius College, Cambridge; Vice-Chancellor of that University; Bishop of Bristol, 1737; Norwich, 1738; Ely, 1748; succeeded his brother as 2nd Baronet, 1751. Died, 14th Feb., 1754.

CHARLES HOWARD HODGES was born, according to Redgrave, in 1774; but this cannot be correct, for he could not have engraved at such an extraordinarily early age as the dates on his prints would then prove; Joubert and Nagler also give earlier dates for his birth. About 1794, he left this country and went to Holland, where he resided until his death, practising as a portrait painter, but continuing for some years to produce mezzotinto portraits; amongst these are Admiral de Winter, dated 1796; General Daendels; Archibald MacLaine, D.D., dated from the Hague, 1796; General Pichegru; the Shipbuilder and his Wife, after Rembrandt, dated 1802; and Schimmelpenninck, whole length, dated 1806. Bryan and Redgrave state that he died in 1837, at Amsterdam, aged 63.

As his earlier prints are published by that artist, it may be presumed that he was a pupil of John Raphael Smith, and his fine painter-like style would lead to the same conclusion. His manipulation also was very able, the portrait of Schimmelpenninck being generally quoted as one of the most excellent examples of workmanship in mezzotinto of feathers, lace, satins, and other textures. This portrait was painted as well as engraved by Hodges, and probably led to such extensive practice in portrait painting that he discontinued engraving.

It will be observed that the initial of the engraver's Christian name on No. 8 is "E.;" this is undoubtedly a mistake for "C.," as the print is clearly by the same hand as its companion No. 36.

The name "E. Hedges," does however occur as publisher of some small prints at this period.

1. James Adair. ROMNEY.

T. Q. L., standing, directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, wig, bands, gown, right arm on table to left, on which is inkstand, hand holding paper, left arm hanging beside him. Under,

10. John Christian Curwen. SMIRKE.

Bromley, p. 342.

John Christian, of the family of that name (which was originally M'Christen) in the Isle of Man, married (his second wife), Isabella, only daughter and heiress of Henry Curwen of Workington, and, in 1790, assumed the name and arms of Curwen. He was High Sheriff of Cumberland in 1784, afterwards M.P. for Carlisle or for Cumberland almost continuously to his death, which occurred at Workington Hall, 11th Dec., 1828, at the age of 72. He was a scientific agriculturist.

III. Inscription erased; instead, Sir Joshua Reynolds pinxt. C Hodges fecit. Lady Dashwood and Child. London Publish'd Decr 1st 1786 by J Aldrich at 5 Piazza, Covent Garden.

The ground of this print partakes considerably of the stipple manner. An impression from a similar plate, not quite finished, in pure mezzotinto has been met with. H. 16 $\frac{3}{8}$; Sub. 14 $\frac{5}{8}$; W. 12 $\frac{1}{2}$. This may have been done by Hodges, and perhaps been destroyed on purpose or by some accident.

Mary Ellen, eldest daughter of Mr. Graham, niece of Lord Newhaven; married, 17th July, 1780, Sir Henry Watkin Dashwood, Bart., of Kirtlington Park, Oxfordshire; was lady of the bedchamber to the Princesses and governess of the royal nursery at Carlton House. She died in Albemarle-street, 6th Oct., 1796.

The child was Henry George Mayne, born, 26th June, 1782; died Nov., 1803.

THOMAS HOLLOWAY was born in Broad-street, London, 1748; apprenticed to Mr. Stent, a seal engraver; on the expiration of his pupilage practised at several kinds of engraving on stone, copper, and steel, and studied at the Royal Academy, finally adopting line-engraving on copper as his future business. In this method he executed the illustrations to "Lavater's Physiognomy," many other book-plates, and portraits, and the Cartoons of Raphael; this last work was specially encouraged by George III., who appointed the artist his historical engraver. Holloway removed with his assistants to Coltishall, near Norwich, and when he had nearly completed the sixth and commenced the seventh engraving of the Cartoons, died there, in Feb., 1827.

The following portraits are mentioned by Bromley, but the first is not marked "mez.;" the second proves that he tried his hand at painting also.

1. Hugh Evans. ROTH.

T. Q. L., in oval frame, sitting, directed, and facing towards right, looking to front, wig, bands, lay dress, right elbow on chair, hand holding book, left hand on lap. Younger brother of the philosopher and Unitarian, Joseph Priestley; became an Independent minister, being ordained about 1760; had charges at Kipping, near Bradford; at Cannon-street, Manchester; and at Dublin; removed to Jewin-street, London, about 1788. Died at Islington, 23rd April, 1814.

NATHANIEL HONE was born in Dublin, 1718; went to England and ultimately settled in London; was a member of the Incorporated Society of Artists and a Foundation R.A. He died at Rathbone-place, 14th Aug., 1784, and is buried at Hendon, with his children, Sophia, Samuel, Apelles, Floreth, and Lydia.

His portraits in oils have some merit, and he was very successful in miniature and enamels. He painted a picture called the "Conjuror," which was intended as an exposition of the manœuvring with respect to attitudes attributable to Reynolds. As this picture was not accepted by the Academy his vanity was piqued, and he then made an exhibition of his own works, in 1775.

He executed some etchings, and the following in mezzotinto.

L.'s, dressed as monks, in centre Grose looking upwards towards left, hands clasped over table, on which are a turkey, bread, plates, flask, sugar, lemons, to left Forrest, looking towards the other and stirring a large bowl of punch with a crucifix held in his right hand, on wall in background to left pictures of the Virgin and a Magdalen, to right shelves of large books, on upper shelf one lettered Nath Hone pinxit 1770, another, Saints Everlasting Rest, with a skull upon it, on top of volumes in shelf under a book with paper lettered, Lent ye 1st Volume of the Memoirs to B The (probably for Brother Theodosius). Under, Nathl Hone pinxt et Sculptsit. Publish'd Jany 30th 1772 by Mr Hone St James's Place. Monachum non facit cucullus (scratched), personis Frs Grose, Th Forrest. W. 18; H. 14 $\frac{3}{8}$; Sub. 13 $\frac{3}{4}$.

I. As described.

II. Scratched lettering, "personis—Forrest," erased.

Francis Grose was born in Middlesex, in 1731; was Adjutant and Paymaster of the Surrey Militia; devoted much of his time to travelling through the British Islands for the purpose of obtaining materials for the valuable topographical and antiquarian works which he afterwards published, and which were very successful. His appearance was remarkable, being only five feet high and weighing over twenty stone. He died very suddenly, whilst laughing and relating a story, at the house of Mr. Horace Hone, in Dorset-street, Dublin, on 12th

May, 1791, and was buried at Drumcondra. He was a man of great wit and humour, and a delightful, perhaps too convivial a companion; Burns alludes to him as the "chiel's amang you takin' notes."

Theodosius Forrest was a London attorney, also a giant in society though a very small man; he had studied drawing under Lambert, and frequently exhibited at the Royal Academy; he also wrote songs and pieces for the stage; whilst suffering from a nervous disorder accompanied by an attack of black jaundice he unfortunately put an end to his existence at his house in George-street, York Buildings, on 8th Nov., 1784, when in his 56th year.

3. Nathaniel Hone.

H. L., in square border, oval panels inside at top, directed to left, facing towards and looking to front, fur cap, open collar, fur-edged coat, chain over left shoulder. Under, Ipse pinxit 1747, in reverse, N H 1747, No 1. Nathl Hone Pictor. H. 14; Sub. $12\frac{1}{8}$; W. $9\frac{7}{8}$.

4. Id.

H. L., turban on head, laughing and looking to front, pointing to left with thumb of right and forefinger of left hand. H. $9\frac{7}{8}$; W. $8\frac{1}{2}$; W. $7\frac{1}{8}$.

JOHN HOPPNER was born in Whitechapel, in 1758; his parents being connected with the palace, he was at first a chorister in the Chapel Royal; showing an inclination for art, George III. made him an allowance, and, in 1775, he became a student of the Royal Academy. He commenced to exhibit in 1780, and, becoming an eminent portrait painter, was elected Associate in 1793, and R.A. in 1795. He died in Charles-street, St. James's-square, 23rd Jan., 1810.

1. Peasant Girl.

W. L., a young girl crouched at trunk of a tree, looking to front, cloak over her head as shelter from the rain, trees and cottage in distance to right. Under, *Painted & Engraved by J Hoppner. 2. Boy.

W. L., a child sitting, cap, tambourine in hands, dog to right. H. 14; Sub. 12; W. 9.

Under the impression at Windsor Castle, in M.S., Painted & Engraved by Hoppner at age of 18. (Master Hoppner.)

RICHARD HOUSTON was born in Dublin, about 1722; was apprenticed to Brooks, and thus became fellow-pupil with M'Ardell, whom he was considered, at the outset of his career, to rival if not even to surpass in spirit and fire; and it is very probable that he may have possessed a greater natural genius.

He went to London about the same time as M'Ardell, and established himself near Drummond's, at Charing Cross, from which address he issued the fine series of statesmen after Hoare, Nos. 53, 70, 86, 92, 113, and some of his most successful productions after Rembrandt and others.

His indolent and dissipated conduct, however, soon reduced him to dependence on printsellers; and we find his works published by Bowles and others, but especially by Sayer, who is stated by Redgrave to have arrested and confined him in the Fleet (whence he was released at the accession of George III.), in order, as he said, to know where to find him. It is certain that he did employ him in producing copies or imitations of the popular works of other engravers; but the story of the arrest is more probably true of Richard Purcell, because it is not likely that an escape from such a dilemma could occur, and yet Houston appears to have been independent of Sayer in the latter years of his life, and to have worked for Carington Bowles, by whom the extensive series of clergy (who seem to have been even more anxious than the beautiful ladies to figure in the print-shops) were published, Nos. 11, 18, 32, 47, 58, 66, 68, 73, 74, 78, 85, 89, 101, 106, 107, 117.

Houston died, 4th Aug., 1775.

He executed two small etchings of an old man and old woman, after Rembrandt, which were published by Sayer, and many subject pieces in mezzotinto.

Although not so named, there are such strong reasons for supposing that he was the engraver of Nos. 56, 57, and 112, that they have been placed amongst his works; it is not, however, an absolute certainty.

Some years after R. Houston's death, H. Houston practised in Dublin as a stipple engraver; some heads of his are in Walker's "Hibernian Magazine."

Sykes' Cat., Pt. iv., lot 442, mentions states of the print with and without the feathers. Bromley, p. 339, calls him "Julian" of Jamaica, and states that he died in 1764. He was son of Peter Beckford of Jamaica, and his wife (who was daughter of Colonel Julines Hering,) and younger brother of Alderman William Beckford. He resided at Stapleton, Co. Dorset, and was M.P. His son, Peter, married, in 1773, Louisa, daughter of 1st Lord Rivers, and their son became 3rd Lord Rivers.

These brothers having great taste for antiquarian topography, drew, engraved, and published to subscribers, over 400 views of ruins in England and Wales, cities and chief towns. The plates were obtained by Sayer, who reissued them, in 1774, with the foregoing portrait. Samuel Buck died at his rooms in the Temple, 17th Aug., 1779, in his 84th year, and was buried at St. Clement's, in the Strand ; his brother had died many years before. They were both members of the Spalding Society. Mr. Gough bears testimony to the value of their labours, and obtained a subscription for Samuel Buck shortly before his death.

Born, 1704; entered the navy under his father's auspices; rose to be admiral; prevented supplies coming from France to the insurgents in Scotland, in 1745, and rendered other services. When in command of a fleet in the Mediterranean, intended to relieve Minorca, which was held by General Blakeney, he, on 20th May, 1756, declined a close engagement with the French fleet, which escaped, and Minorca shortly afterwards had to surrender. On Byng's arrival at Gibraltar, Admirals Hawke and Saunders placed him in custody and sent him to England, where, at the close of the year, he was tried by court-martial and found guilty of a breach of the 12th Article of War, but acquitted of disaffection or cowardice. Great exertions were made to save him, but he was shot at the date given on the print, displaying to the last great resolution and composure.

Born, 21st Oct., 1723; second son of James Wemyss, 4th Earl of Wemyss, and Janet, only daughter and heiress of Colonel Francis Charteris, whose conduct was so notorious. He inherited, by settlement of 5th June, 1729 (made nearly three years before his death), all his maternal grandfather's estates, real and personal, in England and Scotland, and thereupon assumed the name and arms of Charteris; and on the death, in 1787, of his elder brother (who had been concerned in the Rebellion of 1745), became 5th Earl of Wemyss. He died at Wemyss House, 24th Aug., 1808, being then the oldest member of the Scottish Peerage, and having beheld for several years three generations, lineally descending from himself in the male line, all existing at once; but his son predeceased him by a few months.

Bromley, as noticed by Hamilton, has misplaced this print at p. 286, as if it had been a portrait of Colonel Charteris; he has also mentioned it in its proper place at p. 341, but as engraved by M'Ardell; this latter mistake may have arisen from the name M'Ardell being written on a proof, and it might be that that engraver had assisted in the plate.

Mr. Charteris is mentioned in Reynolds's Pocket-book for 1757, which is the probable date of the picture.

28. Philip, Earl of Chesterfield. HOARE.

H. L., in oval, similar in same direction to print by Simon, placed at top in centre of a square ornamental border within which, Houston fecit His Excellency Philip Earl of Chesterfield, Lord Lieutenant General and General Governor of Ireland, His Speech to both Houses of Parliament, at Dublin, On Tuesday the Eighth Day of October 1745 My Lords and Gentlemen, two columns of the speech, concluding with, You ought to Judge of Me only by My Actions, beneath, in centre, To all true Patriots, and Friends to Liberty, This Plate, is most humbly Inscrib'd, by their most Obedt humble Scrvt the Proprietor, to left arms, motto, A DEO ET REGE, to right figure of Hibernia; a line of address appears to have been erased from bottom. H. 20½; W. 14; O. D. H. 3½; W. 3¾. Two known.

The principal subject of this celebrated speech was the rebellion then going on in Scotland. It was happy for these kingdoms that at that time Ireland remained loyal, as did Scotland afterwards when rebellion arose in Ireland.

Of Castlecoote, Co. Roscommon; married Bridget, eldest daughter of Theobald Bourke, 6th Viscount Mayo; their daughters were the celebrated beauties of whom Walpole writes, "These are two Irish girls, of no fortune, who are declared the handsomest women alive." Mr. Gunning died at Somerset House, 27th June, 1767; and his wife, who had been appointed housekeeper there in 1761, died at the same place, 9th June, 1770.

As further particulars of the family may be of interest, the death of Catherine, sister of Mr. Gunning, is recorded on 9th July, 1755; and that of another sister in Dublin, in July, 1797, at the age of 98.

There was a brother of the beauties, a great favourite with the ladies; he was in the army; rose to be major-general in 1787, and died at the latter end of the century; he married Miss Minifie, author of some novels, who died 28th Sept., 1800. They had a daughter, about whom there was much gossip in 1791, her mother wishing her to rival her aunts by a marriage with the Marquess of Blandford or Marquess of Lorn; the matter was the subject of two of Gillray's caricatures; she did marry Major Plunkett of Kinnaird, Co. Roscommon, and died, July, 1823.

Minister at Saffron Walden; invited to London by a Baptist congregation, who had obtained a large auction-room on the south side of Piccadilly for a place of worship; was a popular preacher for several years, but having reduced Martin Madan's theory to practice in a different sense from that intended by the author, he was deserted by his flock towards the close of the century. He died at Walworth, 13th Feb., 1813, aged 82.

Born about 1716; set up as an apothecary in Westminster, and studied botany with success; author of several literary works and editor of papers, which brought a considerable income, but led him into constant quarrelling with those who would have been a benefit to him if he could have conducted himself properly; losing by this, he turned quack; he afterwards obtained the patronage of the Earl of Bute for a great botanical work, a copy of which he presented to the King of Sweden, who invested him with the Order of Vasa, on which he assumed the title of Sir John Hill. He died, 22nd Nov., 1775, of gout, a disease which he professed to cure in others.

According to Wilson, was appointed minister to the Blacksfields congregation in 1765, and remained there about twelve years; afterwards was at Rose-lane, Ratcliff, and at a small place in Bunhill-row; but his conduct was such that he had to give up preaching; his uncle left him a property, which he squandered and dissipated, and became reduced to such poverty as to beg in the streets. He is said to have died, 1790, or, according to Bromley, 1792. Query if he be the Methodist preacher alluded to in "Chalcographimania," p. 177:

"Whereto the bold pursuit let's add,
Of him that after wives was mad,
Who took arch Mahomet's advice;
For, where he treats of paradise,
He makes the charms of women—heav'n;
So Langford took of wives just seven,
A number that might scare to death
The boldest Turk that e'er drew breath."

And it is there stated that he was tried at the Old Bailey, and sentenced to be transported for seven years.

Born, 1726; was called to the bar, but left law for the pulpit; was much admired as preacher to the above hospital, and published many sermons and literary works. He died at Epsom, 2nd May, 1790. His most celebrated book was "Thelyphthora," in this he justifies polygamy, with the intention of lessening or removing the causes of seduction, of which he must have possessed so much sad knowledge. The religious world, however, were scandalised. It is curious that Mrs. Manley speaks of Lord Chancellor Cowper, who was Mr. Madan's mother's uncle, as holding the same tenets on the subject of polygamy.

75. Anthony Maddox. KING.

Not mentioned by Bromley.

I. As described.

II. Altered, name of personage erased, instead, Princess Charlotte of Mecklenburg Strelitz, at bottom, London Printed for Robt Sayer at the Golden Buck in Fleet Street Price 2s.

Bromley, p. 426, identifies Corbutt's copy of this portrait as that of Penelope, daughter of Sir Henry Atkins of Clapham, Bart.; married, 1745, George Pitt, who was created Baron Rivers in 1776. She died at Milan, 8th Feb., 1795. Or it might be that of her eldest daughter, who was married, in 1767, to Edward Ligonier, who succeeded his uncle as Lord Ligonier of Clonmel in 1770. Her conduct was very notorious at the time, and she was divorced from her husband by Act of Parliament, in 1772; she married Captain Smith, in 1784, and died in 1827.

Actress and singer; married Kenneth Mackenzie, who was born 1744; created Viscount Fortrose, in Peerage of Ireland, 1744, and Earl of Seaforth, in Peerage of Ireland, in 1771; he raised a Highland Regiment, the 78th Foot, was appointed Colonel, and died on his passage with them to the East Indies, in Aug., 1781. He had married, in 1765, the daughter of the 2nd Earl of Harrington, who died 9th Feb., 1767, aged 20. He was painted by Reynolds in the group of the Dilettanti Society. He was probably an admirer of female beauty, for Walpole speaks of his first wife as that pretty young woman who killed herself by painting with white lead, of which nothing could break her; and Miss Powell is portrayed as an exceedingly elegant and graceful girl. There appears, however, to have been some secrecy about the marriage, as it is not mentioned in the peerages.

Introduction.

*Each Buck & jolly Fellow, Has heard of Skegginello,
The famous Skegginello that grunts so pretty
Upon his Broomsticado, Such Music he has made O
Twill spoil the fiddling trade, O
And that's a Pity.*

*But have you heard of or seen O, His Phyz, so pretty
In Picture Shops so grinn O,
With comic Nose and Chin, O,
Who'd think a Man cou'd shine so,
At Eh, Eh, Eh, Eh.*

A Tragicomial Dialogue Between My Lord Skaggs and his Broomstick by H: Howard.

(Tune, Biddy over the Hopper &c.)

*As Sk—ggs did on his Broomstick play,
His Broomstick to him thus did say:
What mean you Matt to play on me?
Who have as good a Head—as Thee;*

*And Ill bett you a Crown,
That half the Toun,
Will say you have got no Wit, of your own.*

Recito.

*Matt stood amaz'd, as erst poor Balaam did,
When by the sluggish Afs he once was chid ;
Thou vile domestic Thing, says angry Matt,
How durst thou thus presume at me to prate,
Who raised you up from low to high Degree,
And introduc'd you—to the Quality.*

(Good morrow Gossip Joan)

*Why how now Master Sk—ggs !
The Broomstick then replies, Sir
You must have been in Rags,
Had but the Age been wiser,
Master Sk—ggs.*

*Go con your Hornbook o'er,
And learn to know your Letters ;
Ere you presume once more
To entertain your Betters, Masters Sk—ggs.*

*You lie—says Matt enrag'd
I know my letters well, Sir
And coud—but I'm engaged
Give proofs that I can spell, Sir,
Broomstick vile.*

*Lords, Dukes & Earls I please,
With Singing, Funn & Grunting,
I blow the Horn with ease,
And I can ride a Hunting,
Broomstick vile.*

Recito.

*This said the Broomstick hastily he took,
And snap'd it short at one malicious Stroke,
Nor ended there his dread revengefull Ire,
But with a Grinn he thrust it in the Fire,
Tho soon his Voice in penitential Strain,
His Broomstick thus bemourn'd but mourn'd in vain.*

(My fond Shepherds &c)

*My poor Broomstick, of Broomsticks the best,
On which I was wont for to play;
Whose Notes were the sweetest confest,
To Ashes is burnt quite away:
O where shall I find one so dear!
That th' Table oft set in a Roar;
Thy grunting so soft to the Ear,

126. James Wolfe and others. PENNY.

The General is seated on the ground, supported by an officer, his right wrist bandaged, his coat opened, Surgeon Adair applying cloth to his head, behind another officer pointing with both hands, in background a soldier running towards the group, in distance the battle and town beyond to left, trees and rocks towards right. Under, R Sayer Excudit. Painted by Edwd Penny, professor of Painting to ye Royal Academy. Engrav'd by Richd Houston The Death of General Wolfe on the 13th Sepr 1759 at Quebec. London Printed for Robt Sayer Map & Printfeller No 53 in Fleet Street, Published as the Act directs 1st Jany 1772. W. $19\frac{7}{8}$; H. 17; Sub. $15\frac{1}{2}$.

I. As described.

II. To right, The Original Picture in the Possession of Sr John Danvers Bart.

The well-known print by Woollett, from the picture by West, is dated precisely four years later than the foregoing, it is therefore probable that the idea originated with Penny. The officers are supposed to represent Colonel Williamson and Captain Hervey Smith.

Born at Westerham, in Kent, 1726; entered the army; served in the German war in Kingsley's regiment, and at Louisburg; although very young, displayed such energy and capacity that he was selected to command the expedition to Quebec, the success of which was so splendid and the results so momentous, all this glory being inseparable from the memory of Wolfe.

This plate is not mentioned by Bromley.

Bromley, p. 352, mentions Rd. Straub. Wolfe of Ireland, a youth, oval, after H. Hone. This print is probably executed in stipple by the H. Houston mentioned at page 645.

129. The Senses. HAYMAN.

HENRY HUDSON is not mentioned by Nagler, and Redgrave was not able to ascertain any particulars about him. The dates given on the following range from 1782 to 1793, but, as they are not numerous, it is probable that the engraver was independent, or that he followed other pursuits. His style is not very highly finished, but it displays great comprehension of the art.

IV. Address altered to, Published Febr 12 1788 by J Young No 28 Newman Street London.

Born in Scotland, 1730; his mother was afterwards nurse to George III.; appointed, in 1764, as Envoy to the Court of Naples, in which position he remained until 1800, having been made K.B. in 1772. He died in Piccadilly, in his 74th year, 6th April, 1803; was buried at Milford Haven, in Pembrokeshire.

He married, in 1755, a lady of property, with whom he lived very happily; she died in 1782, their only daughter having died six years before. In 1791 he married the beautiful Emma Hart (whose name was afterwards so celebrated in connection with Lord Nelson), and appears to have remained attached to her up to his death.

Having naturally a taste for the fine arts and antiquities, he made good use of the opportunities afforded him by his long residence in Italy by collecting a most interesting series of Greek, Etruscan, and Roman ancient vases, most of which are now in the British Museum, and by publishing magnificent works on these subjects and on the phenomena of Mount Vesuvius. He also contributed to the Royal Society, of which he became a member in 1766, memoirs of the discoveries at Pompeii and Herculaneum, which were mainly due to his own exertions.

3. (John Henniker.) ROMNEY.

Bromley gives date 1786 to this print.

Born, 1752; succeeded his father, in 1803, as 2nd Lord Henniker, of Stratford-on-Slaney, in the Peerage of Ireland; was M.P. for Rutland, afterwards for Stamford; retired from Parliament in 1818; and died at his house, Stratford, Essex, 4th Dec., 1821. He was a sound and able scholar, and lover of literature, and LL.D., F.R.S., F.S.A.

Bromley, p. 405, mentions John Hill, clerk to Sir L. Cox, J.P., Middlesex, as a mez. ad viv., by "W." Hudson, 1790. This is probably an error for "H."

10. Rescue from Alligator. HOPNER.

A young man naked in the water, his right leg within the alligator's jaws, behind a boat with four young men (one about to drive a boat-hook into the animal's head), a negro, and a woman, group of women and man in background to right, mountain and moonlight in distance. Under, *Painted by J. Hopner Engrav'd by H Hudson The Rescue from an Alligator. A Gentleman Bathing by Moon light, at Fort Passage in Jamaica; an Alligator seized him by the thigh, and attempted to drag him into deep Water; but opening his Mouth to take a better hold, the Gentleman thrust his Arm down his throat, and held fast by something resembling a Gullet, which sickening the Creature, prevented his being devoured. A Negro Boy being on the Beach, ran for assistance, a Boat was put out, in which he providentially escaped, but greatly wounded in the Hand and Thigh. Perhaps a portrait of the Duchess of York. See page 203.

WILLIAM HUMPHREY is stated to have been born about 1740; and he received the Society of Arts' premium for an engraving after Rembrandt (No. 23) in 1765. He practised as an engraver for some years at Gerrard-street, Soho; and living in the neighbourhood of J. R. Smith, there appears to have been an arrangement between them that Humphrey should publish Smith's plates when they had become somewhat worn. In this way may be explained Redgrave's assertion, that Humphrey's mezzotints, after Reynolds, were esteemed amongst the best of the time, for, it is not known that he engraved anything after Reynolds, the Duchess of Devonshire being erroneously so named in Stanley's Bryan. After 1777, other addresses of Humphrey's are found on some of Kingsbury's and J. R. Smith's prints, but nothing of later date than No. 15. It is not improbable that he may have been a connection of the Mrs. Humphrey so well known for many years afterwards as publisher of Gillray's Caricatures, from her addresses in New and Old Bond-street, and then in St. James's-street.

1. Thomas Augustine Arne. DUNKARTON.

H. L., in oval frame, directed towards left, facing towards and looking nearly to front, powdered hair, fur-edged coat, frill and ruffles, holding piece of music in left hand. Under, Painted by R. Dunkarton. Engrav'd by W. Humphrey. Dr. Arne. London H. 15; Sub. $13\frac{1}{4}$; W. 11; O. D. H. $11\frac{1}{2}$; W. 8 $\frac{5}{8}$.

I. Before inscription, scratched, W Humphrey fecit. Dr Arne. Pub 19th Jan'y 1778, by W Humphrey.

II. As described.

III. Address after "London" erased, instead, Pubd by W Richardson, Antient & Modern Print Warehouse 174 Strand.

Born in London about 1704 (son of an upholsterer, who had destined him for the law, but yielded to his wishes to devote himself to music); his opera of "Zara" was produced at Drury-lane in 1736; he was Mus. Doc. of Oxford, 1759; and in 1762 produced the celebrated opera of "Artaxerxes." He died, 5th March, 1778, of spasm in the lungs, having just before sung a hallelujah.

2. Thomas Beckwith. QUADAL.

H. L., standing, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, long hair, plain coat, left hand holding palette and brushes. Under, M. F. Quadal pinxt. W. Humphrey fecit. Thos Beckwith of York, Painter, & F.A.S. London. H. 10; Sub. $8\frac{3}{4}$; W. $7\frac{5}{8}$.

I. Before any inscription, not quite finished.

I. Before inscription, scratched, Thos Beckwith, Ebor Pictor & F.A.S. 1777.

III. As described.

Bromley seems not to have known this last state, as he does not mention the engraver's or painter's name at p. 397.

Of an old Yorkshire family; served his time to Mr. George Fleming of Wakefield (a house painter, but a very ingenious man), from whom he derived his skill in drawing and his taste for antiquarian pursuits. He devoted himself to heraldic and genealogical researches, and formed large collections on these subjects, being often consulted on the pedigrees of families in the northern counties. He died at York, 17th Feb., 1786. His son was a physician at Whitby.

William Bromfield is mentioned by Bromley, p. 383. See under J. R. Smith.

3. (Master Brown.) PINE.

T. Q. L., a boy, directed and facing nearly in profile to right, industriously reading a large book placed with others on table to right, on which his right elbow leans, a large globe underneath. H. $13\frac{1}{8}$; Sub. $11\frac{3}{4}$; W. $9\frac{1}{4}$.

I. As described.

II. Plate cut $\frac{3}{4}$ at bottom, inscribed, R. E. Pine pinx. W. Humphrey fecit. Published according to Act of Parliament 1765. Price 2s.

This portrait is so named in MS. on the Strawberry Hill impression.

4. John Burgoyne. ID.

H. L., directed to front, facing and looking towards left, hat and feather, uniform. Under, Pine pinxt. Col. Burgoyne. Publish'd March 4th 1774 by W Humphrey. H. 6; Sub. $5\frac{1}{2}$; W. $4\frac{1}{2}$.

Said to have been a son of Robert Benson Lord Bingley; entered the army; when a subaltern, at Preston, married Lady Charlotte Stanley, youngest daughter of the 11th Earl of Derby; was Brigadier-General of the British army in Portugal in 1762; commanded the British in America, 1775-8; capitulated with his whole army to General Gates, at Saratoga, and returned to London on parole; was refused a court-martial, and was dismissed, in 1779, for refusing to go back to America. He was restored to his rank three years afterwards, and appointed Commander-in-Chief in Ireland; was M.P. for Preston; and author of the "Heiress," and other popular dramatic works. He died in Hertford-street, Mayfair, 4th Aug., 1792, and was buried in Westminster Abbey.

John Campbell is mentioned by Bromley, p. 399, but not as mez.

5. M. R. Christmas.

Short H. L., in oval frame, a youth, directed to front, facing and looking towards right, cap, open collar. Under, se ipse pinx. Humphrey fecit. M. R. Christmas. Sold by W Humphrey Gerrard Street, Soho. H. 6; Sub. 5; W. 4; O. D. H. $3\frac{1}{4}$; W. $2\frac{3}{4}$.

Not mentioned by Bromley.

6. Mr. Colman.

Full H. L., standing nearly in profile to left, long hair, white cravat, eyes closed, right hand raised, forefinger pointing upwards, book under left arm, apparently preaching or singing a hymn. Under, Mr Colman M.G. Pub May 21, 1775, by W Humphrey, Gerrard Street, Soho. H. 6; Sub. $5\frac{1}{2}$; W. $4\frac{1}{2}$. Brit: Mus.

Not mentioned by Bromley.

7. William Dowars. HARDING.

T. Q. L., standing, directed and facing towards right, looking to front, wig, bands, lay habit, book in hands. Under, S. Harding pinxt. W. Humphrey fecit. The Revd Wm Dowars, V.D.M. Pubd 23d May 1777, by E Eynon behind the Royal Exchange. H. 6; Sub. $5\frac{3}{8}$; W. $4\frac{1}{2}$.

8. Mme. Du Barry. B. WILSON.

T. Q. L., standing, directed slightly to left, facing towards right, looking downwards towards front, hair dressed high with pearls, earrings, necklace, left elbow on table to right, miniature in hand, right hand on left wrist, hill with trees in distance to right. Under, B Wilson delin. R. Sayer Excudit. Wm Humphrey fecit. Madame La Comtesse du Barry. H. 15 $\frac{5}{8}$; Sub. 14 $\frac{1}{8}$; W. 10 $\frac{7}{8}$.

This plate does not appear ever to have been quite finished.

I. Before inscription, scratched, B. Wilson delin. R. Sayer Excudit. Wm Humphrey fecit. London Printed for Robt Sayer No 53 in Fleet Street. Publish'd as the Act directs 1st Decr 1770.

II. As described.

III. Plate cut 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ at top, 1 at left side, removing painter's name; $\frac{3}{8}$ at bottom, removing address; "delin," after painter's name erased.

Marie Jeanne Gomar de Vaubernier, born 19th Aug., 1746; came to Paris and led a bad life there; introduced to Louis XV., who was enslaved by her charms, and who married her to Guillaume du Barry (who died in 1811); made her a countess, and introduced her at his court. After the death of Louis, in 1774, she lived in a decorous manner, evincing respect for religion and great taste for the fine arts. She visited England several times; on the last occasion bringing her diamonds to succour those whom the Revolution had banished from France; on her return she was brought before the tribunal for having worn mourning for the tyrant (Louis XVI.); condemned and guillotined, 6th Dec., 1793.

Bromley, p. 27, mentions a mez. of Robert Devereux, Earl of Essex, by Humphrey.

Fitzroy. See No. 22.

9. (Camillus Hone.) HONE.

H. L., directed towards right, facing and looking towards left, long hair, fox's head seen within arms. Under, Painted by N Hone R.A. Engrav'd by W. Humphrey The Spartan Boy Having stolen a cub Fox, conceal'd it under his Garment, when being observ'd, he suffer'd it to bite him Mortally, rather than undergo the disgrace of a discovery. Published the 18th July, 1775 by W Humphrey Gerrard Street, Soho. H. 15; Sub. 13 $\frac{7}{8}$; W. 10 $\frac{7}{8}$.

There is probably an earlier state with J. R. Smith's name, in whose style the plate is engraved.

See page 6.

10. Richard King. KNELLER.

H. L., in oval, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, a young man, wig, collar open. Under, Kneller pinxit W. Humphrey fecit Coll Richd King. Publish'd 16 Novr 1774, by W Humphrey, Gerrard Street, Soho. H. 6; Sub. $5\frac{1}{2}$; W. $4\frac{1}{2}$; O. D. H. 5; W. 4.

Died, 1771, aged 90.

11. Sir Marmaduke Langdale.

T. Q. L., standing, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, white cravat, black armour. Under, Sr Marmaduke Langdale, the first Lord Langdale, From a Picture of him in the Possession of Marmaduke Lord Langdale, at Holme on Spaldingmore, 1774. H. 6; Sub. $5\frac{1}{2}$; W. $3\frac{5}{8}$.

Knighted by Charles I. in 1627; in the civil war was a distinguished Cavalier general; accompanied Charles II. in his exile, and raised to the Peerage by him in 1658. Died at Holme, 5th Aug., 1661.

12. John Methuen.

H. L., in oval frame, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, cap, loose gown open at breast. Under, W Humphrey fecit John Methuen Esq. Publish'd 9th Novr 1774 by W Humphrey, Gerrard Street, Soho. H. 6; Sub. $5\frac{1}{2}$; W. $4\frac{1}{2}$; O. D. H. $4\frac{3}{4}$; W. $3\frac{3}{4}$.

British Envoy to Portugal. Died, 1706.

13. Mr. Monox. COOPER.

H. L., in oval frame, directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, long Cavalier locks, wide collar and tassels. Under, Cooper pinxt. Humphrey Fect Sr Willm Monox Pub June 3 1774 by W Humphrey. H. 6; Sub. $5\frac{1}{2}$; W. $4\frac{1}{2}$; O. D. H. $4\frac{1}{4}$; W. $3\frac{3}{8}$.

I. As described.

II. "Sr Willm Monox" erased, instead, Mr Monox, Brother of Sir Willm Monox of Suffolk.

III. Address erased, instead, Published by W Richardson Castle Street Leicester Fields.

The name Monox appears to be a mistake for that of Mannock. Francis Mannock of Gifford's Hall, Suffolk, was created a baronet in 1627; and the ninth and last baronet was killed by the upsetting of the Dover mail-coach in 1787. The print probably represents William, son of the first baronet and uncle to Sir Francis, the second baronet, who died in 1686.

14. Sir Michael Newton.

H. L., directed towards right, facing and looking towards left, cocked hat, wig, sash and star. Under, Humphrey Fect. Sr Michl Newton, Publish'd May 26 1774 by W Humphrey. H. 6; Sub. $5\frac{1}{2}$; W. $4\frac{1}{2}$.

I. Before inscription.

II. As described.

K.B., 1725; inherited a large estate at the death of his uncle, Sir Michael Wharton; succeeded his father as 4th baronet, 1734. Died, 6th April, 1743. He married Margaret, who was created Viscountess Coningsby of Hampton Court, 1716, and who became Countess of Coningsby on her father's death in 1729, and died in 1761, but their only child died in infancy.

15. Christopher Pinchbeck.

H. L., in oval frame, profile directed to left, wig, plain coat, curtain to right. Under, Design'd by Cunningham. Engraved by Wm Humphrey. Mr Christopher Pinchbeck. Publish'd May 1st 1783, by Willm Hebb Son in Law & Succesor to the Late Mr Pinchbeck, at his Shop in Cockspur Street. H. $10\frac{3}{8}$; Sub. $8\frac{7}{8}$; W. $8\frac{1}{4}$; O. D. H. 5; W. 4.

See page 411. There was a John Pinchbeck who died in 1798.

16. John Sturt. FAITHORNE.

H. L., in oval frame, directed towards left, looking towards and facing to front, long hair, cravat, holding up drawing of female figure. Under, *W Faithorne pinxt. H. $4\frac{5}{8}$; W. $3\frac{3}{4}$.

1. Before inscription, scratched, W H fe John Sturt Engraver Pub April 15 1774.

II. As described.

Born, 1658; pupil of Robert White; engraved a curious Book of Common Prayer. Died, Aug., 1730.

17. Peter Henry Treyssac Sieur de Vergy.

Short H. L., in oval frame, scroll at top engraved in line, profile directed to left, wig, plain coat, at bottom, London Publish'd according to Act of Parliament Feby 4: 1775 by W. Humphrey Gerrard Street Soho. H. $7\frac{7}{8}$; W. $6\frac{7}{8}$; O. D. H. $5\frac{1}{4}$; W. $4\frac{5}{8}$. Under plate is printed his will and other matter, relating that he was an advocate in the Parliament at Bourdeaux, author of several literary performances in England, mixed up in the quarrel between Count de Guerchy and the Chevalier d'Eon (whose pardon he begs for) in 1763, and that he died 1st Oct., 1774, aged 42; his will being dated 21st July, 1774, and appointing Nathaniel Jones, Counsellor-at-Law, his sole executor.

18. (Alexander Whitchurch.)

H. L., in circular frame, directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, wig, ruffles, plain coat, right arm on book lettered court min 1776, scroll in hand. H. $10\frac{1}{8}$; Sub. $8\frac{1}{4}$; W. $7\frac{3}{4}$; D. $6\frac{1}{2}$.

Clerk to the Brewers' Company; a gentleman bred to the law, and universally esteemed. Died, 1782.

Miss Williams, profile, mez., 4to, mentioned in Evans' Catalogue, No. 11,335.

19. John Woodward.

Short H. L., in oval frame, directed and facing towards right, looking to front, large wig, white twisted cravat. Under, W Humphrey Fecit. Dr Woodward, From an Original Picture in the Family of his Executor, the Late Col Rd King. Pub 2 May 1774 by W Humphrey. H. 6; Sub. $5\frac{1}{2}$; W. $4\frac{3}{8}$; O. D. H. $4\frac{5}{8}$; W. $3\frac{5}{8}$.

I. Before inscription, scratched, Dr Woodward MD. Pub 2 May 1774.

II. As described.

Born in Derbyshire, 1st May, 1665; author of many works on Geology, Vegetation, and Antiquities; Professor of Physic in Gresham College, 1692; F.R.S., 1693; M.D., 1695. Died at Gresham College, 25th April, 1728. He founded the Professorship of Geology at Cambridge.

20. Abelard and Eloisa. COSWAY.

W. L.'s, sitting, Eloisa on right, left elbow on book on table, hand to face, book in right hand, listening to Abelard on left, columns and balconies in background. Under, Painted by R: Cosway. Engraved by W. Humphrey. Abelard and Eloisa. Publish'd 1st June 1774 by W Humphrey. H. 9; Sub. $8\frac{1}{2}$; W. 7.

Probably portraits of Mr. and Mrs. Cosway; but an impression has been met with having, in old MS., the name Mr. and Mrs. Burke.

21. The Fortune-teller. HOPPNER.

Nearly T. Q. L., directed and facing towards left, a handsome girl, poorly dressed, straw hat, strings tied under chin, right hand holding up cards, left hand to bosom, which is partly uncovered, mountains and trees in distance to right. Under, Painted by I. Hoppner. Engrav'd by W Humphrey. The Fortune-teller. Pubd 1st July, 1782, by W Humphrey No 227 Strand. H. $15\frac{1}{4}$; Sub. $13\frac{7}{8}$; W. 11.

Probably a protrait of Mrs. Hoppner. See page 164.

22. Lady with Veil. PINE.

H. L., in oval frame, directed slightly to right, facing and looking slightly to left, hair plain with veil which falls from back of head over shoulders, throat uncovered. Under, Pine pinxit. Umfrey fecit. London Printed for Robt Sayer, No 53 in Fleet Street, as the Act directs 1st Jany 1772. H. 14; Sub. $12\frac{5}{8}$; W. $9\frac{7}{8}$; O. D. H. $11\frac{3}{8}$; W. $9\frac{5}{8}$.

Bromley, p. 436, mentions Miss Fitzroy by these artists, but with the date 1761.

23. Man with Books. REMBRANDT.

T. Q. L., standing, directed and facing towards right, looking to front, cap, long hair, mustache, robe, right hand holding pencil on closed book on table before him, left hand on open one. Under, Rembrandt pinxt. Humphrey fecit. Done after a Capital Picture of Rembrandt, in the Collection of Mr Reynolds. This Print obtained the first Premium, granted by the Society for the Encouragement of Arts &c. Anno. 1765. Sold by W Humphrey, near New Street St Martin's Lane. Price 3s. H. 14; Sub. $12\frac{1}{4}$; W. 10.

24. Turkish Lady. VANDERNEER.

T. Q. L., standing, directed towards front, facing and looking downwards towards left, turban, hair falling over right shoulder, necklace with cross suspended from it, fur-lined robe, right hand on hip, left hand holding up mask. Under, J Vanderneer invt et delint. J Humphrey fecit. A Turkish Lady in Masquerade. London, Printed for Robt Sayer, No 53 in Fleet Street. Published as the Act directs, July 1st 1770. H. 14; Sub. 12½; W. 9½.

T. Q. L., standing, directed towards left, facing and looking downwards towards right at tripod, on which incense is burning, veil over head and shoulders and held up by right hand, left hand holding long vase, column in background to left. Under, B Wilson delin. R. Sayer Excudit. Wm Humphrey fecit. A Vestal Virgin. H. ; Sub. 13¾; W. 11.

Humphrey also engraved the "Pantheon in Oxford-street," published by R. Eynon, 20th Jan., 1772; and the "Sausage Woman of Covent Garden," published by Sayer, 1st Jan., 1772; but these are rather in the style of caricatures than possible portraits.

MICHAEL JACKSON may, with tolerable certainty, be presumed to have been a native of Ireland, and companion of Houston, Purcell, and Spooner. He appears to have started in London as print publisher at Rembrandt's Head, the corner of Bride-court, in Fleet-street, but to have left or died in a short time, as we soon afterwards meet the name George Pulley at same address.

1. Spranger Barry. GWINN.

W. L., standing, striding towards right, facing and looking towards left, loose cuffs, vest open, arms extended, each hand holding a dagger, sword and buckles, pilasters in background. Under, Jas Gwin Delint. M. Jackson Fecit 1753. Mr Barry in the Character of Macbeth. Act 2d Scene 3. Publish'd according to Act of Parliament. H. 13⅝; Sub. 12⅝; W. 9½.

I. As described. Three known.

II. Retouched; chandelier introduced at top to right, engraver's name and date erased, at bottom to left, Printed for Robt Sayer Map & Printfeller in Fleet Strt.

Born in Dublin, 1719; son of a silversmith, but failed in trade, and appeared on the Dublin stage in 1744, in London, 1746, when he divided the applause of the town with Garrick. He was an admirable actor and a very handsome and pleasing man, and in such characters as Romeo was considered to have surpassed every other player. He joined Woodward, in 1758, in the speculation of the Crow-street Theatre in Dublin, but it failed, and he returned to London, in 1766, with Mrs. Dancer, whom he married, and who became an excellent actress. He died 10th Jan., 1777, and was interred in the Cloisters, Westminster.

2. Nancy Dawson.

W. L., directed and looking to front, dancing hornpipe, round hat, right hand on hip, left arm extended, lace apron, panelled wall at back. Under, Miss Nancy Dawson Printed for M Jackson at rembrandts head Fleet Street. p 2s. H. 14; Sub. 13 $\frac{1}{8}$; W. 9 $\frac{7}{8}$.

I. As described.

II. Slightly and well touched, address and price erased, instead, London Printed for Robt Sayer Map and Printseller at the Golden Buck near Serjeants Inn Fleet Street.

III. Door introduced in wall to left.

IV. Coarsely and heavily retouched, at bottom to right, 153.

A similar print on smaller, scale, with two figures in background, engraved in line, was printed for George Pulley, at Rembrandt's Head, Fleet-street, having at bottom the verses:—

Come all ye Bucks and Bloods so gim,
Who love the rouling Hornpipe trim,
Behold how Nancy moves each limb,
The Charming Nancy Dawson.

How easily she trips the stage,
Her heaving breasts all eyes engage,
Love's fire she can best assuage,
O Charming Nancy Dawson.

Yet vainly She each breast alarms,
With all love's hoard of heavenly Charms,
She's only for N—d S——rs arms,
The Smiling Nancy Dawson.

Tho Poiteir treads the Passive air,
 And Bakers all ways de bonair,
 Yet None with Nancy Can Compare,
 The Charming Nancy Dawson.

This popular dancer appeared at Covent Garden Theatre, and in 1760 is mentioned her first appearance in Drury-lane. She frequently visited Dublin, and may have been a native of Ireland. She died at Hampstead, 27th May, 1767. J. T. Smith in his "Book for a Rainy Day," p. 7, says that he was informed that Nancy, when a girl, set up the skittles in a Marylebone tavern; and that Sir Wm. Musgrave said she was the wife of a publican near Kelso.

3. Mrs. Woffington. LEWIS.

H. L., in oval frame, directed to left, facing and looking to front, flat hat over cap, earrings, lace-edged mantle, right hand holding it across chest, landscape in distance to left. Under, Jo Lewis Pinxt. M Jackson Fecit Mrs Margt Woffington. H. 13; Sub. 11; W. 9; O. D. H. $9\frac{1}{2}$; W. 8.

I. As described. One known.

II. Inscription erased, instead, Jno Lewis Pinxt. Michl Jackson Fecit.

III. At bottom, Sold at Jackson's print shop ye corner of Bride Court Fleet Street.

It is probable that this plate, which is not mentioned by Bromley, was engraved in Ireland; the picture is now in the Dublin Society House. On the Strawberry Hill impression of II. is pencilled, "Miss Griffin, daughter of Mrs. Griffin printseller in fleet Street afterwards Mrs. Jackson," it being in pencil, however, may show that Walpole was uncertain as to the identity.

See page 446.

4. Old Man. REMBRANDT.

H. L., directed, facing, and looking slightly to right, close cap, beard, black gown, chain round neck. Under, Rembrandt pinxt. Publish'd by J Wefson in Litchfield Street Soho. M. Jackson Fecit. From an Original Picture of Rembrandts. H. $11\frac{5}{8}$; Sub. $10\frac{3}{8}$; W. $8\frac{1}{8}$.

The address of Wesson is probably an after-state.

JOHN JACOBÉ was born at Vienna in 1733, and came to England for the purpose of learning mezzotinto engraving. He produced some good plates in London in 1779-80, then returned to his native city, and continued to engrave there; amongst these later works being the Vienna Academy, portraits of Sir Robert Murray Keith; Prince of Nassau-Siegen; Prince of Schwarzenberg; and Princess of Wurtemberg. He died in 1797. The addresses on No. 1 and 6 I. would indicate that Dickinson was his teacher.

1. Louis Count Belgioioso. REYNOLDS.

H. L., in square border, directed towards left, facing to front, Austrian uniform. Under, in centre, arms, Painted by Sir Joshua Reynolds. Engraved by John Jacobé. Louis Comte du St Empire de Barbian et de Belgioioso &c. &c. &c. Chevalier de l'ordre de Malte, Chambellan, Conseiller Intime d'Etat General et Proprietaire d'un Regiment d'Infanterie dans les Armées Imperiales, Envoye Extraordinaire et Plenipotentiaire de Leurs Majestés Imperiales & Royales Apostoliques aupres de Roi de la Grande Bretagne &c. &c. &c. London Published October 7th 1779 by Jno Jacobé at Mrs Sledge's Henrietta Street, Covent Garden. H. $14\frac{1}{8}$; Sub. 13; W. $10\frac{7}{8}$.

J. R. Smith engraved a nearly similar print a few months before this.

Envoy to the Court of London, 1770 to 1783.

2. (Edward Chamberlayne.) ROMNEY.

H. L., in oval frame, directed to left, facing towards and looking to front, powdered hair, plain coat, right hand to breast holding paper. Under, Painted by G Romney. Engraved by John Jacobé. London, 1780. H. $14\frac{1}{8}$; Sub. 13; W. $10\frac{7}{8}$; O. D. H. $10\frac{3}{8}$; W. $8\frac{5}{8}$.

This gentleman was a most accomplished scholar, and in every way highly thought of; he was appointed one of the joint secretaries to the Treasury, 29th March, 1782; and he appears to have been so diffident with regard to his abilities for the duties that it overturned his mind, and he threw himself out of the window of a house in Parliament-street, 6th April, 1782, fracturing his skull and dying at the surgeon's to whom he was carried.

There was a William Chamberlayne, Solicitor to the Treasury, who died in 1799, and whose son, William, was M.P. for Southampton, first cousin to the Earl of Liverpool, and died in 1830.

3. Lord George Germaine. ID.

T. Q. L., standing, directed and facing towards left, looking to front, small wig, edged vest, ruffles, right hand on paper headed, To the King, on table to left on which is inkstand, left hand holding sword, curtain to right, castellated building in distance to left. Under, in centre, arms, motto, 'AUT NUNQUAM TENTES AUT PERFICE, Painted by G: Romney. John Boydell. Excudit. Engrav'd by John Jacobè. Lord George Germain One of his Majestys principal Secretaries of State &c. &c. &c. Publish'd Novr 1st 1780 by John Boydell Engraver in Cheapside London. H. 20; Sub. 17 $\frac{5}{8}$; W. 13 $\frac{7}{8}$.

I. Before engraved inscription, in skeleton letters, Painted by G Romney. Engraved by John Jacobè. Lord George Germain One of His Majesty's principal Secretaries of State &c. &c. &c. Publish'd November 1st 1780 by John Boydell Engraver in Cheapside London.

II. As described.

Born, 26th Jan., 1715-16; third son of Lionel Cranfield Sackville, 1st Duke of Dorset; George I. was his godfather; educated at Trinity College, Dublin; entered the army; served at Dettingen, and Fontenoy, and in Scotland during the rebellion; was promoted to a series of military offices, the last as Commander of the British Forces, under Prince Ferdinand of Brunswick, in 1758. At the battle of Minden, in the following year, the Prince was so displeased at his conduct that Lord George had to resign, and was deprived of all his military employments amid a blaze of popular indignation. In 1770, he took the name Germaine, in accordance with the wills of Sir John and Lady Elizabeth Germaine of Drayton. Secretary of State for the Colonies, 1775 to 1782, the period of the American war; in the latter year created Viscount Sackville. He died at Stoneland Lodge, Sussex, 26th Aug., 1785.

4. William Hayley. ROMNEY.

Full H. L., in square border, sitting, directed slightly to left, facing and looking to front, own hair, plain coat, right hand supporting forehead and placed on large folio upright on table to left. Under, G: Romney pinxt. J: Jacobè sculpt. London 1779. H. 14 $\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. 13; W. 10 $\frac{7}{8}$; I. B. H. 10 $\frac{7}{8}$; W. 8 $\frac{7}{8}$. Brit: Mus.

Born at Chichester, 29th Oct., 1745; educated at Eton and Cambridge; author of many literary productions, amongst them "Essay on Painting," 1778, dedicated to Romney; "Triumphs of Temper;"

"Essay on Old Maids;" "Life of Cowper." He died at Felpham, near Chichester, 12th Nov., 1820.

5. (Miss Meyer.) REYNOLDS.

W. L., a young girl, standing on clouds as Hebe, directed towards right, facing towards left, looking to front, vase raised with both hands, eagle with thunderbolt before her. Under, Painted by Sir Joshua Reynolds. Engraved by John Jacobé. Hebe. In the Possession of Jeremiah Meyer Esqr. Published Aug 1st 1780 by John Boydell Engraver in Cheapside London. H. $24\frac{1}{2}$; Sub. $22\frac{1}{8}$; W. 15.

I. Before inscription, scratched, Sir Joshua Reynolds Pinxit. John Jacobé Sculpsit. Published Augt 1st 1780 by J Boydell Cheapside London. Brit: Mus.

II. As described.

Daughter of the owner of the picture, who was one of the original members of the Royal Academy, and died at Kew, in his 54th year, 20th Jan., 1789.

6. Hon. Mary Monckton. ID.

W. L., sitting, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, hair high, left elbow on pedestal to right (on which is a vase with sculptured figures partly hidden in foliage), forefinger to lip, right arm across lap, dog lying at her feet to right, landscape in distance to left. Under, Painted by Sir Joshua Reynolds. Engraved by John Jacobé. The Honble Miss Monckton. Published Jany 1st 1781 by John Boydell, Engraver in Cheapside London. H. $25\frac{1}{4}$; Sub. 24; W. 15.

I. Before inscription, scratched, Painted by Sir Joshua Reynolds. Engrav'd by John Jacobé. The Honble Miss Monckton London Publish'd the 1st of January 1779 by John Jacobé at Mrs Sledges Henrietta Street Covent Garden, & by Mr Dickinson at Mr. Watson's No 158 New Bond Street. Brit: Mus.

II. As described.

Born 21st May, 1746, youngest child of John, 1st Viscount Galway; married, 1786 (his second wife), Edmund, 7th Earl of Cork; died in New Burlington-street 30th May, 1840. She was highly esteemed in London society, both from her sprightly vivacity, and her endeavours to mingle those who possessed wit and genius amongst people of wealth and fashion. Boswell says that she and Johnson "used to talk together with all imaginable ease."

7. Omai. REYNOLDS.

W. L., standing, directed to front, facing and looking towards right, white turban and robe, naked feet, right hand pointing downwards, left hand on belt, tattoo marks on them, landscape with tropical trees in distance. Under, Painted by Sir Joshua Reynolds. Engraved by John Jacobé. Omai, A Native of the Island of Utictea. Published Sept 1st, 1780, by John Boydell, Engraver, in Cheapside, London. H. 25; Sub. 22 $\frac{5}{8}$; W. 15.

I. Before any inscription.

II. As described.

Brought over to England in the "Adventure" by Capt. Furneaux (the companion of Capt. Cook in his second voyage), arriving in April, 1775. Being the first native of the South Sea Islands who reached this country, great interest was manifested about him; he was introduced to the King, and brought by Lord Sandwich and others into fashionable society; he left this country in June, 1776, with Capt. Cook in the "Discovery," and was settled by him in Hualuire, where he obtained the king's daughter in marriage, and was named "Paari" (wise or instructed).

J. JAMES is named in the following as engraver. Nagler mentions Jacob James, but the prints there stated to be by him are not known. It is possible that the initial is erroneous, and that the engraver was George James, A.R.A., who died in 1795.

1. (Mrs. Pine as Calliope). PINE.

H. L., directed towards, facing and looking to left, placing wreath on bust to left, lettered at bottom Ossian. Under, R. E. Pine pinx. J. James fecit. Calliope. H. ; Sub. 11 $\frac{5}{8}$; W. 8 $\frac{7}{8}$.

See page 192.

2. Lady. ID.

T. Q. L., directed to right, facing towards and looking to front, arms folded. Under, R. E. P. pinx. J. James fecit. Published According to Act of Parliament. H. 10 $\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. 10 $\frac{3}{8}$; W. 8 $\frac{5}{8}$.

W. JAMES is the engraver of the following. Possibly he may have been William James, a landscape painter, mentioned by Redgrave as a pupil of Canaletti, and a member of the Incorporated Society of Artists.

Charles, Duke of Marlborough. (VAN LOO).

T. Q. L., standing, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, uniform, right hand on hip, left hand placed within vest, muzzle of cannon to left, battle in distance to right. Under, V. L. pinxt. W. James fecit. His Grace Charles Duke of Marlborough Knight of the Garter, Master General of the Ordnance, and Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Foot Forces. Done from an Original Picture, in the Possession of Lord Trevor. H. 14 $\frac{1}{8}$; Sub. 12; W. 10.

See page 674.

J. JEHNER produced a few engravings in London about 1777, he afterwards appears to have settled in the South of England, and he there practised painting as well as engraving. His work is remarkable for great minuteness and precision of detail, of which No. 10 and the Seasons by him after Breughel are prominent examples. He was evidently an attached member of the Masonic Order. Most of his prints are very uncommon.

1. (Richard Earl of Barrymore.) COSWAY.

A child, with emblems of Cupid, in circle. Bromley, p. 323. Boydell's Catalogue.

Born, 1769; succeeded as 7th Earl of Barrymore in 1773; of great talents, but led a dissipated life; was accidentally shot, 5th March, 1793.

2. Richard Bartlett.

in the year of Masonry 5789 of our Lord 1785. Some men—happy end. Nil Valet—Domino Spry. S Hart Lit sculp. H. 9 $\frac{5}{8}$; Sub. 8; W. 7 $\frac{1}{4}$.

Died 1775; aged 88; according to Bromley, who also states that he was a Free Mason at Exeter, and that the print is inscribed "A Tyler," is from a picture by Cayang, and is dated 1782. This portrait does represent him as a Tyler, or keeper of the door of a Masonic Lodge, and the variations may have been in MS., or may denote an earlier state of the plate.

3. (Edward Beetham.)

Bust in oval, profile to right, wig, frill, at top to left small oval with a caricature portrait of man crying, to right another with one of man laughing, at bottom in centre, projecting under subject, another of man looking towards front. Under, Mrs Beetham delt. J. Jehner fecit. H. 6 $\frac{3}{4}$; Sub. 6 $\frac{3}{8}$; W. 4 $\frac{1}{2}$.

According to Bromley, maker of machines for washing linen. The marriage is recorded of Mrs. Beetham, relict of the late Edward Beetham, Esq., to John White, Esq., on 31st Oct., 1785.

4. Andrew Brice. WHITBY.

T. Q. L., sitting, directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, wig, coat buttoned at waist, right elbow on table to left, on which lie inkstand and printed sheets, pen in hand, left hand holding sheet, in background curtain, to right bookcase. H. 9; W. 7 $\frac{1}{4}$. Under, on separate plate, H. 1 $\frac{3}{8}$, Whitby pinxt. J. Jehner Fecit. This Plate of Andrew Brice, M.M. Author of ye Topographic Dictionary, is with Permission, Most Humbly Inscribed To the Honble Sr Charles Warwick Bampfylde Bart R. W. G. M. of the Provincial Lodge for Devon & Exon, by his most Obliged humble Servt. J. Jehner. Exeter. Publish'd as the Act directs by J. Jehner April 20, 1781. 2. 6.

I. Before inscription on separate plate, in scratched letters on it, Whitby Pinxt J Jehner Fecit Exeter Publish'd as the Act directs March 19 1781. One known.

II. As described.

Printer at Exeter. Died 7th Nov., 1773; aged 83. The work above alluded to is a Geographical Dictionary, 2 vols., folio, published at Exeter in 1760. The personage also published in numbers a portion of the "History and Description of the City of Exeter," but it was not completed. This is the mezzotinto mentioned in Nichol's "Lit. Anec.," VOL. VIII., p. 480.

William Canynge, rebuilder of Redcliffe Church, Bristol. J. Jehner fecit, is mentioned in Strawberry Hill sale catalogue. In the Fonnerean catalogue mez. of him by Johns (evidently a mistake for Jehner) is named.

5. Richard Hutchins.

Bromley, p. 363; dated 1779.

Rector of Lincoln College, Oxford. Died 1781; aged 83.

6. Hon. Augustus Keppel. SCOTT.

H. L., in oval frame, directed to front, facing and looking towards right, powdered hair, uniform. Under, scratched, Scott delint. J. Jehner fecit. Admiral Keppel Publish'd as the act directs Feby 13, 1779, for J. Jehner at No 43 fleet street. H. 10 $\frac{5}{8}$; Sub. 9 $\frac{1}{8}$; W. 8; O. D. H. 6 $\frac{1}{4}$; W. 4 $\frac{3}{4}$.

Evans's Catalogue, No. 18,006, mentions a print, which may be the lettered impression of this.

See page 186.

7. Christopher Mends.

Full H. L., sitting, directed and facing towards right, looking to front, wig, black gown over lay habit, right hand holding book, forefinger between leaves. Under, scratched, Painted from the Life & Engrav'd by J. Jehner The Revd Christopher Mends. Εγω—υμων. H. 14; Sub. 12 $\frac{1}{8}$; W. 10.

Born at Cottes, Co. Pombroke, 1724; dissenting preacher at Brinkworth, Wilts, and at Plymouth, where he died in 1799.

8. William Neild. PARRY.

T. Q. L., sitting, directed and facing towards left, looking to front, wig, plain coat, right arm on table to left, on which lie inkstand and papers, left elbow on arm of chair. Under, Parry Pinxt. J. Jehner Fecit.

*Would'st thou be happy; Turn, instantly from every Evil way;
Seekest thou for Peace; Turn, heartily, unto the living GOD;
Lovest thou thine own Soul; Seek the Lord whilst He may be found*

And know, O feeble, offending, mortal Man! that in the sure Merit of our Lord and Saviour JESUS CHRIST, Thy trust is certain Blessednefs.

So prays for thy present Welfare, So wishes for thy eternal Good, an aged, experienced, sincere & faithful Friend William Nield.

Feb. 25 1777. H. 14; Sub. 12; W. 10.

I. Before inscription.

II. As described.

Saddler by trade; died 1786. It is not recorded that he was related to James Neild, the philanthropist and visitor of prisons, who was born at Knutsford, Cheshire.

9. Edward Spry the Elder.

Full H. L., sitting on right behind table, directed and facing towards left, looking to front, full wig, plain woollen coat, cane leaning inside right arm, compasses in hand measuring diagrams on papers held by left hand, box of drawing instruments on table to left, behind them an apparatus with handle and string in centre, and divisions lined out, lettered Spry's Divider, at back of this lie gloves, dockyard in distance through open window in background to left, hat hung on wall to right. Under, Edwd Spry, old 90 (March 5th 1785) 75 years (in the Reigns of their Majesties, Queen Ann, Kings George the 1st: 2nd: and 3rd) Ship-Wright; in the Royal Yard; Plymouth. design'd and publish'd thro' filial Respect; by his Son & Grand-Son, Edward; D: M: &ca, & John; Commoner Xst: Ch: Oxon. J: Jehner fecit. S: Hart, Lit: sculpsit. H. 15; Sub. 13½; W. 10½.

I. Before inscription, before diagrams, handle and string, divisions or lettering, "Spry's divider," and before gloves. Two known. Brit: Mus. On this impression in MS., "Edward Spry mastmaker and boat-builder at the dockyard in Plimouth, aged 91."

II. As described.

This old Devonshire name has been borne by members of the family distinguished in the Church, the Army, and the Navy, more particularly the last. It is clear that the original of the portrait was very different from a mere artisan. He died at the home of his son (the following) at the end of 1788; aged 93.

10. Edward Spry the Younger.

John Spry (A^o 18th Dec^r 1703)

it, right hand holding sunflower, left hand on books which lie with cap, gloves, insect and shell on table to right, ring on little finger, on wall behind case full of books, antiquities, and curiosities. H. 15; Sub. 12 $\frac{7}{8}$; W. 10 $\frac{3}{8}$. One known.

Bromley mentions a portrait of this personage, by S. Hart, 1788? It is clear that he mistook the engraver of the lettering for the engraver of the print, because "S. Hart, Lit. Sculp.," will be found in the inscriptions of Nos. 2 and 9; he may, however, have seen a lettered impression corresponding to the companion prints, Nos. 9 and 11; the date is more likely to be 1785. A slip accompanying the print has in old MS., "Edward Spry, M.A., Candidate of Divinity, Batchelor of Musick, Doctor of Medicine, Philosophy, Civil Law, of the Colleges of Physicians of London and Edinburgh, of the Universities of Oxford, Cambridge, Aberdeen, and Leyden. R.: A.:; Knight Templar; and of the Oriental Star, &c. &c. &c." It may be observed, that R.A. does not mean Royal Academician in addition to all the other pursuits, but probably Royal Arch-Mason.

11. John Spry.

T. Q. L., standing, directed and facing towards right, looking to front, hair dressed back, powdered and tied in a queue, fur vest, gown, cap in right hand, left hand holding paper with Hebrew and Greek letters at top and in *R. Brown L: Hab: Prof: Reg: Oxonie Edidit J: Spry (Æt suæ 16) æd Xti: Oxon: e Typis Clarend., building in distance to right, figures walking before it. I. Before lettering. One known. Brit: Mus. On it in MS., "John Spry, nephew of Dr. Spry, and late fellow-commoner of Christ Church, now a lieutenant in the navy."

II. As described.

Three more curious family prints than the foregoing were probably never engraved; the features, which are exceedingly plain, are preserved nearly identical through the series of different ages; the workmanship is most elaborate, and they were evidently designed by the engraver, but whether painted or drawn is not mentioned. They do not appear to have been published for sale.

12. Edward and John Spry.

W. L.'s, Dr. Spry on right, has just risen from his chair to receive some papers handed to him by his nephew, who bows towards him, holding his college cap in his left hand, in background table, cabinet with clock and globe and book-shelves over, a portrait of Edward Spry the elder, as in No. 9, hangs on wall. H. 10; Sub. 9 $\frac{1}{8}$; W. 7.

Not mentioned by Bromley. One known.

13. William Henry, Marquess of Titchfield. REYNOLDS.

W. L., a youth, standing, directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, long hair, Vandyke dress, rosettes in shoes, right hand leaning on walking-cane, wooded landscape in background. Under, Sr Joshua Reynolds Pinxit. J. Jehner Fecit. William Henry Cavendish Bentinck, Marquis of Titchfield, Son of his Grace the Duke of Portland Publ 1st May 1777 by J: Jehner, Bear Street, Leicester Fields, & J Lockington Shug Lane, Piccadilly, London. H. 19 $\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. 18; W. 13 $\frac{7}{8}$.

I. Before inscription, scratched, Sr Joshua Reynolds Pinxit. J Jehner Fecit. Publish'd as the Act directs April 1st 1777. Brit: Mus.

II. As described.

A similar plate has been engraved by Walker.

Born, 24th June, 1768; succeeded his father as 4th Duke of Portland, 1809. Died, 27th March, 1854.

14. (William Woodfall.) PARKINSON.

H. L., in square border, sitting behind a table writing, directed to front, facing and looking towards right. Under, scratched, Parkinson pinxt. J Jehner fecit. H. 15; Sub. 13 $\frac{1}{2}$; W. 11.

Bromley, p. 415, gives date 1777 for this print.

Apprenticed to Mr. Baldwin of Paternoster-row; became a very celebrated journalist, and was the first who fully reported the debates in Parliament on the same night as they took place. He was often named in connection with Junius, and owned and edited various papers, which, however, were not ultimately remunerative, as he died in somewhat straitened circumstances on 1st Aug., 1803, in his 58th year. He was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster.

RICHARD JENNYS appears to have engraved the following in America before the separation between the United States and Great Britain. The portraits so engraved are very few in number, exceedingly scarce, and of interest to English readers; they have, therefore, been inserted in this work.

Jonathan Mayhew.

H. L., in oval frame, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, wig, bands, cloak over lay habit. Under, Richd Jennys Junr pinx & Fecit. The Revd Jonathan Mayhew D.D. Pastor of the West Church in Boston. H. ; Sub. $11\frac{1}{8}$; W. $9\frac{3}{4}$.

Born in 1720; educated at Harvard College; ordained minister of foregoing church, 1747, and retained the post until his death in 1766. He published many sermons, and had considerable influence in leading the opinion of the colonists towards independence. He is very favourably mentioned in Bancroft's History.

There are several prints with the name Johnson as engraver which are difficult to arrange in consequence of the absence of initials to the engraver's name, or with initials which are met with on so few prints that either the engraver produced little worth notice, or the name is an assumed one; indeed it has been directly stated by Strutt (VOL. II. p. 53), that it was "said that Faber, when he did not choose to affix his own name to his engravings, adopted this fictitious one." Strutt, however, went too far if he supposed that Thomas Johnson was not an engraver perfectly distinct from Faber or any one else.

These three are ascertained to be altered plates:—

George Lord Anson, from Faber, jun., No. 337, p. 428.

Admiral Haddock, " " " 67, p. 325.

Hannah Snell, " " " 219, see "Additions," and the following appear to be so also:—

Major-General Amherst. Moorel, pinxt. Johnson fecit. T. Q. L.
Not mentioned by Bromley.

Queen Charlotte. H. L., in oval frame. De Mytens, pinxt.
Johnson, fecit. Not mentioned by Bromley.

Lady Erskine. T. Q. L. T. Johnson, fecit. Probably after-state of Brookshaw, No. 9, page 101.

Charles Dke of Marlborgh. W. L., on horseback. Lens, del. Johnson, fecit.

Countess of Strafford. Probably after-state of Brookshaw, No. 23a, Additions.

The under-mentioned appear to be original plates; but they are not numbered, for it may be that some of them should be placed under one of the engravers having initials, which follow after them.

Jenny Cameron. LE CLARE.

*If to her Share, some female Errors fall,
Look on her Face, and you'll forget them all.*

H. 12 $\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. 11; W. 8 $\frac{7}{8}$.

Caulfield (VOL. III., p. 83) gives a very unfavourable report of this young lady's morality in early life, and states that she joined a troop of banditti; she was certainly an ardent advocate of the Stuart cause for many years before 1745 (when she was 46 years of age), and then took an active part with Charles Edward; she was taken prisoner, but admitted to bail in consequence of bad health, and died, according to Caulfield, in 1790.

Frederick, Prince of Wales, after Hansson. Bromley, p. 252.

John, Marquess of Granby.

H. L., in oval, directed, facing, and looking towards left, breast-plate, uniform, sash. Under, in centre, arms, motto, POUR Y PARVENIR, Hodfone delt. Johnson fecit. The Most Noble John Manners Marquis of Granby, Commander in Chief of the British Forces in Germany Lieutenant General of the Ordnance, Colonel of the Royal Regiment of Horse Guards. London Printed for H Parker Opposite Birchin lane Cornhill. 1763. Price 1s. H. 14; Sub. 12; W. 10.

See page 662.

Jane Lee. Bromley, p. 315.

Flora Macdonald. Bromley, p. 435. Query, if Jenny Cameron?

Miss Murray. PAGE.

T. Q. L., sitting, directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, "Rubens'" hat and feathers, low dress, lace (which is touched by the graver) round edge and necklet, right hand in lap, left holding up black mask. Under, Page Pinx. Johnston fecit. The Celebrated Miss Murray. H. $13\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. $12\frac{7}{8}$; W. $9\frac{3}{4}$.

Fanny Murray was notorious in the annals of London gallantry for several years; she afterwards changed her name to Ross, as mentioned by Bromley, p. 444, who thinks that she died in 1770. She appears by her portraits to have been exceedingly handsome.

James Stuart. Bromley, p. 254.

Sir John Willes.

T. Q. L., sitting, similar, on smaller scale, to print by Faber, jun., No. 386. Under, in centre, arms, motto, TENAX PROPOSITI, Johnson fecit The Right Honourable Sr John Willes, Lord Chief Justice of his Majesty's Court of Common Pleas, And one of his Majesty's most Honourable Privy Council 1746. H. $10\frac{5}{8}$; Sub. $9\frac{3}{8}$; W. $7\frac{3}{4}$.

On margin printed matter headed, "The remarkable Case between the Court Martial lately sitting at Deptford" and the personage, concerning the arrest of Admiral Mayne, President of the Court Martial, on 15th May, 1746, by a writ from the Court of Common Pleas; containing the remonstrance of the Members of the Court Martial, their letter, finally their apology, and the Chief Justice's acceptance thereof. Printed for the Proprietor and Sold in Westminster Hall.

Innocent Amusement. LE PRINCE.

T. Q. L., a girl sitting, with bouquet of flowers in left hand, right hand holding music on lap. Under, Le Prince pinxt. Publish'd July 1st 1770. Johnson fecit. Innocent Amusement. Printed for H Parker No 82 Cornhill. H. 14; Sub. $12\frac{1}{2}$; W. $9\frac{7}{8}$.

Piping Girl. MOLENAAR.

Full H. L., a girl directed to left, looking towards front, and laughing, a kind of clarionet in hands on which she is about to play. Under, Molenaar Pinxt. Johnson fecit. H. $13\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. 12; W. $9\frac{7}{8}$.

Bird-catcher.

T. Q. L., a girl standing, directed to front, facing and looking towards right, low dress, right hand holding cage, bird on forefinger of left hand. Under, Johnson delint & fecit, publ accordg to Act of parl March 17th 1766 The Italian Bird-Catcher. H. 13 $\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. 12 $\frac{3}{8}$; W. 9 $\frac{7}{8}$.

Spring.

T. Q. L., a girl plucking roses, with which she is filling her apron, male and female figure before temple in distance to right, terrace and gardens with figure leaning over balcony to left. Under, Johnson fecit Spring (4 verses) As smiling Charms—delightful Green. Printed for & Sold by Henry Overton at the White Horse without Newgate & Robt Sayer at the Golden Buck opposite Fetter Lane, Fleet Street. H. 13 $\frac{3}{4}$; Sub. 12 $\frac{1}{8}$; W. 9 $\frac{7}{8}$.

I. As described.

II. Face and hair altered, perhaps to resemble Mrs. Woffington.

Autumn.

T. Q. L., girl holding up basket of fruit, in background to right man on ladder pulling fruit from tree, two women under gathering it. Under, Autumn (4 verses), Autumn—& chuse. Address and dimensions as foregoing.

ANDREW JOHNSTON would appear from the following to have practised in the latter part of Queen Anne's and, perhaps, the beginning of the reign of George I.

1. George Mackenzie, Earl of Cromartie and Wives.

Bromley, p. 208; Musgrave Catalogue, p. 27, and there described as "George, Viscount Tarbat, Earl of Cromartie, æt 47, with his two wives, three ovals, with emblems of Time, Death, &c. Mez. by And. Johnston. Very rare."

Born, 1630; succeeded his father as 2nd Baronet, 1654; raised forces to attempt the restoration of Charles II.; when that event occurred, would have risen to high power at once except for his opposition to Lauderdale; appointed, however, Justice-General in 1678, Lord Clerk-Register in 1681; created Viscount Tarbat in 1685, and Earl of Cromartie in 1703. He married, first, Anne, daughter of Sir James Sinclair, of Mey, Bart.; second, on 11th April, 1700, Margaret, Countess of Wemyss in her own right, who died in 1705, aged 54. He died at New Tarbat, 17th Aug., 1714, in his 84th year.

The Musgrave Catalogue, p. 27, mentions another print thus: "Ditto, with his wife, Margaret Weemiss, æt. 39, ditto, fine;" and a copy of the Catalogue has been met with, marked in MS., opposite this lot, "Time & Death hammering at 2 Hearts on an anvil." Bromley does not mention it, but it is evident that there were two prints, or perhaps two states of the same print, as both the Musgrave prints were purchased by Sykes, and at his sale they were purchased by Rodd, lot 22, 24th June, 1824.

Bromley mentions, p. 246, Margaret, Countess of Wemys and Cromartie, with a query if it be not a copy of the print of Mrs. Sherard; and Noble, VOL. I., p. 368, mentions Ann, Countess of Cromartie, as mezz., by A. Johnson, but not Margaret. It is most probable that there is some mistake about these entries, and that no such prints exist.

2. Philip Lockhart.

T. Q. L., standing, directed to left, looking to front, armour, wig, white cravat, left hand on plumed helmet to left. Under, in centre, arms, motto, CORDA SERATA FERRO, Philip Lockhart Esqr. Second Son of Sr George Lockhart of Carnwath, Late Lord president of the Sefsions in the Kingdom of Scotland by Philadelphie youngest daughter to Philip late Lord Wharton. Done from the originall painting for Andrew Johnston Engraver in Round Court Strand. H. $13\frac{3}{4}$; Sub. $12\frac{1}{4}$; W. $9\frac{3}{4}$. Brit: Mus.

Held a commission in the army under Lord Mark Kerr; although the interests of his family were altogether with the House of Brunswick, he deserted to the Stuart side in 1715, and commanded a troop at Preston. He was taken prisoner, tried, sentenced, and, on 2nd Dec., 1715, was shot.

3. Henry Sacheverell. GIBSON.

H. L., in frame of oval lines, directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, wig, bands, black gown. Under, *Reverendus Vir Henricus Sacheverell S. T. P. I. Without name of engraver and publisher.

II. As described. Suth : Coll.

In Sutherland Catalogue this is supposed to be the first state of foregoing plate.

G. JOHNSON appears to be a distinct engraver. His prints are referable to date 1744-5.

1. William, Duke of Cumberland.

W. L., on horseback, directed towards right, facing and looking to front, uniform, long boots, right hand holding drawn sword, troops in background. Under, G Johnson fecit. His Royal Highness William Augustus Duke of Cumberland &c and Generalissimo of all His Majesty's Forces in Flanders, 1745. H. 15; Sub. $13\frac{3}{4}$; W. $10\frac{1}{2}$.

I. Before any inscription.

II. As described.

See page 72.

2. Sir William Lee.

T. Q. L., standing, directed and facing slightly to left, looking to front, wig, judge's robes, right hand raised, left hand on belt. Under, G Johnson del et fecit. The Right Honourable Sr William Lee, Knt, Lord Chief Justice of His Majesty's Court of King's Bench, & one of His Majesty's most Honourable Privy Council. H. $13\frac{5}{8}$; Sub. $12\frac{5}{8}$; W. $9\frac{7}{8}$.

See page 387.

3. Thomas Matthews. BORROTTO.

T. Q. L., standing, directed slightly to right, facing towards and looking to front, wig, plain coat, truncheon in right hand, left hand on mouth of cannon to right, ships firing in distance. Under, Sig: Borrotto Pinxit. G: Johanson fecit 1744. The Honourable Thomas Matthews Esqr, Vice Admiral of the Red, Commander in chief of his Majesty's Fleet in ye Mediterranean, who engag'd ye combin'd Fleets of France & Spain near Toulon on 22d Feb: 1743. H. 14 $\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. 13 $\frac{3}{8}$; W. 10 $\frac{3}{8}$.

See page 394.

J. JOHNSON is probably an assumed name; the following prints are very dissimilar in style. There is a print of a group after De Troy, J. Johnson, fecit, which was published by Faber at the Golden Head.

Augusta, Princess of Wales. HUYSMAN.

T. Q. L., standing, directed towards right, facing and looking to front, earrings, necklace, robes, right hand holding up mantle, left hand on crown on table to right, front of mansion and steps in distance. Under, F Huijsman, Saxe, pinxt. J Johnson fecit. Her Royal Highness Augusta Princess of Wales. H. 14; Sub. 12 $\frac{3}{8}$; W. 10.

Copy in reverse, as to attitude but not as to accessories, of the portrait of Marie, Queen of France, by Pelham. This may be a possible reason why Faber should have engraved the plate and not put his own name to it.

See page 125.

Frederick, Earl of Carlisle. REYNOLDS.

H. L., copy in reverse of portion of the W. L. print by John Spilsbury. Under, J Reynolds pinxt. J Johnson fecit. The Right Honble Frederick Howard, Earl of Carlisle. H. 6; Sub. 5 $\frac{1}{4}$; W. 4 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Not mentioned by Bromley or Hamilton.

This plate is much in the style of copies of Reynolds's prints by Brookshaw, and may have been engraved by him.

THOMAS JOHNSON is said by Redgrave to have practised in the latter half of last century; Nagler correctly states that he did so in the first half. Both mention as by him a print (in line) of Canterbury Cathedral, in "Dugdale's Monasticon" (ed. 1718). Bryan is pleased to consider his style one "which does him no great credit," and it does exhibit indications of his being probably self-taught; but, apart even from their great rarity, there is a singular fascination, probably arising from their truthfulness, about his portraits, and this is not decreased by his modesty, as shown in last verse of inscription to No. 1.

1. Thomas Britton.

Full H. L., in oval frame, which has ornamental scrolls at top and bottom, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, black hat, waggoner's frock, right hand sounding keys of harpsichord to right, left tuning the strings, violin hanging on wall at back, inscribed in frame, Thomas Britton Smalcoal Man. Under,

*Tho' doom'd to small-coal, yet, to Arts ally'd,
Rich without Wealth and Famous without Pride,
Mufick's Best Patron, Judge of Books and Men,
Belov'd and Honour'd by Apollo's Train;
In Greece or Rome, sure never did appear
So Bright a Genius, in so dark a Sphere;
More of the Man had artfully been Sav'd,
Had Kneller painted and had Vertue Grav'd.*

I Woolaston pinxt. Tho. Johnson fecit. H. $15\frac{5}{8}$; Sub. 14; W. $11\frac{1}{4}$; O. D. H. $11\frac{3}{4}$; W. $9\frac{1}{4}$.

I. As described.

II. Plate cut $\frac{3}{4}$ at top and each side, 1 at bottom: frame, inscription and $1\frac{1}{8}$ of subject at bottom erased, reworked in angles and retouched: inscription re-engraved in more modern style, omitting painter's name, "small-coal" altered to Small Coal, "Greece" to Greccæ, and some minor differences.

Born in Northamptonshire about the middle of the seventeenth century; followed the business of a small-coalman in Clerkenwell; but having a great taste for books, became acquainted with several noblemen and gentlemen, also interested in this pursuit, who esteemed him highly; his attachment to music led him to give concerts, said to have been the first ever given in this country, which were attended by the most fashionable company, and at which Pepusch and even Handel have performed. He died, 14th Sept., 1714, it is said, from having been frightened by a ventriloquist shortly before, who ordered him to prepare for death, in a voice apparently coming from the sky. He was buried in Clerkenwell churchyard.

2. William Bullock.

Full H. L., standing, directed towards left, facing and looking to front, long wig, muslin neckcloth, embroidery on coat, right arm on pedestal to left, left hand within coat. Under, Mr William Bullock Comedian. Tho: Johnson fecit et advicuum pinxt. H. 13 $\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. 12 $\frac{3}{4}$; W. 9 $\frac{7}{8}$. Five known.

This celebrated comic actor was contemporary with Cibber, Wilks, and Penkethman. He died, 18th June, 1733, being then engaged at Goodman's Fields Theatre.

Collectors of theatrical prints are always most desirous of acquiring those special rarities called the three B.'s; these are Betterton (by Williams), Booth (by G. White), and Bullock (by Johnson). When the late George Daniel procured an impression of the last, which he had vainly sought for years, in his delight he told every one he met that he had got a "Bullock;" many naturally supposed that it was a four-footed one.

3. Edward, Earl of Clarendon. ZOUST.

H. L., in octagon frame, directed towards left, facing and looking more towards front, long hair, small collar, cloak over left shoulder, hand to breast. Under, The Rt Honoble Edward Earl of Clarendon Lord High Chancellor of England and Chancellor of the University of Oxford Anno Dom 1667. Zoust pinx. T Johnson fc. cum privilegio Regis. Sold by E Cooper at the 3 pidgcon in Bedford Street. H. 14 $\frac{1}{8}$; Sub. 12 $\frac{1}{4}$; W. 9 $\frac{3}{4}$; I. B. H. 10 $\frac{1}{2}$; W. 8.

I. Before line with painter, engraver's privilege and address, and Edmund instead of "Edward." Suth: Coll.

II. As described. Suth: Coll.

III. Above Cooper's address, Sold by H: Overton & I: Hool at the White Horse without Newgate.

The great statesman. Born, 1608. Died, 9th Dec., 1674.

4. William, Lord Cowper.

H. L., in oval frame, directed towards right, looking to front, wig, robes, purse to right, in centre of frame, at bottom, arms, motto, TUUM EST. Under, The Right Honble William Lord Cowper Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain &c. Tho: Johnson fecit. Printed & Sold by Henry Overton at the White Horse without Newgate. H. 14; Sub. 12 $\frac{7}{8}$; W. 10; O. D. H. 9 $\frac{3}{4}$; W. 7 $\frac{7}{8}$. Suth: Coll.

Born about 1670; succeeded his father as 3rd baronet; went to the Bar; created Baron Cowper, 1706; Lord Chancellor, 1707-10, 1714-18, when he was created Earl Cowper. He died, 10th Oct., 1723.

5. Charles Leon.

Short H. L., in oval, directed slightly to left, facing and looking to front, fur cap, mustache, neckcloth, coat fastened by brooch. Under, Mr Carolus Leon the Armenian. Tho. Johnson pinxt et fecit. H. 8 $\frac{1}{8}$; W. 5 $\frac{3}{4}$; O. D. H. 6; W. 5 $\frac{1}{4}$.

6. Louis XIV.

H. L., in oval, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, large black wig, lace cravat, ermine robes. Under, Great Lewis of France. Tho. Johnson fecit. Printed & Sold by J Smith near Exeter Change in the Strand. H. 13 $\frac{5}{8}$; W. 9 $\frac{1}{2}$; O. D. H. 12; W. 9 $\frac{3}{8}$. Suth: Coll.

See page 603.

7. Edward Ward.

Short H. L., in oval, directed to left, looking to front, cravat with fringed ends, cloak. Under, Edwardus Ward Ætat sua 54. 1714. T Johnson pinx et fec. H. 13 $\frac{7}{8}$; W. 10; O. D. H. 11 $\frac{3}{4}$; W. 9 $\frac{3}{8}$. Brit: Mus. Not mentioned by Bromley.

Ned Ward was born in Oxfordshire, and kept a public-house in Moorfields, afterwards in Clerkenwell, and lastly near Gray's Inn. He wrote and published, between 1698 and 1724, a great number of curious books, full of coarse humour and giving a true description of the London manners of his time; a long list of his works is given by Lowndes. He died, 20th June, 1731, and was buried at St. Pancras. This print could not have been known to Chalmers, who gives the date of his birth as about 1667.

8. Thomas, Marquess of Wharton. KNELLER.

H. L., in oval, directed to left, looking to front, wig, dark coat. Under, The Most Honoble Thomas Lord Marquifs of Wharton &c. G Kneller Eques pinx. T Johnson fc. Sold by Thos Taylor at the Golden Lion in Fleet Street. H. 8; W. 6; O. D. H. 6 $\frac{3}{4}$.

Bromley and Noble erroneously give the engraver's initial as "J."

Succeeded his father as 5th Baron Wharton in 1696; was a leading partisan of the Revolution and opponent of the Stuarts; created, 1706, Earl Wharton, and Marquess of Wharton and Catherlough (Carlow) in Ireland, about three months before his death, which took place 12th April, 1715. His great talents and statesmanship were sullied by both atheism and profligacy.

JOHISON, the engraver of the following would appear, at first sight, to have been an error for Johnson; but this may not be so, for the style is peculiar, and the mistake would hardly have been likely to occur twice; as the name has not been met with, it may, however, be an alias.

1. Martin Madan.

T. Q. L., sitting, similar to plate by Houston, but not a copy of it, the books on shelves to right are entirely different, and the features are not the same. Under, Johson Fecit. The Reverend Mr Madan. H. 14; Sub. 12 $\frac{5}{8}$; W. 9 $\frac{7}{8}$.

See page 672.

2. William Pitt and H. B. Legge. HOARE.

Full T. Q. L.'s, sitting, table with papers on it between them, Pitt on left, Legge on right, both of them similar to the plates by Houston, Nos. 92 and 70. Under, Hoare, del. Iohson fecit. William Pitt Esqr. Henry Bilson Legge Esqr. Utrum horum mavis accipe. Sold by Ewart at the Beehive, facing Northumberland Street, Strand. W. 10 $\frac{1}{2}$; H. 8; Sub. 7 $\frac{1}{8}$.

I. As described.

II. Plate cut into two portions, so as to make separate portraits, the sentence "Utrum—accipe" and address erased, the latter being re-engraved on each. The first portion is described, at page 265, in error, as Ewart is clearly only the publisher. Not mentioned by Bromley.

JOHN JONES is said to have been born about 1740, but the real date is probably much later, as he does not appear to have engraved before 1775. He resided from the year 1783 in Great Portland-street, from different numbers in which street nearly all his prints were published. He died, according to Redgrave, in 1797. His only son, George, who was born 6th Jan., 1786, became an R.A.

His works are powerful and artistic in style, but not, as a general rule, exhibiting specially careful finish; he appears to have been highly thought of by Romney, and he worked too after Reynolds, Gainsborough, Ræburn, and other leading painters. He also practised in stipple, and in that method produced portraits, amongst others, of Judge Ashurst, Earl Guilford, Archbishop Moore, Lord Sheffield, Miss Sneyd, Lord H. Spencer and Sister, and Frederick, Duke of York.

1. Robert Adair. ABBOTT.

H. L., directed slightly to left, facing and looking slightly to right, wig, white neckcloth, vest buttoned up to throat. Under, ground partially cleared, Painted by F. L. Abbott. Engraved by J. Jones Engraver Extraordinary to His R H the Prince of Wales, and Principal Engraver to His R H the Duke of York. Robert Adair Esqr. Publish'd June 12: 1791 by J. Jones No 75 Great Portland Street. H. 15; Sub. 13 $\frac{1}{4}$; W. 10 $\frac{7}{8}$.

I. Name of personage in open letters.

II. As described.

Surgeon in the army (query, if present at the death of Wolfe?); married, 1759, Caroline, daughter of the 2nd Earl of Albemarle; appointed Surgeon-General and Surgeon of Chelsea Hospital. He died, 16th March, 1790.

2. Sir John Aubrey. REYNOLDS.

T. Q. L., standing, directed to right, looking to front, right elbow on table to left, landscape to right. Under, Painted by Sir Joshua Reynolds. Engraved by John Jones. Sir John Aubrey Bart. A Lord Commisfioner of his Majesty's Treasury, and one of the Representatives of Parliament for the County of Buckingham. Publish'd as the Act directs Novr 22d 1788 by J. Jones No 75 Great Portland Street. H. 20; Sub. 17 $\frac{1}{8}$; W. 14. Brit: Mus.

Born, 1740; succeeded his father as 6th Baronet, 1786; was M.P. for twelve successive Parliaments, commencing with that of 1768. Died, 1st March, 1826, being then Father of the House of Commons.

3. Giovanna Bacelli. GAINSBOROUGH.

W. L., dancing, directed to right, head inclined towards right shoulder, looking towards front, hair full, hat, right hand on waist, left holding up train, trees in background to right and in distance to left, on tambourine in corner at bottom to left Signora Bacelli. Under, Painted by T. Gainsborough R.A. London Publ According to Act Feby 5, 1784 by J. Jones No 63 Great Portland Street Marylebone. Engraved by John Jones. H. $21\frac{1}{8}$; Sub. (the portion to right not separated) $20\frac{7}{8}$; W. 14.

I. Before inscription.

II. As described.

III. "Feby—63" in address erased, instead, June 14th 1811 by A Wivell 57. Brit: Mus.

This celebrated dancer appeared in London in 1779, and was most popular for some years. Walpole speaks of her as dancing at Paris, in 1788, with a blue bandeau on her head having on it the motto of the Garter, she being then under the protection of the Duke of Dorset. She died in Sackville-street, Piccadilly, 7th May, 1801, generally respected for her benevolence.

4. James Balfour. RÆBURN.

Full T. Q. L., sitting in arm-chair, directed and looking towards front, hands stretched out, plain dress, table to left on which are books lettered Record of the Gent. Golfers, Bet. Book, inkstand and sheet of music, from which he appears to be singing. Under, *Henry Ræburn pinxt. J Jones sculpt. James Balfour Esqr. I. Before any inscription.

II. As described.

Of East Ham, Co. Essex; for upwards of thirty years Paymaster of Sailors' Wages to the East India Company. Died, 22nd Dec., 1792, in his 70th year. He was younger brother of John Burges of Park-naur, Co. Tyrone, to whose grandson his property reverted on the death of his only child, the Countess Poulett, in 1838. The connection between the personage and Camac probably arose from some matters in connection with coinage of copper money.

11. Edmund Burke. ROMNEY.

H. L., in square border, directed, facing, and looking towards right, own hair, four upper buttons of vest unfastened. Under, *Painted by G. Romney. Engraved by J. 13. George James Cholmondeley. REYNOLDS.

H. L., in square border, directed to left, facing towards and looking to front, powdered hair, high collar to coat, white cravat and frill, curtain in background. Under, Publish'd as the Act Directs March the 20th 1790, by John Jones No 75 Great Portland Street. Painted by Sir Joshua Reynolds Engraved by John Jones. George James Cholmondeley Esqr. H. 19 $\frac{3}{4}$; Sub. 17 $\frac{1}{2}$; W. 13 $\frac{7}{8}$; I. B. H. 14 $\frac{1}{4}$; W. 10 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Born, 22nd Feb., 1752; son of the Hon. and Rev. Robert Cholmondeley by Mary, sister of Mrs. Margaret Woffington; Receiver-General of Excise. Died, 5th Nov., 1830.

14. Charles, Marquess Cornwallis. GARDINER.

W. L., standing, directed to right, facing towards and looking to front, cocked hat, uniform, long boots, both hands leaning on long cane, troops in distance to right, at bottom, Charles Marquis Cornwallis. Under, Painted by D Gardiner. Engraved by I Jones Engraver Extraordinary to His R.H. the Prince of Wales, and Principal Engraver to His R.H. the Duke of York. H. 24; Sub. 23½; W. 14½.

I. Before name of personage.

II. As described.

Born, 31st Dec., 1738; entered the army; succeeded his father as 2nd Earl, 1762; commanded the British against the Americans in South Carolina in 1777; and although at first successful, he was ultimately forced to surrender with all his troops at Yorktown; in 1786 appointed Governor-General of India, and defeated Tippoo Saib in 1792, for which service he was created a Marquess; Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, 1798-1801; under him the Rebellion was quelled; again appointed Governor-General of India, but died at Ghazepoore in Benares, 5th Oct., 1805.

15. Laurence Coughlan.

H. L., in oval frame, directed and looking towards left, wig, bands, black gown. Under, J. Jones Fecit. The Revd Mr Laurence Coughlan. Pubd Accg to Act Aprl 20th 1781, by J Jones at Mr Coughlan's Holywell Mount J. Harris Sweetthings Alley & Mrs Eynon Royal Exchange. H. 13½; Sub. 12½; W. 9½; O. D. H. 10½; W. 7½.

Preacher at Holywell Mount Chapel.

Bromley, p. 327, mentions the Duke of Cumberland as Grand Master of the Freemasons, after Beach; but this arises from a misunderstanding of the inscription under the portrait of Dunkerly (No. 21).

16. (Joseph D'Almeida.) LAWTRANSON.

H. L., in oval, directed slightly to left, facing and looking to front, wig, plain coat, striped vest. Under, in small skeleton letters, Painted by Wm Lawranson. Engraved by John Jones. London, Publish'd as the Act directs Augt 9, 1783, and Sold by J. Jones, No 63, Great Portland Street, Marylebone. H. 15; Sub. 13½; W. 11.

I. As described.

II. "Painted—Jones" erased and re-engraved in larger letters; lettering of address strengthened.

Stockbroker. Died at Watford, 26th May, 1788, aged 72.

17. (Mrs. Davenport.) ROMNEY.

H. L., standing, directed to left, looking to front, hat, cape trimmed with fur, muff, landscape in distance. Under, Painted by G: Romney. Engraved by J. Jones. London Publish'd as the Act directs May 29th 1784 by J Jones, No 63, Great Portland Street, Marylebone. H. 15; Sub. 13 $\frac{1}{4}$; W. 11.

Bromley, p. 435, does not identify the personage, who most probably is Charlotte (daughter of Ralph Sneyd, Esq., of Keel, Co. Stafford); married, about 1777, to Davies Davenport, Esq., of Capes-thorne Hall, Cheshire, who was for many years M.P. for that county. She died 8th Oct., 1829, aged 73. The portrait is sometimes called Mrs. Davenport, the actress; but she did not appear in London until ten years after the date of the print.

18. William Davidson. REYNOLDS.

H. L., directed and facing towards left, looking upwards towards front, powdered hair, coat buttoned, right hand placed in breast. Under, Painted by Sir Joshua Reynolds. Engraved by I. Jones, Engraver Extraordinary to His R H the Prince of Wales, and Principal Engraver to His R H the Duke of York. William Davidson Esqr of Muirhouse. Publish'd as the Act directs Feby 1st, 1793, by I Jones, No 75 Great Portland Street, Marylebone. H. 15; Sub. 14; W. 11.

Bromley gives date 1792 to this print, so there is probably an earlier state. The portrait of a Mr. Davidson appears to have been painted in 1782, according to the Reynolds' Pocket-book; but query if this picture was not painted much before that time.

Merchant of Rotterdam. Died at Muirhouse, Edinburghshire, in his 81st year, 20th Sept., 1794. He had lost his only child (see page 209, where the father's name should read William, according to Bromley, not James, according to Hamilton), and bequeathed his wealth to his nephew the Rev. Thomas Randall, with directions to take the name and arms of Davidson.

19. Christopher De Dreyer. ABBOTT.

H. L., in square border, directed to front, facing and looking

II. As described.

Engraved, according to Bromley, in 1785.

The personage appears to have been resident in London from 1777 to 1785.

20. Sir Charles Douglas. SINGLETON.

W. L., standing, directed and looking towards front, facing slightly to right, uniform, right hand waving sword, left holding hat, leaning on breech of cannon to right, at bottom, Pubd as the Act directs, Novr 1, 1791, by C Lowndes, Drury Lane. Under, Painted by H. Singleton. Engraved by J. Jones Engraver Extraordinary to His R.H. the Prince of Wales & Principal Engraver to His R.H. the Duke of York. Rear Admiral Sir Chas Douglas Bart. F. R. S. To the Officers of the British Navy, and his Friends in General, this Print is respectfully Inscribed by their most obedt humble Servt C Lowndes. H. 24 $\frac{1}{8}$; Sub. 23 $\frac{1}{4}$; W. 15.

Of Scotch descent; entered the Dutch naval service, but quitted it for that of his own country about 1753; in 1776, in command of the Iris, forced his way through ice-fields up the St. Lawrence, and relieved Quebec, then besieged by the North American army, for which service he was created a baronet early in 1777; was captain of the fleet under Rodney in his engagement with De Grasse in 1782; died of apoplexy, when entering a public meeting at Edinburgh, 10th March, 1789. He is said to have spoken correctly six European languages.

21. Thomas Dunkerley. BEACH.

Nearly W. L., sitting, directed and looking to front, powdered hair, frill and ruffles, Masonic collar, star, and apron, right hand turning over leaves of book on desk before him, left hand on chair, pillars in background. Publish'd according to Act of Parliament, Decr 21st 1788 by Ann Bryer, No 5 Poland Street Soho. H. 20; Sub. 17 $\frac{5}{8}$; W. 14.

I. As described. Brit: Mus.

II. Date altered to 24th 1789.

Son of a female domestic in the household of Sir Robert Walpole; (his mother's husband obtained the place of porter at Somerset House;) ran away to sea when a lad and saw service, having been with Wolfe at Quebec; from his likeness to the Royal Family it was stated that he was the son of George II., and he obtained a pension; he was a distinguished member of the Masonic brotherhood, and died at Portsmouth, 19th Nov., 1795, in his 71st year.

22. Robert Dundas. RÆBURN.

T. Q. L., sitting in arm-chair, directed towards front, facing and looking towards right, plain dress, right elbow on arm of chair, left hand in lap, mountains in distance to right. 30. Tregonwell Frampton. WOOTTON.

T. Q. L., sitting, similar to print by Faber, jun. (No. 138, page 352), gamecock on table to right, greyhound under, over portrait of racer and jockey. Under, Engraved (from the original painting by Mr Wootton) by John Jones, Engraver Extraordinary to H. R. H. the Prince of Wales and Principal Engraver to H. R. H. the Duke of York. The Father of the Turf. Tregonwell Frampton Esqr of Morcton in Dorsetshire. Keeper of the Running Horses at Newmarket to their Majesties William the Third, Queen Anne, George the First & George the Second. Died 12th of March 1727 aged 86 years. This Extraordinary Character was born in the Reign of King Charles the First when the Sport of Horseracing commenced at Newmarket and he was owner of the celebrated Horse Dragon, whose portrait appears in a frame in the Background. The most remarkable event in the lives of this gentleman & his Horse Dragon is most punctually depicted by Mr John Hawksworth (in No 37 of the Adventurer) in the following words supposed to be spoken by the Horse in the Elysium of Beasts & Birds. ““It is true” replied the steed—“blushed that I was a man.”” Publish’d as the Act directs & Sold by the Proprietor J Bodger landsurveyor Stilton, Hurst & Co at No 53 High Holborn, Mr Weatherby Racing Calendar Office No 7 Oxenden Street Haymarket, & at Messrs Tattersall’s London, at the Coffee Room Newmarket, also at the Principal Towns in England, see the Seven Companion Prints in Racing Calendar Book 1793 last page. H. $21\frac{1}{2}$; Sub. 18; W. 14.

If the story related in the Adventurer, above referred to, be true of Mr. Frampton, it is not to his credit, and would now, probably, entail upon him a prosecution from the Society for Suppression of Cruelty to Animals.

31. John Gabriel. WARREN.

H. L., in square border, sitting, directed, facing, and looking slightly to right, full wig, black gown, bands, right hand on arm of chair. Under, *J. S. Warren pinxt. J. I. As described.

II. Address altered to, London Published June 24 1797 by R Dalton No 10 Birchin Lane.

Born at Daylesford, Worcestershire, 6th Dec., 1732; appointed a writer in the East India Company's service, and went out in 1749; rose to be a Member of Council at Calcutta, returning to England in 1764; appointed by the Court of Directors Governor of Madras; again went out in 1769, meeting his future wife (see page 185) on the voyage; advanced to be Governor-General in 1772, a position in which he rendered the greatest and most signal services. Returned to England in 1785; and soon afterwards, in consequence of the machinations of persons whose designs he had foiled, was impeached by Burke and his party, then powerful in the Commons, and brought to the famous trial at the bar of the House of Lords, which after seven years ended in an acquittal. He died at Daylesford, 22nd Aug., 1818.

Publish'd as the Act directs March 1st, 1791, by J. Jones, No 75 Great Portland Street.* H. 15; Sub. $13\frac{2}{3}$; W. $10\frac{7}{8}$.

I. Before name of personage and dedication.

II. As described. Brit; Mus.

Dorothy Bland was born in Waterford about 1762; appeared on the Dublin stage in 1777, afterwards at Leeds and York, and, in 1785, at Drury-lane, having assumed the name of Jordan. She was a most bewitching and delightful actress. Her connection with the Duke of Clarence was well-known. She died at St. Cloud, July 5th, 1816, having left England for the purpose of avoiding creditors, her debts being the consequence of bills given by her to relieve a near relation.

42. Miss Kemble. REYNOLDS.

H. L., directed to, facing, and looking downwards towards left, hair full, ribbon round neck, bow at throat, white cape with single frill, black dress, mountainous landscape in distance. Under, Painted by Sir Joshua Reynolds. Engraved by John Jones, two Cupids bearing sheet on which, Miss Kemble, at bottom, London Published according to Act March 23, 1784, by J. Jones, No 63 Great Portland Street. H. 15; Sub. 13 $\frac{1}{4}$; W. 11. Brit: Mus.

Frances, younger sister of John Kemble and Mrs. Siddons, through whose influence she obtained an engagement at Drury-lane; but although very elegant and pleasing, she did not display any great power as an actress. She married Mr. T. Twiss, and died 1st Oct., 1822. She was mother of Horace Twiss, M.P.

Reynolds is not stated to have painted this lady more than once, but he is stated to have made replicas of his portraits. The Pocket-books for 1783 and 1785 are missing, and Miss Kemble's name does not occur in that of 1784. There can be little doubt, however, from comparing the prints and noting the various differences in folds of hair, features, &c., that two entirely different pictures were painted, the first in 1783, being that exhibited in the following year, and of which No. 42 is the print, and another in 1785.

46. Thomas Legge.

H. L., in square border, facing slightly to right, directed and looking to front, cap, ruff, scroll in right hand. Under, Drawn by S Harding. Engraved by J. Jones. Thomas Legge L. L. D. Master of Gonville & Caius College Cambridge 1573. Ob. Jul. 12. 1607.

From an Original Painting in the Library of that Society. He was Author of Two Latin Tragedies, Viz The Destruction of Jerusalem, and King Richard III. See the Biographia Dramatica. Of this mezzotint only twenty impressions were taken, the last of them after the Plate had been irreparably defaced. Publish'd as the Act directs March 10 1790 by J Jones No 75 Great Portland Street. I. Before name of personage.

II. As described.

Born at Ormskirk, Lancashire, March 4th, 1748; was brought to Ireland in the following year, and educated at Armagh. He went on the stage at an early age, appearing in Edinburgh and Dublin, and, in 1773, at Covent Garden, where he filled characters performed previously by Barry and Woodward, and became deputy manager. He died at Westbourne-place, King's-road, Chelsea, 15th Jan., 1811.

The picture from which the print is taken represents him as the Marquis, in the "Midnight Hour," and is in the National Gallery.

48. Charles Bingham, Lord Lucan. REYNOLDS.

51. (James Mansfield.) ROMNEY.

H. L., in square border, directed, facing, and looking towards right, barrister's wig, bands, and black gown. Under, G. Romney Pinx. John Jones Sculpt. Published as the Act directs March 29th 1792 by J. Jones No 75 Great Portland Street, Mary-le-bone. H. 20; Sub. $17\frac{7}{8}$; W. 14; I. B. H. $14\frac{3}{4}$; W. $10\frac{3}{4}$.

This plate is not mentioned by Bromley, but the features strongly resemble those of the following in spite of the wholly different style of the painters; it would be satisfactory that a lettered impression were met with to completely establish the identity of the personage.

Born, 1738; son of an attorney at Ringwood, Hampshire; educated at Eton and Cambridge, and went to the bar; M.P. for Cambridge University in 1776; Solicitor-General in 1780 and 1783-4; Chief Justice of the County Court of Chester, 1799; Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, and knighted, 1804; surrendered in 1814. He died in Russell-square, 23rd Nov., 1821.

52. Id. VASLET.

Bromley gives date "1793" to this print, so there may probably be an after-state with that date and with name of personage.

See page 674.

54. George, Duke of Marlborough. ROMNEY.

W. L., standing, directed to front, facing and looking towards left, powdered hair, robes of the Garter, right hand on hip, left holding plumed hat, pillars and curtain in background to left: at bottom, George Spencer, Duke of Marlborough, &c. &c. &c. Miss Peshall, in the Character of Mrs Harley. Mrs H "Who can behold such Beauty and be silent." Vide False Delicacy Act 5. Sc last.

Third Plate. On left young Clackitt, embroidered suit, hat in right hand, addressing Mr. Heartly, who stands in centre, on right Harriet, wearing hat dressed with feathers and flowers, closed fan in right hand, left hand on handle of door to right. Under, Hon Rd Edgumbe in the Character of Young Clackitt. Lord Wm Russell, in the Character of Mr Heartly. Lady Caroline Spencer, in the Character of Harriet. Vide Guardian Act I. Sc 1.

The private theatre at Blenheim was opened in Sept., 1787, with the comedy of "False Delicacy," and the farce of "Who's the Dupe;" the characters by amateurs, mostly the immediate family of the owners of Blenheim (Nos. 53 and 54). An account of the performance is given in the "Town and Country Magazine," for 1787, p. 438, and it is stated that the next pieces to be acted are the "Guardian" and the "Lyar."

Lady Caroline Spencer, eldest daughter of 3rd Duke of Marlborough, born, 1763; married, 1792, Henry Welbore, 2nd Viscount Clifden. Died, 1813.

Lady Elizabeth, next sister, born, 1764; married, 1790, her cousin, John Spencer (see fourth after). Died, 1812.

Lady Charlotte, next sister, born, 1769; married, 1797, Rev. Edward Nares. Died, 1802.

Lord Henry-John, second son, born, 1770. Died at Berlin, 1795.

Lord Charles, second son of 2nd Duke of Marlborough, born, 1740. Died, 1820.

Hon. Richard Edgcumbe. See page 178.

Lord William Russell. See page 537.

The Rev. John Pershall, about 1771, assumed the name Peshall, and title of baronet, which had lain dormant since 1712. He published works on Oxford, where he resided, and died about 1778. His widow died at her house in St. Giles's, Oxford, 5th Dec., 1795, in her 75th year, it being stated that she had not slept for two years before. She was highly esteemed in the neighbourhood, and their only daughter, Elizabetha, the lady represented in the print, must evidently have been intimate with the young Ladies Spencer; she married, 19th July, 1798, Busick Harwood. See page 753.

II. As described. Brit: Mus.

Appeared at Covent Garden in 1783, afterwards at the Haymarket and in Dublin. It is said that she was not mistress of the English language, so she was probably a native of Italy; but others of her name were connected with Covent Garden. Bromley, p. 445, states that she married Mr. Stocqueler; query if this be Joseph Christian Stocqueler, many years an agent in London of the Royal Wine Company of Oporto, who died 7th April, 1812, in his 63rd year; if so, she was his first wife, and must have died before 1800, when he married Mrs. Elizabeth Hayward of Hackney, who died, in her 60th year, 11th July, 1814.

Spencer family. See No. 55.

69. John Still.

I. Before the portion of inscription, after "York."

II. As described.

Beatrice is said to be a portrait of Mrs. Jordan, and Hero of Miss Murray, afterwards Mrs. Henry Siddons.

Jones also executed some subject pieces after Carter and others.

ELIZABETH JUDKINS may be pronounced with certainty to have been a pupil of James Watson; indeed No. 1 is such an admirable work, that it is difficult to suppose that it was not produced by his experienced hand. His daughter, Caroline Watson, inherited much of his talent, and executed several fine plates after Reynolds and others in the stipple manner; she must have been a very young student at the time of publication of the following; and it may be conjectured that their engraver was her companion and leader in an art so seldom practised by the gentler sex. The Careful Shepherdess, after Reynolds, and other subject pieces were also engraved by her.

Frances Barton was born in London in 1731; after passing through many difficulties, she appeared with success at Drury Lane in 1755, and soon afterwards married Mr. James Abington. Under this name she is as celebrated in Comedy as Mrs. Siddons was in Tragedy, and was an unrivalled favourite with the public up to her retirement from the stage at the close of the century. She died at Pall Mall, 4th March, 1815. She must have possessed rare talents, attracting admiration by the elegance of her figure, taste in dress, and piquancy of expression, in spite of plain and somewhat coarse features; overcoming the defect of a harsh and unpleasant voice by skill in modulation of its tones, and causing, what in another would be considered extreme impudence, in herself to appear as charming sauciness.

H. 10 $\frac{1}{2}$; W. 8 $\frac{1}{4}$.

Native of Cork; educated at St. Malo; became a Roman Catholic clergyman; acted as Chaplain to the English prisoners; returned to Ireland and built a small chapel in his native city. He there distinguished himself by his remarkable wit, and by several able publications, some controversial, some political, but all endeavouring to foster a spirit of conciliation. He then removed to London, becoming principal of the Roman Catholic Chapel in Soho Square, and being highly esteemed. He died at his rooms in Great Portland-street, 7th Jan., 1802, aged 73, and was interred at St. Pancras.

Born 5th March, 1736; 2nd daughter of William, 2nd Duke of Portland, and his Duchess Margaret Harley, only daughter of the 2nd Earl of Oxford and Mortimer, and celebrated for her taste in collecting objects of art, and curiosities of natural history; married, 1763, to foregoing. Died in Charles-street, Berkeley Square, 4th June, 1827.

Neither of these prints appear to have ever been published for sale.

Bromley, page 288, mentions a mez. of Sir Peter Warren by Kennedy, but the print has not been met with, nor any other by an engraver of this name.

BENJAMIN KILLINGBECK appears both as designer and engraver of the following, which are in a stiff style, not indicating much practice; he is not mentioned by Redgrave or Nagler.

1. Charles James Fox.

H. L., in oval, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, dark coat, white vest. Under, *B. Killingbeck Delt et Sculpt. Honble Chars Jas Fox. 3. James Wolfe.

Bromley, p. 288. Profile, oval frame, 4to, dated 1783, from a picture by Monstresor, dated 1759.

See page 693.

GILES KING practised engraving in Dublin, and produced four interesting views of places near that city, after Wm. Jones, viz., Black-rock, Powerscourt Waterfall, Leixlip Salmon Leap, and Howth; these were originally published in Dublin, in 1744-5, by Jones; afterwards in London by Bowles, then cut down and published by Wilkinson; they are engraved in the line method, as were some illustrations by King to Smith's "History of Waterford," dated 1746, where he calls himself "Londinensis." He engraved some other plates in the same method, but so far as known the following is his only mezzotinto.

Thomas Carter.

T. Q. L., standing, directed and facing towards right, looking to front, wig, robes, right elbow on pedestal to left covered by a curtain, left hand placed in breast of coat. Under, Wm Jones Pinxit Dublin 1745. Giles King Fecit Dublin 1745. The Rt Honble Thomas Carter Esqr Master of the Rolls. Sold by John Simpson Opposite ye Custom House Efsex Street. H. $14\frac{1}{4}$; Sub. $12\frac{3}{4}$; W. $10\frac{3}{8}$.

See page 89.

HENRY KINGSBURY is said by Redgrave to have practised so far back as 1750, but his plates do not corroborate this, and it seems much more likely from prints of his being published at Bateman's Buildings, and by Humphrey, and from the general character of his work, that he belonged to the school of J. R. Smith, after whose paintings Nos. 9 and 14 are executed. He engraved some plates in the stipple method, and appears to have been a painter also.

1. Hannah Barker. STUBBLE.

W. L., a child, standing before a garden-seat, facing and looking to front, directed slightly to left, her arms round a black dog lying on the seat, cap with feathers, sash round frock. Under, scratched, except name of personage, Painted by Stubble. Engrav'd by H Kingsbury Mifs Hannah Barker Pubd June 20th 1780 No 11 Bateman's Buildings Soho. H. 15; Sub. $13\frac{7}{8}$; W. 11.

EDWARD KIRKALL was a native of Sheffield, born about 1695; came to London, and in 1722 published a set of plates from copper and wood blocks, a combination of etching and scraping, so as to give the effect of tinting; this process had merit but could not be considered successful. He published other works and several subject pieces in mezzotinto, generally printed in green or some other colour.

Francesco Bernardi, il Senesino. GOUPY.

FRANCIS KYTE was both painter and engraver, in the latter capacity he displayed his talents by imitating a bank note, for which he was convicted in 1725; he afterwards, sometimes, Latinised his name to Milvus, but not always, as proved by No. 11. Many of his plates were published by E. Cooper, and it is likely that others may have been so published, engraved by him but without his name; he thus may have been brought into connection with Simon, who also for some time engraved for Cooper, and thereby improved his style.

This portrait is stated by Bromley, p. 245, and also by Noble, VOL. I., p. 318, to be that of Margaret, daughter of Henry Cavendish, Duke of Newcastle, and wife of John Holles, Duke of Newcastle. That lady died in 1716, aged about 50. The print is clearly subsequent to this date, and represents a young person, who must therefore be Harriet or Henrietta, daughter of Francis, 2nd Earl of Godolphin, and his wife (see No. 5), who married, 2nd April, 1717, Thomas Pelham-Holles, Duke of Newcastle (see page 400), and died, 17th July, 1776, without issue.

This is an after-state with altered address.

13. Worthies of Britain.

Set of six plates, each having four oval portraits in frame of palm branches, with scroll at bottom containing name and on side dates

(some of which are not correct) of birth and death. Each plate, H. 14; W. 10; each portrait about, O. D. 11. 5 $\frac{3}{8}$; W. 4 $\frac{3}{8}$.

It may be that these plates were first issued with John Bowles' address at "Mercer's Hall, Cheapside," as the "Black Horse" on some of the plates looks to have been altered; they have been met with in brilliant state with the latter address however, and also coarsely retouched and darkened.

It will be noted that one of the plates has Faber's name as engraver, and it is possible that he may have done some of the others also; but as Kyte certainly engraved the first of the set, they are placed under his name.

ROBERT LAURIE was born, according to Redgrave, in London, about 1740; which is probably too early, as his first prints are subsequent to 1770; he at first spelt his name as Lowry, Lowery, Lowrie, afterwards Lawrie and Laurie, to which last he adhered. His prints, except those after Dighton, were mostly published by Sayer, with whose business he was connected, and succeeded to it in partnership with Whittle. He died, according to Redgrave, about 1804. His prints are both artistic and carefully finished, especially the groups.

2. Joseph Ames.

Nearly W. L., sitting, directed slightly to right, facing slightly to left, looking to front, wig, black clothes, ruffles, left arm across back of chair, right elbow on table to left on which lie two large books, the upper one open, book-shelves behind, pen in right hand, at top to right coat of arms engraved in line. Under, in centre, arms, Robt Laurie fecit. Joseph Ames F. R. S. & S. S. A. H. 9; Sub. 8; W. 6½.

This plate was issued as an illustration to the second edition of the "Typographical Antiquities," published in 1785, and a copy of it to the third edition of that work, published in 1810.

Born at Yarmouth, 23rd Jan., 1688-9; settled in Wapping as ship's ironmonger, where he continued to his death, on 7th Oct., 1759. He early developed an extraordinary taste for antiquities and great powers of research, and was highly esteemed by those who appreciated such labours. His principal work was the "Typographical Antiquities," published in 1749, but in the previous year he had given to the public his "Catalogue of English Heads," drawn up from the collection formed by Mr. Nicholls (see page 553). It may be observed that that work undertook to "Describe what was peculiar on each, as the Name, Title or Office of the Person, the Habit, Posture, Age or Time when done, the Name of the Painter, Graver, Scraper, &c., and some remarkable particulars relating to their lives," and that for a period of one hundred and thirty years, although the value of such descriptions to the knowledge of English Art and History must have been manifest to many, the investigations of Ames were not pursued further in the direction indicated by him until the publication of these present volumes.

Stated by Bromley, p. 397, to be engraved by Laurie; the style is similar, but the date is long subsequent to the set described in No. 1.

Born in Gloucestershire, 1738; came up to London, and gained favour both as a singer and an actor; engaged with Foote, afterwards with Garrick, and in private life his gaiety, wit, and conviviality procured him many friends. He died in Suffolk-street, Charing Cross, 19th Oct., 1804.

8. Frederick Bull. DIGHTON.

Nearly W. 18. Court of Equity. DIGHTON.

A society of sixteen collected in a room, with tables, glasses, and pipes; to left the chairman, who is Hurford, the Guildhall orator; on wall above him, arms, motto, MIRTH with JUSTICE; on his right sits Wright, distiller, in Fleet-street, and Hamilton, clerk to William Woodfall, printer, holding Morning Chronicle in his hand; on opposite side of the table is Smith, the printseller; on the left of the chairman are Lamb, silversmith, in Fetter-lane; Clark, the sausage-maker; Stephenson, an attorney; Clark, a bricklayer, in Shoe-lane; Russell, a broker, at the corner of Harp-alley; Good, the auctioneer; Thorn; beside him at right, Dighton, jun., the artist of this print, whose father sits in front to right; between them one unknown, reading the Morning Post; before him, standing and speaking, Towse of Vauxhall; Tom Thorpe, waiter of the Globe Tavern, advances before him carrying a bowl of punch. Under, *Robt Dighton Pinxit Robt Laurie Fecit Court of Equity or a Convivial City Meeting Publish'd Novr 1st 1778 by John Smith Chcapfide London. Bromley, p. 402, calls this, in error, aquatint. The Society held its meetings at the Bell Savage, Ludgate-hill. An impression of this curious print has been met with having the above names written on the margin as a key to the plate, and this was, probably, the only record remaining of the characters. Robert Dighton, the designer, whose portrait is in the print, was a great humourist and displayed talent in many ways; his portraits are exceedingly clever, but do not exhibit much knowledge of perspective; he afterwards degenerated into caricature. He died at Spring Gardens in 1814, aged 62. Laurie engraved many of his portraits at the time of this print.

III. "Sir John Jervis" erased, instead, Earl St Vincent. Companion to No. 30.

Born, 1734; entered the navy when only ten years old; post captain in 1760; captured the Pegasse in 1782; M.P. for High Wycombe; reduced the West India Islands in 1794; on 14th Feb., 1797, totally defeated the Spanish fleet, for which brilliant victory he was created Earl St. Vincent. He subsequently was First Lord of the Admiralty, in command of the Channel Fleet, and in 1821, Admiral of the Fleet. He died, 15th March, 1823, at Rochetts, near Brentwood.

32. T. King with Mrs. Abington, Smith, and Palmer.

W. L.'s, standing in a library, King on left, his hands clasped, before him a fallen screen, behind which, her back to a window, stands Mrs. Abington, elegantly dressed, holding fan before her face, Palmer points towards her with right hand whilst addressing Smith, who is just entering at door to right. Under, R Laurie Delint et Fecit. Mr King, Mrs Abington, Mr Smith, and Mr Palmer; in the Characters of Sir Peter and Lady Teazle, Joseph and Charles Surface, in the Comedy of the School for Scandal. London, Publish'd as the Act directs 12th May 1778, by John Harris Map & Print-feller Sweetings Alley, Cornhill. Price 1s 6d. W. 14; H. 10; Sub. 9½.

This singularly clever and characteristic print is not mentioned by Bromley. In Decr., 1789, Sayer published another print of the same scene, Sir Peter saying, "Lady Teazel! by all that's Damnable," but the characters in that are hardly to be styled portraits.

Mr. Mattocks, Mrs. Mattocks. See No. 1.

I. Before inscription, except artists' names and address.

II. As described.

There is a smaller print of this celebrated scene in Goldsmith's play, similar to foregoing, apparently a companion to No. 22, printed 8th Feb., 1776. This may have been engraved by Laurie, but it is very inferior to the large one.

For Shuter, see page 156. John Quick was born in Whitechapel, London, in 1748; went on the stage, appearing at the Haymarket in 1769, and became a great favourite of the king. He was the original Tony Lumpkin. He quitted the stage in 1798, and died at Islington, 4th April, 1831. Mrs. Green was a daughter of John Hippeley, and an admirable performer of such parts as Mrs. Hardcastle.

II. As described.

This plate is not mentioned by Bromley. From the likeness to the portrait by C. Turner, after Lawrence (dated, 1814), there can be little doubt of its representing Charles Whitworth, who was born in 1754; obtained a commission in the Guards; sent on a diplomatic mission to the Court of Poland in 1786; two years afterwards Envoy to Russia; received the Order of the Bath in 1793; created Baron Whitworth in the Irish Peerage in 1800; and in the following year married Arabella, widow of the 3rd Duke of Dorset. He subsequently took a leading part in European diplomacy; was Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, 1814-17, having been raised to an earldom in 1816. He died at Knole, 13th May, 1825.

38. Richard Whitworth. HARDY.

W. L., standing, directed to front, facing and looking towards right, military uniform, right hand holding musket, left hand on hip, large dog beside him to left, camp in background. Under, scratched, T Hardy pinxt. R. Laurie fecit. Richard Whitworth Esqr. Member of Parliament for the Borough of Stafford. In Camp at Winchester 1778. H. $10\frac{1}{2}$; Sub. $9\frac{3}{4}$; W. $7\frac{7}{8}$.

I. Before inscription.

II. As described.

Bromley, p. 352, gives the engraver as "J. Davies, 1792," possibly an after-state of the plate.

Died, 1791. Probably a relative of the foregoing, but represented as very much older.

39. Tomlins Wright. WRIGHT.

Bromley, p. 416. A boy, small mez., 1778.

Mrs. Wrighten, Mr. Wroughton, Mrs. Yates, Miss Young. See No. 1.

40. Lady. DIGHTON.

H. L., in oval frame, directed towards front, facing in profile to left, very high headdress, large curls on neck. Under, Robt Dighton pinxit. R. Laurie fecit. London, Printed for J Smith No 35 Cheapfide, & R. Sayer & J Bennett No 53 Fleet Street, as the Act directs 1st January 1778. H. $4\frac{1}{2}$; Sub. $4\frac{1}{4}$; W. $3\frac{5}{8}$; O. D. H. $2\frac{3}{4}$; W. $2\frac{1}{8}$.

Possibly a portrait of Mrs. Hartley.

41. Lady. HAMILTON.

H. L., nearly in profile to left, high hair, black ribbon round neck, striped dress. Under, H. D. Hamilton pinxt. R. Laurie fecit. London, Printed for Robt Sayer No 53 Fleet Street, as the Act directs 20 Octr 1771. H. 6; Sub. $5\frac{1}{2}$; W. $4\frac{1}{2}$; O. D. H. 5; W. $3\frac{3}{4}$.

Amongst Laurie's subject pieces are the Full of the Honeymoon and Wane of the Honeymoon, a large pair after Wheatley, published in 1789; the Flemish Rattcatcher, after Ostade; the Rival Milleners and Jealous Maids, a pair after Collett; Madonna, after Kauffman, all published in 1772.

WILLIAM LAWRANSON was the son of an Irish portrait painter, whose Christian name was Thomas; he gained premiums at the Society of Arts in 1760 and 1761, and was a member of the Incorporated Society of Artists; many of his pictures have been engraved, and he scraped the following with much ability.

1. (Thomas Lawranson.)

H. L., directed to left, looking to front, leaning on left elbow and laughing. Under, W Lawrenson pinx et sculp. H. $6\frac{1}{4}$; Sub. $5\frac{7}{8}$; W. $4\frac{3}{4}$.

If Bromley, p. 407, be correct, this must be the father of the painter, who died about 1777.

2. William Smith.

W. L., standing, directed towards front, facing and looking towards left, striped dress, cloak, with right hand writing on tablet held in left, Imogen sleeping on bed in background to right, open trunk to left. Under, W Lawranson pinxt. Mr Smith. In the Character of Iachimo, in Cymbaline. Act II Scene III. Publish'd as the Act directs Novr 10, 1772. H. $20\frac{3}{4}$; Sub. $19\frac{3}{8}$; W. 15.

I. As described.

II. Retouched, inscription altered to Painted & Engraved by W Lawranson. Mr Smith In the Character of Iachimo in Cymbeline Act II Scene III. Publish'd as the Act directs Janry 1 1784 by Wm Richardson No 174 Strand. Brit: Mus.

Bromley, p. 413, gives date 1780 for this print.

Born, 1730; educated at Eton and Cambridge, but was obliged to quit the latter place; he then went on the stage, appearing at Covent Garden in 1753; he continued there for twenty-two years, and was afterwards at Drury-lane up to 1788, when he retired. He was best known during this career as "Gentleman Smith." He married Elizabeth, granddaughter of the 3rd Earl of Sandwich, and widow of Kelland Courtenay, Esq.; she died in 1762. Mr. Smith died at Bury St. Edmunds, 13th Sept., 1819.

S. LEADER is not named by Nagler or Redgrave, but they do mention a William Leader, who was, however, of much more recent date. The following curious and uncommon print is the only one known of this engraver, but the execution is so good that it is difficult to believe that he did not practise more extensively, unless the name for some reason be an assumed one. The painter is also unknown; the work partakes of the styles of Lely and Wissing.

Lady Neville.

T. Q. L., sitting, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, hair in curls, long lock over left shoulder held by right hand, loose dress, left hand holding out shell for water from fountain of dolphin's head and three Cupids to right, a squirrel on left knee, landscape with poplar-trees in distance to left. Under, The Lady Neuell Pooly pinxit. S Leader fecit. H. 13 $\frac{3}{8}$; Sub. 12 $\frac{1}{4}$; W. 9 $\frac{5}{8}$.

Two known.

Granger and Bromley consider this to be the same personage as Madam Katharine Neville, see page 116; but the features, especially the mouth, are so different that this is not possible. One of these portraits most probably represents Catherine, daughter of Ralph, Lord Grey of Werke, and sister of Forde, afterwards Earl of Tankerville (see page 111); she married, about 1679, Richard Neville of Billingbere, Berks, whose great grandson became 2nd Lord Braybrooke.

LELIUS is also unmentioned as an engraver; the following does not display much ability, but it is carefully worked.

Thomas Sherlock. JONES.

T. Q. L., sitting, directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, wig, bands, robes, jewel hung from neck, right hand on arm of chair, left hand in lap, purse on table to right, two pillars behind. Under, The Right Reverend Father in God, Thomas Sherlock D. D. Lord Bishop of Sarum and Chancellor of the most Noble Order of the Garter. Jones pinx. Lelius Sculpsit 1737. H. 15; Sub. 13 $\frac{3}{4}$; W. 11.

Born, 1678; educated at Eton and Cambridge; entered the Church and published many admirable works; Bishop of Bangor, 1728; translated to Salisbury, 1734; to London, 1748. He died, 18th July, 1761, and was interred at Fulham.

The Lady Seuell.

BERNARD LENS was born in London in 1659, and was son of an enamel painter of the same name, who died in 1708. He was instructed in art by his father, and chiefly devoted himself to mezzotinto engraving. He died, 28th April, 1725. He had a son also of the same name, who was born in 1680 and died in 1740, and was an excellent miniature painter. It is stated by Redgrave that this latter engraved in mezzotinto, and Nagler actually divides the prints, having the name of Lens, between the father and son. All these, however, are referable to dates within the lifetime of the father, and it would be extremely unlikely that the younger Lens would publish anything during this period without "junior," or some such expression, after his name, as done by the younger Faithorne and Faber. Neither Walpole, Strutt, nor Bryan (in original edition) confirm Nagler's conjecture, nor does there seem any foundation for it in the style of work of the prints. This style in the following portraits is very good and artistic, but there are a vast number of small subject pieces by this engraver which display no great merit; possibly some of them, having "ex." only, were not engraved by Lens. His prints have addresses of Beckett, Smith, many of E. Cooper, and a few of his own. There is a curious print by him of Fireworks on the Thames on 7th July, 1713.

Bromley, p. 203, mentions Queen Anne, 4to, after Kneller, possibly portion of No. 17; at page 253, Princesses Anne and Amelia, granddaughters of King George, without name of engraver, probably No. 6; and at p. 254, Princess Elizabeth, granddaughter to King George, probably No. 7.

1. Charles Cecil. VANDERVAART.

2. John, Lord Cutts. WALL.

W. L., lying asleep to left, at his feet a weeping cherub, large wig, Roman costume, in centre figures of Mars, Minerva, and Apollo, and above, in clouds, the Graces, Muses, Virtues, and other allegorical personages, to right armour and weapons, behind tomb attended by figures strewing flowers and mourning. At bottom, in centre, Laurindæ Tumulus. Under, *In Æternam Memoriam Æxcellentissimæ et Prehonorabilis Elizabethæ Dominæ Cutts Baronissæ de Gowran & ct. Tabulam hanc ex Carmine Consolatorio N. Two known. Brit: Mus.

Of Childerley, in Cambridgeshire; entered the army; served under the Duke of Monmouth, in Hungary; afterwards with the Princess Mary of Orange, and accompanied William to England in 1688; created, in 1690, Baron Cutts of Gowran, in Ireland; in 1693, Governor of the Isle of Wight; M.P. for Cambridgeshire, afterwards for Newport; was wounded at the siege of Namur; afterwards fought at Venlo, Blenheim, &c., but retired to Ireland in consequence of some disagreement with Marlborough. He died in Dublin, 26th Jan., 1706-7, and was buried in Christ Church there. He appears to have had a taste for poetry, and, on the death of his second wife, Nahum Tate addressed to him a consolatory poem in 1698, from which Wall, who is otherwise unknown, designed this very curious print.

In Suth: Cat., VOL. I., p. 457, and by Bromley, p. 254, it is stated that this print was originally the young Pretender, which is very probable.

There is another similar print perhaps, too, by Lens. Under, The Duke of Gloucester 1689. Sold by Steven Lye Cannon Street London H. $9\frac{3}{4}$; W. $7\frac{1}{8}$. Brit: Mus. Suth: Coll. In Catalogue at above page it is stated, in mistake, that in this print the dog is in the child's lap.

This young prince was the eldest son of the Princess Anne, afterwards Queen, and Prince George of Denmark, and thus heir to the crown of England. He was born, 24th July, 1689, and died of malignant fever, 30th July, 1700. Bishop Burnet, who was his tutor, speaks of the amazing progress he had made in learning, and of his death bringing a great change on the face of political affairs.

II. As described.

Daughter of Charles II. and Miss Davis; married, first, Francis, Lord Radclyffe, who succeeded his father, in 1697, as 2nd Earl of Derwentwater, and who died in 1705; second, in 1707, Mr. James Rooke. Her eldest son was beheaded at the Tower in 1716, and her youngest in 1746, both for joining the risings in favour of the Stuarts. Walpole thinks that this theatric dress may have been one in which she acted at Court.

Charles II. of Spain, who died on 1st Nov., 1700, left his kingdom, by will, to Philip, Duke of Anjou, grandson of Louis XIV., who thereupon assumed the title of Philip V. of Spain; this was contested by the personage represented, who was second son of the Emperor Leopold, and assumed the title of Charles III. of Spain. Hence the War of the Succession (the cause of Philip being adopted by France, of Charles by England), which was waged for several years with varying fortune, and terminated by the Peace of Utrecht in 1713. In 1711, Charles, in consequence of the death of his elder brother, Joseph, succeeded to the Empire; was crowned at Frankfort, on 22nd Dec., as Charles VI., and soon afterwards withdrew his claim to the crown of Spain. He died at Vienna, 20th Oct., 1740.

JOHN LLOYD is said by Walpole to have been a printseller in Salisbury-street, Strand, and to have procured the secret of mezzotinto from Blois (who used to lay grounds for Bloteling), with the object of communicating it to Luttrell, but that afterwards he would not do so, on which they quarrelled. The latter part of this story is not credible, for Lloyd published a great number of Luttrell's prints after the latter had thoroughly mastered the art, and it is not improbable that Luttrell was the engraver of some of the following also, for he often did not put his name to his prints. The curious style of work on No. 1, if engraved by Luttrell, would tend to confirm Walpole's statement, that he at first laid his grounds with a roller; but, on the other hand, it is a strange thing that, if Luttrell was seeking by every means to acquire the art, he could have been ignorant of A. Browne's book (see pages 106, 7), which was published fully twelve years before this print. As mentioned at page xiv, the prints under this and the following name have not been ascertained to have been engraved by them, but the grouping thus may perhaps lead to a solution of some of the very interesting questions connected with the early history of the art in England.

Colonel Robert Fielding. See page 32.

A nearly similar print, on smaller scale and in reverse direction, was engraved in the line method by R. White, being inscribed, "His Excellency Hamet Ben Hamet, Ben Haddu Ottor, Ambassador Extraordinary from the Emperour of Morocco to his Majesty of Great Brittain in the Year 1682."

Born, 25th Dec., 1655; heir to the throne when five years old; assumed the Government in 1672. Died, 15th April 1697.

DAVID LOGGAN was born at Dantzic about 1630; he came to England before the Restoration, and settled for some years at Oxford; published "Oxonia Illustrata" in 1676, and "Cantabrigia Illustrata" in 1688. Died at his house in Leicester Fields in 1693. He engraved a number of portraits in the line manner and also made blacklead drawings, displaying great ability in both. Whether or not he engraved the following is not yet apparent. Walpole mentions that he brought over Blooteling and Valck; but these prints are not in the style of other works of these artists, and, on the whole, bear most affinity to the prints published by R. Tompson, with which they appear to be nearly contemporary.

1. (Allestree, Dolben, and Fell.) LELY.

T. Q. Sykes' Sale Catalogue, Pt. I., Lot 1,075, mentions a proof, but it seems to have had the above lettering, and no impression with any further inscription has been met with.

The picture was painted for Christ Church, Oxford, with which the three divines were connected; they were also great personal friends, and had all borne arms in their youth for the cause of Charles I,

Richard Allestree was born, 1619; entered the Church in 1656; Canon of Christ Church and Chaplain to the King, 1660; Professor of Divinity, 1663; Provost of Eton, 1665. He died, 28th Jan., 1680-1.

John Dolben was born, 1625; entered the Church in 1656; Canon of Christ Church, 1660; Dean of Westminster, 1662; Bishop of Rochester, 1666; Archbishop of York, 1683. He died of smallpox, 11th April, 1686.

John Fell was born, 1625; ordained, 1643, and deprived, 1648; Dean of Christ Church, 1660; Bishop of Oxford, 1675. He died, 10th July, 1686.

Charles II. is stated to have exclaimed on seeing the picture, "Chiplain! Choplain! Chaplain!" alluding to the leanness of Fell, the plumpness of Dolben, and the position held by Allestree.

II. "&ca" erased, instead, Martyr. Brit: Mus.

Born, 1573; Bishop of St. David's, 1621; translated to Bath and Wells, 1626; Archbishop of Canterbury, 1633. He was impeached by Parliament and condemned to death, 1640; and was beheaded 10th Jan., 1645.

6. Ernest Count Sternberg.

H. L., in oval, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, long wig, lace cravat. Under, Ernest Rudiger Count of Sterrenberg Governour of the Citty Vienna &c. D. L. ex. H. $7\frac{5}{8}$; W. $5\frac{1}{2}$; O. D. H. $6\frac{1}{4}$; W. $5\frac{1}{8}$.

Apparently a companion print to No. 4, the adversary of the personage.

GEORGE LUMLEY was a resident of York, and friend of Francis Place. From him he learned the art of mezzotinto, and produced the following prints. It is stated that he was an attorney by profession, and Redgrave places his death as recently as 1768, at the age of 60. Owing, however, to the difficulty of overcoming the fact that one cannot engrave before one is born, either Redgrave must be altogether mistaken, or the prints cannot be contemporary with the persons they represent. But the evidence of the prints themselves is clear and conclusive against the latter supposition, and, furthermore, some of them may be esteemed amongst the most rare and valuable of their class.

1. Thomas Comber.

H. L., in oval, directed and facing towards right, looking to front, long hair, close cap, black gown, bands. Under, Thomas Comber, D. D. Late Dean of Durham. Obiit. Nov. 26. 1699. H. 12; W. 8 $\frac{5}{8}$; O. D. H. 9 $\frac{3}{4}$; W. 8 $\frac{3}{8}$.

I. Before any inscription. One known.

II. As described.

Born, 1644; educated at Cambridge; on account of his uncommon qualifications was priested by Archbishop Sterne although under age; Prebendary of York; Chaplain to William and Mary; Dean as above, 1691. He was author of the "Companion to the Temple" and many other excellent works. He was buried at Stonegrave in Yorkshire.

Noble states that Granger was well assured that this engraving was by Place, although Bromley had assigned it to Lumley on the authority of Sir William Musgrave. Place's mezzotintoes were all engraved several years before the date of this print; but it is exceedingly probable that he may have directed and perhaps assisted Lumley in its execution.

2. Lady Mary Fenwick. DAHL.

Full T. Q. L., sitting, directed slightly to left, facing and looking downwards towards right, high widow's cap and lappets, black dress and veil, right hand in lap holding miniature of her husband, left elbow on slab to right on which is an urn, pillar to left. Eldest daughter of Charles Howard, created Earl of Carlisle in 1661; married Sir John Fenwick of Wallington, Northumberland, who, by an act of attainder, which passed both Houses under strong protest of the minority,* was beheaded, 27th Jan., 1696, without a trial, for conspiring in favour of James II. She made the greatest exertions to save her husband's life, and became an object of much interest to the Jacobite party. She died, 27th Oct., 1708, aged 50, and is buried in York Minster.

3. Sir Walter Hawksworth.

Said by Noble to have been also a midwife at York.

E. LUTTRELL is stated to have been born in Dublin about 1650, and to have come to London, when young, in order to study law. His taste for art, however, induced him to give up this pursuit, and he applied himself to portraiture in crayons, in which he was very successful. He also produced several works in mezzotinto, and appears to have had the honour of attracting Beckett's attention to this art. His works range over a considerable period, some being attributed to as early a date as 1681, others as late as 1710, in which year he is said to have died; most of his prints were published by Lloyd (see page 821).

English writers on engravings have hitherto uniformly given this artist's name as "Henry," showing how little they looked to the engravings themselves for information as to the lives of the artists. Nagler, however, noticed the discrepancy.

Several prints of his time, under, "Engraver not ascertained," may have been by Luttrell, as the Earl of Nottingham, Earl of Ossory, &c., for he is said often not to have put his name to his prints.

III. "LLoyd" altered to Smith.

Son of Lord Capel, who was beheaded by the Parliamentarians in 1649; created Earl of Essex in 1661; Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, 1672-77; Lord High Treasurer, 1679; accused of being a conspirator in the Ryehouse plot, was sent to the Tower, where he was found with his throat cut, 13th July, 1683.

8. Hamet Ben Hamet.

Full T. Q. L., sitting, directed and facing slightly to left, looking to front, hair in curls falling over right shoulder, loose robe, right arm leaning on pedestal of fluted pillar to left, left hand holding flower in lap, to right vase with orange-tree, gardens in distance. Under, Madam Helyot E Lutterell fec: I LLoyd ex: H. $12\frac{1}{8}$; Sub. $11\frac{1}{8}$; W. $9\frac{1}{8}$. Brit: Mus.

Probably of the Court of Louis XIV., and the same personage as that of the print by Edelinck, Dumesnil, 223. It is there stated that her name was Marie Herinx, and that she was wife of "M. Claude Helyot, conseiller en la cour des aides de Paris." The print tells us that she died, 3rd March, 1682, aged 37, and it represents her with a crucifix; perhaps she was another La Vallière.

10. Francis Higgins.

H. L., in oval, directed and facing slightly to right, looking to front, black wig, small bands, black gown. Under, The Reverend Mr Higgins. E. Luttrell delin et fecit Sold by M. Luttrell in Westminster-Hall. H. $13\frac{1}{4}$; W. $10\frac{1}{8}$; O. D. H. $12\frac{1}{4}$; W. $9\frac{3}{4}$.

Born in Denbighshire; went to the bar; appointed Chief Justice of Chester, 1680; created a baronet in the following year; Chief Justice of the King's Bench, 1683; Lord Chancellor and Baron Jefferys of Wem, 1685; notorious for his cruelties in suppressing Monmouth's rebellion; on the landing of the Prince of Orange endeavoured to escape, but was detected and sent to the Tower, where he died in 1689.

12. Keay Nabee and Keay Abi.

H. L.'s, Nabee on left, directed and looking to front; Abi on right, directed towards left, looking to front, turban. Under, Keay Nabee Naia-wi-praia, & Keay Abi jaya Sedana, Ambassadors from the Sultan of Bantam to his Matie of Great Britain 1682. Both drawn from the life at the Duke's Theatre by E Luttrell and Sold by I Smith in Rusell Street. W. 8; H. $6\frac{1}{2}$; Sub. $5\frac{1}{4}$. Suth: Coll.

Bromley, App., p. 42, appears to confuse the second of these personages with Pungearon Nea Para, whose portrait will be found under "Engraver not ascertained."

13. Richard Langhorn.

H. L., directed towards right, looking to front, long wig in curious curls, white bands. Under, Mr Richard Langhorn E Luttrell fe: La Kitfon ex. H. 6; Sub. $5\frac{2}{3}$; W. $5\frac{1}{3}$. Suth: Coll.

This print has been copied by Richardson.

A Roman Catholic lawyer, who is said to have managed various transactions for the Jesuits. He was convicted on the testimony of Titus Oates, and executed, 14th July, 1679.

Bromley, p. 194, mentions a portrait of Francis le Pipre, a painter who died in 1698; and a proof of this is in the Musgrave Catalogue, p. 247. Query, however, if this be not a print by W. Vaillant, before the inscription.

14. Oliver Plunkett.

H. L., in oval, directed towards left, looking to front, bands, gown. H. 6; W. $4\frac{3}{8}$; O. D. H. $4\frac{3}{4}$; W. 4.

Under impression in Sykes' Sale, Pt. I., lot 797, Bishop of Armagh. E. Luttrell, fecit. D. Ritson (probably error for La Kidson), excudit. See under Vander Vaart.

Similar, in same direction, to print in the line manner by Vandrebanc, from painting by G. Kneller, similarly inscribed. Note the superior truthfulness of character about the mouth in Luttrell's print.

Son and heir of William, 5th Earl of Bedford, who was created Duke of Bedford in 1694; married Rachel, daughter of Thomas, Earl of Southampton, and widow of Francis, Lord Vaughan; accused of complicity in the Ryehouse plot, and, despite the exertions of his wife and friends, the former aiding him by taking notes of the evidence at his trial, was condemned and beheaded, 21st July, 1683. His attainder was annulled by Parliament in 1689.

16. Anthony, Earl of Shaftesbury. GREENHILL.

Louise Francoise de la Baume le Blanc de la Vallière was born in 1644; maid-of-honour to Henrietta of England the wife of Duke of Orleans, younger brother of Louis XIV., who was attracted by her charms, and about 1661 they became intimate. She twice endeavoured to escape from the Court to the Convent of Chaillot; and, on the favour shown by Louis to Mdme. de Montespan, took the veil finally in 1675. She died 6th June, 1710.

Two known, both damaged; that in Suth: Coll. has the inscription, but is clipped round the oval.

Son of Sir William Paston, 1st baronet (died, 1662), who had devoted his fortune and energies to the Royal cause during the civil war; was created Viscount Yarmouth, 1673, and Earl of Yarmouth 1679. He was esteemed of refined taste and learning. Died, 8th March, 1682, aged 51, and was buried at Oxford.

JAMES MACARDELL was born in Cow-lane (afterwards altered to Greek-street), in Dublin, about 1729; he was pupil of John Brooks, and came with him to London about 1747; he soon afterwards commenced to practise on his own account, and about 1754 established himself at the Golden Head, Covent Garden, where he published most of his prints. He died, 2nd June, 1765, and was interred in Hampstead Churchyard, where, Lysons says, there was a short inscription to his memory, stating that he died in his 37th year.*

The writer of the article in Gentleman's Magazine, referred to at page 84 (who is conjectured to have been Alexander Mangin, a well-known connoisseur and print collector, resident in Dublin), mentions MacArdell as having done the head of the half-length of Primate Boulter, from a picture by Bindon, and borrowed the remainder; this would show that the plate (Brooks, No. 15, page 91) was altered by MacArdell's hand. The statement in a foot-note that the whole length of Primate Hoadley was "indubitably the entire work of MacArdell," is inaccurate, for the personage was not Hoadley but Boulter, and the print (see page 87) is not inscribed "Brooks fecit," but "Brooks Excudit." The article is a severe and not undeserved stricture on Strutt's Engravers; but critics who expose the mistakes of authors should be doubly cautious about what they state themselves.

It is clear, however, that even whilst a boy, MacArdell displayed his great natural capacity, and his works tell how this was cultivated by application and industry, qualities possessed by neither his master

* Yet, in spite of this distinct proof and of the evidence afforded by the dates of his prints, all the art writers have hitherto copied one another in the error of placing his birth in 1710. Many of them, too, have called him "Ardell;" Nagler, in consequence, gives him two Christian names, "James Marc."

nor fellow-pupils. He may be said to have carried on the art from the point to which it was brought by Faber, by adopting boldness, decision, and freedom of handling without losing either accuracy or truth.

His talents were duly appreciated by the great painters of his time, especially by Reynolds, who considered, as Northcote tells us, that his own fame would be preserved by MacArdell's engravings, when the pictures had faded away: and it may be noted that No. 67 was published by Reynolds himself.

Like most truly great men, MacArdell was of a kind and genial disposition; he never seems to have endeavoured to prevent the wholesale copying of his prints by Purcell and others, which, probably, to some extent affected their sale; indeed it is likely that he greatly assisted his old companions, for the last request of poor, wild, and wayward Spooner was to be buried beside him. Horace Walpole, indeed, was indignant ("Correspondence," VOL. III., p. 223) that MacArdell had told people of his print (No. 186); but it is easy to see that this petulance was aroused by an offence which must have been wholly unintentional.

There can be but little doubt that if MacArdell had lived longer he would have had still more considerable influence on English Art, probably in the direction of curbing the extravagances caused by straining after effect, of which many examples were subsequently produced even by eminent painters.

MacArdell scraped many fine subject pieces, amongst them, Virgin and Child, and Finding of Moses after Vandyck; Christ disputing with Doctors, Mathematician, Tobit and Angel, and Dutch Interior, after Rembrandt; Virgin ascending, and St. Francis, after Murillo; St. Jerome, after Da Cortona; Ghismonda and Lisabetta, after Corregio and Furino; St. Peter, after Spagnoletto; St. John, after R. Browne; Corn Mill, after J. Richards.

He also etched two curious portraits of the Chevalier Michael du Halley Descazeaux,* both W. L., standing, the larger with dog fawning on left knee, cane in right hand, left hand to face, is inscribed

* Born at Paris, 10th Aug., 1710; is said to have entered the Prussian service, and in consequence of a duel with a brother officer, who was dangerously wounded by him, fled to England. His singular dress and character attracted much notice, and although nominally confined for debt in the Fleet, he appears to have been allowed to go about as he wished. He wrote a great deal of poetry, but little of which was printed, and used to carry a roll of this, his cane and a sword, the last in order to give satisfaction to his antagonist should he meet him. All this joined to his extreme vanity seems to betoken a kind of harmless derangement of mind. He died, 16th Feb., 1775. There are prints of him by Beauvais after Bancks, 1748, and others.

with other matter, J. McArdel fecit et perfecit, from the famous Painting in ye Fleet; the smaller, with dog to left, cane and sword in left hand, J. McArdell invt et sculpt, and has The Second Edition at top; another very small one may have been by MacArdell also.

The greater portion of MacArdell's plates fell, after his death, into the hands of Sayer; five (Nos. 33, 38, 39, 102, and 175) unfinished ones were completed, but many others were tampered with without altering the addresses, and some were falsified to resemble proofs. It is therefore necessary to observe great caution in purchasing several of the prints by this engraver.

1. Mary, Duchess of Ancaster. HUDSON.

W. This charming print should soften the abuse so plentifully bestowed on poor Hudson, and it will at any rate prove that he was able to teach Reynolds something.

Succeeded General Richards (see page 415) as Surveyor-General in 1722, about which date the picture may have been painted. One can fancy the interest which the personage would take in an examination of what is now called an "Armstrong" gun.

4. Charles Ashton. PYLE.

Born, 1716; son of Dr. Ashton, Usher of the Grammar School at Lancaster; educated at Eton and Cambridge; Fellow of Eton, 1745; Rector of St. Botolph, Bishopsgate, 1752; D.D., 1759; Preacher at Lincoln's Inn, 1762-4. He died at Bath, 1st March, 1775. He was for some time an intimate friend of Horace Walpole.

Bromley misplaces this and the following print at p. 274, they should be at p. 357 with the one by Spilsbury, being the same person, which Bromley seems not to have known.

7. Mrs. Astley. IPSA.

Full H. L., sitting behind table, on which her arms are placed over a portfolio, directed slightly to right, facing and looking to front, a few pearls in hair, plain dress. Under, Ipsa pinxt. J's Mc Ardell fecit. Mrs Astley. H. 13; Sub. 10 $\frac{1}{2}$; W. 9. Three known.

Rhoda, eldest daughter of Francis Blake-Delaval, of Seaton Delaval, Co. Northumberland; married, 1751, Mr. Edward Astley, who succeeded his father as 4th baronet in 1760. She died, 12th Sept., 1757, it is said of grief for the death of her two children. Her talents for painting must have been considerable to have executed this picture, and she may have been the instructress of her relative. See page 63.

Bromley, p. 304, calls her "Lady," in error, as the date of her husband's accession to the baronetcy proves.

8. Augusta, Princess of Wales.

Ryall's address probably denotes an after-state, as in No. 83; some of these small plates, Nos. 8, 49, 83, 185, appear to have been originally joined on one plate which was afterwards divided.

See page 125.

H. L., in oval frame, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, wig, bands. Under, George Benson D. D. H. $8\frac{1}{2}$; Sub. $7\frac{3}{4}$; W. $6\frac{1}{2}$.

Died, 6th April, 1762. This portrait was prefixed to his "Life of Christ," published in 1764.

18. Elizabeth, Countess of Berkeley. REYNOLDS.

H. L., directed very slightly to right, facing and looking downwards towards left, pearl ornament in hair, earrings, necklace, low dress with bows in front, satin cloak edged with dark fur over shoulders, short wide sleeves, arms resting on large book on table before her. Under, J. Reynolds pinxt. Js Mc Ardell fecit. Elizabeth Countess of Berkley. Publish'd according to Act of Parliamt 1757 & Sold at the Golden head in Covent Garden. H. 12 $\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. 10 $\frac{3}{8}$; W. 9. Brit: Mus.

Daughter of Henry Drax, of Dorsetshire, Esq.; married, first, 1744, Augustus, 4th Earl of Berkeley, who died, 1755; second, 1757, Robert Nugent, who was created Earl Nugent in 1776. Died in Spring Gardens, 29th June, 1792.

19. Thomas Birch. WILLS.

H. L., reverse of print by Faber, jun., No. 34, unfinished. Under, Dr Burch. Engraved in Ireland, by James M' Ardell. H. 13 $\frac{1}{2}$; Sub. 12; W. 9 $\frac{5}{8}$.

One of the engraver's earliest prints, probably copied for improvement.

I. Before inscription, uncleared edge.

II. As described. One known.

See page 313. Bromley does not appear to have met with the last state, as he does not attribute the print to MacArdell.

20. John Blachford.

H. L., in oval frame, directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, wig, bands, black gown. Under, Js Mc Ardell fecit. The Revd John Blachford D: D: Chancellor of St Patrick's and Minister of St Werburgh's Dublin. Died 25th of October 1748 Aged 64. H. 12 $\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. 11 $\frac{1}{4}$; W. 9.

Grandfather to Mrs. Henry Tighe, the author of Psyche.

21. William Blakeney. CHALMERS.

Full H. L., standing, directed to right, facing towards and looking to front, wig, uniform, right hand holding baton, fortifications and rocky coast in background, fleet in distance to right. Under, G. Chalmers Pinxt Minorca 1755. Js Mc Ardell fecit. The Honble William Blakeney Esqr. Lieutenant General of His Majesty's Forces, Colonel of His Majesty's Iniskillin Regimt of Foot & Lieutenant Governor of Minorea. Publish'd according to Act of Parliamt, 1756, by G Hawkins at Miltons head in Fleet Street London. H. 12 $\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. 10 $\frac{3}{4}$; W. 8 $\frac{1}{2}$.

I. Before inscription, uncleared edge.

II. As described.

See page 314.

22. Charles Blakes.

W. L., standing, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, high dark wig, right hand holding cane towards lips, left hand placed in large muff. Under, Mr Blakes in the Character of Monsr la Medicine. Publish'd according to Act of Parliament, & Sold at the Golden Head in Covent Garden H. 14; Sub. 13 $\frac{1}{8}$; W. 9 $\frac{7}{8}$.

I. As described. Brit : Mus.

II. "la" corrected to le.

III. Background altered, to left a man sitting, to right a chair. Under, to right, J. Mc Ardell delin et fecit, address erased, instead, London, Printed for Robt Sayer, Map & Printseller, at No 53 in Fleet Street.

Originally a peruke-maker; became one of Fleetwood's company at Drury-lane, and personated the French fop to perfection. He died in May, 1763.

23. (Mrs. Bonfoy.) REYNOLDS.

T. Q. L., standing, directed slightly to right, facing and looking towards left, hair plain with veil at back, which falls over right shoulder, earring, neck-ribbon, low dress with bow in front to which a string of pearls is fastened, right hand turned in and holding dress at waist, left hand hanging beside her, trees in background to left, sea in distance to right. Under, J. Reynolds Pinxt. J. Mc Ardell fecit. Publish'd according to Act of Parliament and scratched, 1755. H. 14 $\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. 13 $\frac{3}{4}$; W. 10 $\frac{7}{8}$.

I. Before inscription, scratched under subject, J. Reynolds pint. J. Mc Ardell Fecit. Brit : Mus.

II. As described. Brit : Mus.

Anne, eldest daughter of Richard Eliot of Port Eliot, Co. Cornwall, M.P. (whose eldest son was created Lord Eliot in 1784, and whose grandson was created Earl of St. Germans, 1815); married Captain Hugh Bonfoy, R.N.; their daughter, Anne, married the Earl of Ely in 1775.

24. Edward Boscawen. ID.

W. L., standing on sea-shore, directed slightly to right, facing and looking to front, naval uniform, hat in right hand, left hand on hip, sea in distance, ship to left. Under, in centre, arms, I. Reynolds Pinxt. Is Mc Ardell fecit The Honorable Edward Boscawen Vice Admiral of the Red Squadron of His Majesty's Fleet; And One of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty 1757. H. 20; Sub. 18 $\frac{3}{4}$; W. 13 $\frac{3}{4}$.

I. As described.

II. Plate cut 2 at top and sides, 4 $\frac{1}{4}$ at bottom, well retouched, ship placed nearer to centre, foliage at bottom to right, 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ subject at bottom erased, on space, The Honble Edward Boscawen, Admiral of the Blue Squadron of His Majesty's Fleet, And One of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty. Sold by Robt Sayer opposite Fetter Lane Fleet Street & by J. Mc Ardell.

25. Jacob Bouverie. REYNOLDS.

W. L., a boy standing, directed towards right, facing and looking to front, Vandyke dress, right hand to vest, left hand on hip, landscape in distance to right. Under, on grounded space, J. Reynolds Pinxt 1757. Js Mc Ardell fecit. Jacob Son of the Honble William Bouverie by Harriot Daughter of Sir Mark Pleydell Bart. Born the 4th of March 1750. H. 13 $\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. 12 $\frac{7}{8}$; W. 9 $\frac{7}{8}$.

Grandson of 1st Viscount Folkstone; assumed that title in 1765, on his father being created an earl; succeeded him as 2nd Earl of Radnor in 1776. Died at Longford Castle, 27th Jan., 1828.

26. Id. ID.

Reverse of foregoing, darker in tone and some slight variations of foliage. Same dimensions and inscription on cleared space.

27. Archibald Bower. KNAPTON.

Full T. Q. L., sitting, directed slightly to left, facing and looking towards left, wig, ruffles, plain coat, right hand holding book upright on knee, left hand to chest, elbow on books on table to right, on which are pen and ink, book-shelves behind. Under, George Knapton pinxt. Js Mc Ardell fecit. Archibald Bower Esqr. H. 14; Sub. $12\frac{3}{8}$; W. $9\frac{3}{8}$.

See page 314.

T. Q. L., standing, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, in the character of Diana, crescent and pearls in hair, mantle over left shoulder, spear in right hand, left hand pointing, dog before her, landscape in background to right. Under, A. Ramsay Pinx. Jas M'Ardeall fecit 1749 Lady Boyd Price 2 Shill. H. $13\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. $12\frac{5}{8}$; W. $9\frac{3}{4}$.

Bromley, p. 305, does not identify this personage. She was, most probably, Rebecca, daughter of Alexander Lockhart of Craighouse, afterwards Lord Covington; married, 15th Sept., 1749, to James, Lord Boyd, eldest son to William, 4th Earl of Kilmarnock, who was beheaded in 1745 and his title attainted. Lord Boyd was then in the 21st Regiment and on the side of George II., and he consequently obtained his father's estate; he succeeded, in 1758, his grandaunt as 14th Earl of Erroll, and then quitted the army. Lady Boyd, then Countess of Erroll, died at Clifton, 2nd May, 1761.

29. Thomas Brett. LAFFONTAINE.

H. L., in oval frame, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, long dark hair, bands, black gown. Under, in centre shield with crest, Ch. De Laffontaine pinxt. J. Mc Ardell fecit. Effigies R. Thomæ Brett, Cantiani et Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ Pr. Pientissimi: Nat 3 o Sepr 1667. denat 5 o Mart 1743. H. $12\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. $10\frac{1}{2}$; W. $8\frac{3}{8}$; O. D. H. $9\frac{1}{4}$; W. $7\frac{7}{8}$.

Educated at Cambridge; entered the Church, and had received considerable preferment, with every probability of further advancement, when he felt himself unable conscientiously to take the oaths on the accession of George I., and spent the remainder of his life in obscurity. He published a great number of controversial writings, upholding what are called "High Church" principles.

30. Dorothy Bridges. SMITH.

W. L., standing, directed slightly to right, facing slightly to left looking to front, cap, lace collar and sleeves, black satin dress, right hand on table to left, left hand pointing towards an open doorway to right through which is seen a statue, bay and large ship. Under, Edwd Smith Plymth pinxt. Js Mc Ardell fecit. Mrs Dorothy Bridges. H. $19\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. $18\frac{1}{8}$; W. $13\frac{7}{8}$.

Three known.

Bromley, p. 309, states that this lady was the wife of an artist at Plymouth; and Redgrave mentions Charles Bridges as a portrait painter in first half of eighteenth century.

31. Edward Bright. OGBORNE.

W. L., sitting, directed slightly to left, facing and looking slightly to right, short wig, plain coat, with seventeen buttons fastened all the way up except two at bottom and three at top, hands on arms of chair. Under, Ogborne Pinxt. M Ardell fecit. Mr Edwd Bright late of Maldon in Essex. Who died November 10, 1750, aged 29 years. He weigh'd 43 Stone & $\frac{1}{2}$ (14 lb to ye stone) which is 5 c-1 qr-21 lb. Publish'd according to Act of Parliament Jan. 1. 1750. H. 14; Sub. $13\frac{1}{8}$; W. $9\frac{7}{8}$.

I. As described. The year of publication is probably an error for 1751.

II. Plate reworked and altered, two buttons, sixth and seventh from bottom, unfastened, "M Ardell fecit" altered to, Ja Mc Ardell fecit, "Maldon" to Malden, "5 c-1 qr-21 lb" to 609 pounds, at bottom to left, Printed for John Bowles at the Black Horse in Cornhill.

This was the fattest man known in this country up to the time of Daniel Lambert; he was a grocer by trade, and of active habits until the latter part of his life; he was married and left several children.

32. Charles, Prince of Brunswick. QIESENIS.

Short H. L., directed to left, facing towards and looking to front, short hair, black stock, uniform, star with motto, SUUM CUIQUE. Under, *J. G. Qiesenis pinxt. Hanover. J Mc Ardell fecit. Jan'y 20th 1764. and Sold at the Corner of Henrietta Street, Covent Garden. H. 20; Sub. 18½; W. 14.

I. Before any inscription.

II. As described. Brit: Mus.

Born, 2nd Oct., 1735; married, 1764, Princess Augusta, daughter of Frederick, Prince of Wales; acted under his uncle, Prince Ferdinand (see page 650), and was Commander-in-Chief against France on the breaking out of the Revolution; at the battle of Auerstadt was wounded by a ball in the forehead, which deprived him of eyesight. Died the next month, 10th Nov., 1806.

33. Nathaniel Buck.

T. Q. L., sitting, directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, wig, dark coat and vest, hands holding open book on knee, curtain to left. H. 12¾; Sub. 11½; W. 8¾.

I. As described, unfinished, being state of plate at MacArdell's death.

II. Reworked, under, I Mc Ardell fecit Nathaniel Buck. Published 12th May, 1794, by Laurie & Whittle, Fleet Street, London.
33.

See page 651. Not mentioned by Bromley.

34. George Duke of Buckingham and brother. VAN DYCK.

W. L.'s, standing, long hair, lace collars, rosettes in shoes, the Duke on left, directed slightly to right, facing towards and looking to front, right hand on hip, Lord Francis on right, directed to front, facing and looking towards left, right hand on breast, curtain in background to left, landscape through window in distance to right. Under, *George Duke of Buckingham with his Brother Francis, 1636. To his Grace Charles Duke of Grafton, &c. This Plate is humbly Inscrib'd by his Grace's most Oblidg'd Servant James Mc'Ardell. I. Before any inscription.

II. With address.

III. As described, address erased, but marks of it visible.

This woman accused Mary Squires, a gipsy, of having abducted and treated her cruelly in January, 1753. Squires was tried and condemned to death; but her case having been taken up by some who considered her unjustly dealt with, she was pardoned; Canning was then accused and convicted of perjury; and being transported, died in America, having married and lived respectably. This affair caused great excitement, and all London was divided in opinion as well as the magistrates and judges. The friends of Canning, led by Fielding, were dubbed Canaanites; those of Squires, led by Hill and Sir Crisp Gascoyne, Egyptians; the populace were mostly against the latter.

37. John Cartwright. ELMER.

H. L., oval frame at top and bottom, on which to right a magpie is perched, directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, hat, dishevelled hair, left hand raised, pointing with thumb. Under, John Cartwright, of Farnham, in Surry, Gardiner & Florist, 1748

*What kind of Sat'rist. Nature gives alone,

O. D. H. 10¾.*

Three known.

The verses would seem to imply that the personage was dumb.

38. Charles Lord Cathcart. REYNOLDS.

T. Q. L., standing, directed to right, facing towards and looking to front, wig, coat with edging over breastplate, ruffles, right arm on balcony before him, curtain at each side, hat under left arm, building in background, a black patch on top of his right cheek. H. 14; Sub. 12¾; W. 9¾.

I. As described, edge uncleared, being state of plate at McArdell's death. Brit: Mus.

II. Finished. Under, Sir Josa Reynolds pinxt Jas McArdell delinavit R Houston perfecit. Right Honble Charles Lord Cathcart, Knight of the Order of the Thistle at present abroad on his Embafsy to the Court of Petersburg. London, Printed for Robt Sayer, Map & Printfeller, No 53 Fleet Street, Publish'd as the Act directs 10 July 1770.

Born 1721; succeeded his father as 9th Lord, 1740; General in the army; representative peer; ambassador as above, 1768-71. Died in London, 14th Aug., 1776. The patch covered a wound which he had received at the battle of Fontenoy, where his only brother was killed.

39. Jane, Lady Cathcart and Son. ID.

T. Q. L., sitting, directed slightly to left, facing and looking to front, veil over and falling at back of head, wide sleeves, holding her child on her lap, who has a cap in right hand, and looks at a greyhound sitting on right. H. 14; Sub. 12¾; W. 9¾.

I. As described, edge uncleared, being state of plate at McArdell's death.

II. Finished. Under, Sir Josa Reynolds pinxt. Jas McArdell delinavit R Houston perfecit. Jane Lady Cathcart, Daughter of the late Lord Archibald Hamilton and their Second Son Chas Allan Cathcart London, Printed for Robt Sayer Map & Printfeller No 53 Fleet Street. Published as the Act directs, 10 July 1770.

Born 1726; married to the foregoing at Greenwich Hospital in 1753. Died at St. Petersburg 13th Nov., 1771. Her son, Charles Allan, was born in 1759; served with distinction in the army, both in America and India; and died on his voyage to China, 10th June, 1788. His elder sister was Mary, born in 1757; married, 1774, to General Thomas Graham, afterwards Lord Lynedoch; and died 1792. Of her Gainsborough painted an admirable picture, now in the National Gallery of Scotland; and it has been stated by those unacquainted with this print, that she was the child there represented. The Reynolds pocket-book, however, only once names this sitter, and then as "Lady and Miss Cathcart," in February, 1755; and unless this authority, the picture also being marked "J. R. 1755," can be set aside, the child must be Jane; born May, 1754; married, 1774, to John, 4th Duke of Atholl; and died 1790: the inscription on the print being therefore erroneous.

40. Catherine Chambers. REYNOLDS.

H. L., directed and looking to front, facing very slightly to left gipsy hat shading upper part of face, earring, ribbon round neck, bodice, mantle thrown back from shoulders. Under, J. Reynolds Pinxt. J. McArdell fecit. Publish'd according to Act of Parliamt 1756, and Sold at the Golden head in Covent Garden, and scratched 2s. H. $12\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. $10\frac{5}{8}$; W. $8\frac{7}{8}$.

I. Before inscription. Brit: Mus.

II. As described.

Wife of Mr. afterwards Sir William Chambers, and a very beautiful woman. She died 29th Jan. 1797. Her maiden name was Moore.

41. Queen Charlotte.

Short H. L., in profile to right, coronet in hair, which is dressed close to head in small curls, earring, necklace of one row of jewels over lace band, jewelled bodice and sleeve, ermine robe over shoulders. Under, Charlotte Queen of Great Britain. Publish'd as the Act directs, Novr 25th 1761 by Js McArdell. H. $20\frac{3}{8}$; Sub. $18\frac{1}{4}$; W. 14.

I. As described.

II. Before address scratched, Done &

III. Plate reworked and much altered, coronet and hair changed, large earring with three pendants, necklace of four rows of jewels without lace. Under, to right, J. McArdell delt & fecit, "Done &" and address after "directs" erased, instead, & Sold by J McArdell in Covent Garden, J Bowles & Son, at the Black Horse in Corn- hill, & R Sayer in Fleet Street. Feb 10th 1762. This state might be taken for another plate except for some scratches and ground which appear in all the states on inscription space to left.

42. Robert Lord Clive. GAINSBOROUGH.

Short H. L., directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, wig, frill, plain coat. Under, in centre, arms, motto, AUDACTER ET SINCERE printed for John Ryall, at Hogarth's Head, in Fleet Street, London. T. Gainsborough pinxt. J: McArdell Fecit. Robert Lord Clive, Baron of Plassey. To the Honble the Court of Directors of the United Company of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies, This Plate is most humbly Inscrib'd By their Honours most Obedient & Devoted Servant John Ryall. H. 19 $\frac{3}{4}$; Sub. 17 $\frac{3}{8}$; W. 13 $\frac{3}{4}$.

I. Before inscription.

II. As described.

Born 1726; entered the service of the East India Company, 1743, as writer, but soon joined the army, and distinguished himself at Pondicherry, Arcot, and Trichinopoly; came to England in 1753; on his return took Calcutta, gained the victory of Plassey over Surajah Dowlah in 1757; was created Baron Clive in the peerage of Ireland, 1762; M.P. for Shrewsbury. In 1773, a charge for abusing his powers in pursuit of personal wealth was brought against him in Parliament, and, although not supported, it irritated and morbidly depressed him to such an extent that he died, 22nd Nov., 1774, it is said, by his own act.

43. Mary Lady Coke. RAMSAY.

W. L., standing, directed to left, facing towards and looking to front, small cap trimmed with pearls, necklace and earring of same, white satin dress edged with lace, right hand holding up mandoline, in background to left piano with open music upon it, to right an arm-chair, four columns with curtain behind. Under, in centre, arms, motto, PRUDENS QUI PATIENS, A Ramsay pinxt 1762. J McArdell sculpt. The Right Honourable Lady Mary Campbell, Youngest Daughter of John Duke of Argyll and Greenwich, Knight of the Garter, and Widow of Edward Lord Viscount Coke, only Son of Thomas Earl of Leicester. H. 19 $\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. 18 $\frac{1}{2}$; W. 13 $\frac{7}{8}$.

I. Before inscription, uncleared edge.

II. As described; darker shade worked on background, probably to throw out the figure more, but losing the delicate clearness of the first state.

Married, 1747, Viscount Coke, who died in 1753, having treated his wife, it is said, with great cruelty. She is very often alluded to by Mrs. Delany and Walpole, who dedicated to her his Castle of Otranto and wrote her verses and mock sermons. She died at Chiswick, 30th Sept., 1811, in her 87th year.

44. Emanuel Collins. HONE.

H. 14; Sub. 12 $\frac{1}{4}$; W. 10.

I. Before inscription, uncleared edge. Brit: Mus.

II. As described.

III. At bottom, Published 12th May 1794 by Laurie & Whittle, 53 Fleet Street, London.

Born 1668; master of a vessel trading to the Colonies; his compassion being excited by seeing deserted infants, he laboured for more than seventeen years to establish an hospital for them. He also planned other charitable works, and having by these exhausted his means, was supported in his old age by a small pension raised by his friends. He died in his lodgings near Leicester Square, 29th March, 1751, and was interred in the chapel of the Foundling Hospital.

46. John Coutts. RAMSAY.

H. L., in oval frame, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, wig, plain coat, hat under left arm. Under, A. Ramsay Pinxt. H. 18 $\frac{1}{8}$; Sub. 16 $\frac{3}{4}$; W 18.

In 1766 Walker engraved in line for Boydell the entire family picture; Gerbier himself on left leaning on the back of his wife's chair, the group above described, and five more children to right. This print is stated to be after a picture by Vandyck, this opinion being shared by Smith. See Catalogue Raisonné, Part II., p. 240; Part III., p. 71. At both these pages the picture is said to have been engraved by MacArdell; but this is not so, for he only engraved the foregoing, a picture specified in Part II., p. 314, as having been called the Duke of Buckingham's Mistress, and erroneously stated to have been engraved by Walker, who only did the full picture. At this last page Smith admits that the picture partakes of the style of both masters, and is probably their united work: the girl in slashed sleeves is certainly entirely in Rubens' manner. A comparison between MacArdell's and Walker's prints will at once exhibit the superiority of the mezzotinto method for portraits.

Sir Balthazar Gerbier, born 1591, was a miniature painter, distinguished in Italy; received knighthood from Charles I., by whom he was appointed master of the ceremonies at the Court. He died at Hempstead Marshal, Lord Craven's seat, in 1667. See more of him and of these pictures in Walpole's Anecdotes of Painters, p. 279; ed. 1849.

Eldest daughter of Sir George Hamilton, youngest son of the 1st Earl of Abercorn; one of the most distinguished beauties of the Court of Charles II., where she was styled "La Belle Hamilton," and celebrated by Count Grammont, whom she married in 1668, and accompanied to France in the following year. He succeeded a few years afterwards to great wealth and high position by the death of his elder brother, and died in 1707. She survived him but a short time.

This portrait is one of the fourteen pictures by Lely at Windsor called the "Windsor Beauties." MacArdell engraved another, No. 129, and Thomas Watson engraved six. The entire, with seven additions, were done from Murphy's miniatures of the originals for Mrs. Jameson's "Beauties of the Court of Charles II."

II. As described.

Only daughter of Fulke Greville, who was grandson of Fulke, 5th Lord Brooke, envoy to the Elector of Bavaria, and author of "Maxims and Characters;" she married in 1766, according to Collins' Peerage, ed. 1812, in 1776, according to Debrett and Burke, John Crewe, (who was created Lord Crewe in 1806), and was a brilliant leader of fashion, taking no small share too in politics on the side of Burke, Fox, and Sheridan. She died at Liverpool, 23rd Dec., 1818. She had six brothers, the one represented being probably William Fulke Greville, who entered the navy, and died in 1837, leaving issue. It is said that her father, in consequence of a quarrel with his son, had him painted out of this picture and a tripod placed there instead.

II. Heavily retouched, and worked over, subject lengthened $\frac{1}{2}$ on inscription space, inscription erased, instead, J. S. Liotard pinxt. Miss Lewis. Printed for John Bowles at the Black Horse in Cornhill, and Carington Bowles in St Pauls Church Yard London. Were it not for the distinct mark of the lengthening of subject, this print might be taken for a copy, and a very inferior one to that by Purcell.

III. "Black Horse in" erased, instead, No 13—.

On the Strawberry Hill impression, Walpole has written, "Madoiselle Lavergne, niece of Mr. Liotard," and this name is on a large line engraving of the same subject, and the appearance of the lady is that of a pretty Frenchwoman. Bromley, however, names her as "Lewis," and this name is on Purcell's copy as well as the afterstates of this print.

*O Master of the Heart ! whose magick Skill
The close Recefses of the Soul can find,
Can rouse, be calm, and terrify the Mind,
Now melt with Pity, now with Anguish thrill ;
Thy moral Page while virtuous Precepts fill,
Warm from the Heart, to mend the Age design'd,
Wit, Strength, Truth, Decency are all combin'd
To lead our Youth to Good, and guard from Ill
O long enjoy what thou so well hast won,
The grateful Tribute of each honest Heart,
Sincere, nor hackney'd in the Ways of Men ;
At each distressful Stroke their true Tears run ;
And Nature, unsophisticate by Art,
Owns and applauds the Labors of thy Pen.*

Durrant Sale, May, 1847, Lot 612, mentions proofs of both plates of Richardson.

Born in Derbyshire, 1689: became a printer; published "Pamela," in 1741, afterwards "Clarissa" and "Sir Charles Grandison," all of which were exceedingly popular, and by means of them and of his business his fortune was much improved. Master of the Stationers' Company, 1754. He died, 4th July, 1761.

T. Q. L., standing, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, wig, plain coat buttoned, right hand placed within it, left hand on cane, papers on table to left, curtain above. Under, Jos: Highmore Pinxt. Jas Mc Ardell Fecit 1752. H. 14; Sub. 12½; W. 9¾.

This print has been met with having written upon it, "Zachary Hamlyn, Esq., formerly of Clovelly Court, Devon," but there cannot be any doubt that it represents the same person as No. 152, for there is a mole on each cheek, placed in precisely similar positions in both prints. The verses completely identify the first as Richardson, and Bromley, p. 393, gives the two, but conjectures that one may be altered from the other, which is not the case, as they are different prints from different pictures. The description in the portrait exhibition catalogue of the picture belonging to the Stationers' Company, having a book in left hand, would indicate a third picture.

II. As described.

Bromley, p. 444, calls this lady the wife of Paul Sandby. See page 505. The copy by Corbutt is, however, lettered Mrs. Sandys, and on the Strawberry Hill impression of it Walpole has written "Miss Trumbull, wife of Col. Sandys, 2nd son of Lord Sandys." She was not married, however, until 1760, so this lettering may be an error.

Bromley, p. 355, appears to consider these different plates, but, to place the matter beyond any doubt, an impression from the plate in the process of transmutation has been met with, the alterations probably being by Mc Ardell.

Born at Sibthorpe, Notts, 1693; having studied medicine for some time, went to Oxford and entered the Church; Rector of St. James's, 1732; Bishop of Bristol, 1735; translated to Oxford, 1737; Archbishop of Canterbury, 1758. He died, 3rd Aug., 1768, and was buried at Lambeth.

IV. Under subject, Anthony Van Dyck Pinxt. J. Mc Ardell fecit 1758. Rachel Countess of Southampton. 1636. Done from the Original in the Collection of the Right Honble Lord Royston & the Marchioness Grey.

Daughter of Daniel de Massey, Baron de Rouvigny, and not improbably in the suite of Henrietta Maria; married (his first wife) Thomas Wriothesley, 4th Earl of Southampton, who was an adherent of Charles I., and was made Lord Treasurer at the Restoration. Granger states that she is said to have been mad; but she certainly must have been very handsome. Through one of her daughters, the Southampton estates passed to the ducal families of Portland and Bedford.

Sixth and seventh sons of the 3rd Duke of Lennox. Both were youths of the highest promise, and most signal courage, and both fell fighting for the cause of Charles I.; Lord John, at the battle of Alresford on 29th March, 1644, when little more than one-and-twenty years of age; Lord Bernard, who had been created Earl of Litchfield, at the battle of Rowtonheath, near Chester, on 26th Sept., 1645, having first secured the king's retreat, whose person was in great danger.

175. Thomas Sydenham

H. L., oval frame at corners, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, long hair, bands, dark coat. H. $12\frac{3}{4}$; Sub. $10\frac{3}{4}$; W. $8\frac{7}{8}$.

I. As described, unfinished, being state of plate at McArdell's death.

II. Under subject, Dr. Sydenham. Published 12th May, 1794 by Laurie & Whittle, 53, Fleet Street, London.

Born in Dorsetshire, 1624; educated at Oxford; became famous as a physician and writer on medical subjects. He died at his house in Pall Mall 29th Decr., 1689, and was buried at St. James's, Westminster.

176. George, Lord Townshend HUDSON.

T. Q. L., standing, directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, own hair, military uniform, right arm on pedestal to left holding paper, left hand on hip, hat under arm, curtain to left Under, in centre, arms, with scroll and supporters, and as crest, the trunk of a tree. H. $15\frac{3}{4}$; Sub. $13\frac{5}{8}$; W. $10\frac{7}{8}$.

I. As described. The lettering in following state must have been engraved subsequently to McArdell's death, it may, therefore, be presumed that this is the state in which he left the plate.

II. Crest of trunk of tree over arms altered to a coronet, on scroll motto, HÆC GENERI INCREMENTA FIDES; on paper, in right hand, A Bill Intituled, An Act for the Better Order of the Militia Forces &c.; under subject, Thos Hudson Pinxt. Js. McArdell fecit. The Right Honourable George Lord Viscot Townshend, Lord Lieut General, & General Governor of the Kingdom of Ireland, &c., &c. London, Printed for Robt. Sayer, Map and Printseller, No 53 in Fleet Street.

Born 28th Feb., 1724; eldest son of Charles 3rd Viscount Townshend; godson of George I.; entered the army and served at Dettingen, Fontenoy, Culloden; Quebec surrendered to him after the death of Wolfe; succeeded his father as 4th Viscount, 1764; Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, 1767-72; created Marquess Townshend, 1786; Field Marshal, 1796. He died at Rainham, 14th Sept., 1807.

There is another print almost precisely similar to foregoing, inscribed The Honble Colonel Townshend. H. $13\frac{7}{8}$; Sub. $12\frac{1}{2}$; W. $9\frac{7}{8}$. The inscriptions prove this print to have been anterior to the second state of foregoing, and therefore it cannot be a cut-down plate. It probably was also engraved by McArdell.

177. Henry Townshend.

H. L., directed to right, facing towards and looking to front, own hair, military uniform, left hand in breast of coat, hat under arm, bust of Marquess of Granby to right. Under, in centre arms, J. Prince Ferdinand of Brunswick & the French Army, commanded by the Marshalls d'Estrees and de Soubise. H. 15½; Sub. 13½; W. 11.

Third son of Thomas, who was 3rd son of Charles, 2nd Viscount Townshend; his eldest brother was created Viscount Sydney.

According to Cotton's Catalogue, the picture was painted by Reynolds, and the fact is probably so, for the name occurs in the pocket-books.

178. (Sir Edward Turner. GAINSBOROUGH.

W. Mrs Hoffington

See Walpole Correspondence as to this inscription, also reference in page 835.

Born 24th Sept., 1717; his father having procured him the sinecure office of Usher of the Exchequer, he was able to devote himself to his villa of Strawberry Hill, and to literary pursuits; author of "Castle of Otranto," "Royal and Noble Authors," "Anecdotes of Painting," and many other works, and the most interesting and delightful English correspondence which has yet been published. He succeeded his nephew as 4th Earl of Orford in 1791, and died at Berkeley-square, 2nd March, 1797.

Walpole was a great collector of matters connected with art and antiquity, always, however, taking due care not to pay too much for indulging his taste, as may be seen from his lamentations when forced to give a high price for some specially coveted object, and from his having left a very large sum of money, invested in Government Stocks, behind him. He also, much to the credit of his judgment, appreciated English Art when it was the cry of the day to run it down. His collections were sold by the celebrated George Robins, in 1842, mostly at what now appear exceedingly low prices. They included a large number of English portraits, which had been pasted by Walpole himself in volumes, but were cut up for lotting at the sale; a matter for regret, for he had written on most of the portraits the names so often not given in the inscription, and remarkable particulars of the personages. The list of purchasers and prices to the sale of these prints, published by J. H. Burn, distinctly states that "Bromley's" Catalogue was one of the Strawberry Hill prints, and that Bromley was an assumed name, the real author being Anthony Wilson.

Nagler and Le Blanc mention a print of George Washington, after Pond, by MacArdell; but Bromley does not notice it at page 382, and its existence is almost impossible.

Apparently companions to Summer and Winter, by Houston; see page 702. Le Blanc, however, mentions the four seasons by MacArdell.

201. Teague's Ramble.

W. L.s, standing, a man tipsy between two women, one of whom carries his hat, the other is picking his pocket, before them to right a boy with link illuminating the scene, behind him in distance the statue of Charles I. Under, J. Mc Ardel Fecit. Publifh'd according to Act of Parlmt Aug 26 1747. Teague's Ramble at Charing Crofs.

*So rambling Teague, with Vacant Visage Fogg,
Far from his Barren wilds, and Native boggs,
A link Boy points the Thoughtlefs Oaff his Way,
So Will O'th Wisp oft leads the Kern Astray;
A nymph and Bawd his wandring footsteps wait,
And leave his pockets empty as his pate;
The raving rakehell finds too late his Lofs,
Then curses night intrigues and Charing Crofs.*

Sold by T Jefferys at the Corner of St. Martins Lane Charing Crofs and W Herbert at the Golden Globe on London Bridge. H. 14; Sub. 12½; W. 10.

This doubtless represents a real adventure, most probably of one of the engraver's fellow pupils. The address is that of the London publishers of Brooks's prints.

J. MACINTOSH is not mentioned by any writer hitherto, nor is the following print noticed by Bromley. It is executed in a somewhat stiff style, but is much too good for an only attempt.

W. L., standing, directed to left, facing towards and looking to front, Highland costume, right hand on hilt of broadsword, point of which rests on ground, left hand on hip, lake, castle, and mountain in distance, trees to right. Under, Allen Ramsey Pinxt. J. Mc Intosh fecit. William Earl of Sutherland, Aid de Camp to his Majesty & Coll of a Highland Regt: To Elizth: Countess of Sutherland, this Plate is respectfully Inscribed by her Ladyships most Humble Servant, J. Mc Intosh. Publish'd as the Act directs by J. Mc Intosh, 21, June, 1779. H. 18; Sub. 15; W. 10.

Born 29th May, 1735; entered the army with an ensign's commission, when only eleven years of age; succeeded his father as 17th Earl in 1750; in 1759, raised a battalion of infantry, and was constituted Lieutenant-Colonel thereof; Colonel, 1763. He married, 1761, Mary, eldest daughter of William Maxwell of Prestown, and they had two daughters, the eldest died at the beginning of 1766, and her parents went to Bath, for a change; at this place the Earl was seized with a fever, and the Countess so over-fatigued herself by nursing him, that she died on 1st June, 1766, in her 26th year, and the Earl died sixteen days afterwards. Their surviving daughter's claim to the earldom was disputed by Sir Robert Gordon, and by George Sutherland, but she was confirmed therein in 1771, and is the person to whom the print is dedicated. She married, 1785, the eldest son of Earl Gower, afterwards Marquess of Stafford. Her husband was created Duke of Sutherland, in 1833, and she died at Hamilton-place, London, 29th Jan., 1839, her eldest son becoming 19th earl.

SIMON MALGO is mentioned by Nagler as having engraved the "View of the Torrent of the Lutschinen;" although he probably practised in England, and the following were published in London, it is not likely that he was of English birth.

1. Princess de Lamballe. HICKEL.

W. L., sitting, directed to right, facing towards and looking to front, hair full in curls, pen in right hand, before her a writing table with hyacinth glass on top. Under, *Peint d'après nature à Paris en 1789 par Anton Hickel Peintre de la Cour de Vienne. S. Malgo, Sculp. Mar. Ther. Louisa of Savoy Carignan, Princess of Lamballe. See page 103.

T. MAN is mentioned by Bromley only, as engraver of the following, which is executed in a style constrained, but accurate.

Sir Francis Willoughby.

W. L., sitting, directed towards left, facing towards and looking to front, long wig, cravat, Roman dress, long boots, left hand on seat beside him, right hand pointing towards curious building in distance to left, inscribed at top, Wollaton hall. Under, Sr Francis Willoughby T. Man fe. H. $9\frac{3}{8}$; Sub. $8\frac{3}{4}$; W. $7\frac{3}{8}$.

Three known.

Attitude similar in reverse to Earl of Warwick and Holland by Smith, after Wissing, but the face is evidently done with special care to form a resemblance.

Eldest son of Francis Willoughby of Wollaton, Nottinghamshire, who was a very learned man, and author of several works in natural history; created a baronet, 1677, and died, 1688, in the 20th year of his age, unmarried. His next brother was created Lord Middleton in 1712.

R. MANWARING is mentioned only by Bromley. Redgrave names William Mainwaring as a medallist, towards end of 18th century, about the period to which the following, which are in a very stiff manner, are referable. Bromley, p. 8, names a portrait of Thomas Cromwell, Earl of Essex, by Manwairing.

1. Matthew Henry.

H. L., in oval frame, directed and facing slightly to left, looking to front, wig, bands, black gown. Under, R. Manwaring Fecit. Matthew Henry V. D. M. H. 6; Sub. $5\frac{1}{8}$; W. $4\frac{1}{2}$.

Born 1662; became a dissenting minister at Chester; died of apoplexy at Nantwich, 1714. He was author of the "Exposition of the Bible," and several other works.

2. Martin Madan.

T. Q. L., sitting, directed, facing, and looking towards right, wig, bands, black gown, right hand on arm of chair, left on books on table to right, over which is a curtain. Under, R. Manwaring fecit. The Reverend Mr Madan Printed for S. Hooper, at the East Corner of the New Church in the Strand. As the Act Directs. H. 14; Sub. 12½; W. 10.

See page 672.

JOSEPH PHILIP LIBERATI MARCHI was born in Rome, and having a taste for art, was brought to London in 1752 by Reynolds, to whom he became assistant. About 1770 he appears to have endeavoured to establish himself as a portrait painter on his own account, but not succeeding to his expectations, he returned to and remained with Reynolds. He died in London, 2nd April, 1808, aged 73.

His individual work as a painter cannot, of course, be discriminated in pictures attributed to his master. No. 5, painted by him, is probably a fair specimen of his powers, but his fame may well rest on his mezzotinto prints, which, although not numerous, exhibit a most artistic feeling, and prove him a worthy disciple of Reynolds, who himself may probably have supervised the engraving.

1. Mrs. Bouverie and Mrs. Crewe. REYNOLDS.

T. Q. L's., sitting, a sarcophagus to right, on it Et in arcadia Ego, to which the nearer lady points with left hand, the other evidently reflects on the lesson thus taught, dressed in black, face in profile, chin leaning on left hand, elbow on knee, right hand on seat beside her. Under, on grounded space, Publish'd according to Act July 24 1770 by Jno Wefson in Litchfield Street St Anns Soho. W. 19¾; H. 17½; Sub. 16½.

I. As described. Brit: Mus.

II. To left, Sr Joshua Reynolds Pinxt; to right, Jos Marchi Sculpt, address after "24" erased; instead, 1785 by Susa Vivares No 13 Great Newport Street London. Brit: Mus.

III. Address erased; on space, Mrs. Bouverie & Mrs Crew.

Henrietta, or Harriet, daughter of Sir Everard Fawkener, who was for many years ambassador at the Porte, and died Nov. 16th, 1758, his widow, the daughter of Gen. Churchill, afterwards marrying Governor Pownall; married first, 1764, Edward Bouverie, whose elder brother was created Earl of Radnor; second, 1811, Lord Robert Spencer, youngest son of 2nd Duke of Marlborough. She died at Woolbeding, Sussex, 17th Nov., 1825, aged 76.

For Mrs. Crewe, see page 869. The earlier date then given for her marriage is probably the correct one, as Collins is certainly right in date of Lord Crewe's birth, and Debrett gives it ten years too late.

The Magazines record the marriage of John Crew, Esq., with Miss Fawkenor on 17th May, 1764, and this marriage is also mentioned by Walpole (Cor. VOL. IV., p. 238). If the peerage compilers have overlooked a first marriage of Mr. Crewe with a sister of Mrs. Bouverie, such might explain the friendship between her and the second Mrs. Crewe, and also the allusion to death in the picture. Both Mrs. Crewe and Mrs. Bouverie are named in Reynold's pocket book as sitters in April, 1767, the probable date of the picture.

2. Misses Bennet. NIXON.

H. L.'s, oval frame at corners, elder on left, facing and looking towards right, right hand holding scarf at bosom, left arm round her sister's neck, who leans her head upon left shoulder, and is looking nearly to front, a miniature is hung by thin cord round her neck. Under, Publish'd as the Act directs, Apr 2d, 1773. Jas Nixon pinxt. G. Marchi fecit. Miss Jenny & Miss Nelly Bennet. Printed for John Bowles, at No 13 in Cornhill. H. 14; Sub. 12½; W. 10.

Bromley, p. 430, states that these were the daughters of the print-seller (who was for a short time the partner of R. Sayer), and that the print is inscribed "The Sisters." There may be, therefore, an after state.

3. Miss Cholmondeley. REYNOLDS.

W. L., a young girl, in plain dress, with bare feet, walking across a brook towards left, carrying a shaggy dog in her arms, trees and waterfall to right, hilly landscape in distance to left. Under, J. Reynolds Pinxt. Gii Marchi Sculp. The Honourable Miss Cholmondeley. Publish'd According to Act of Parliament August ye 22, 1768 by Ryland, Bryer & Co. in Cornhill. H. 19¾; Sub. 18; W. 14.

I. Before inscription. Brit : Mus.

II. As described.

Bromley, p. 425, calls the personage Ann Elizabeth, daughter of Nathl. Cholmondeley (Cholmley), who was married to Lord Mulgrave, but she died 22nd May, 1788, when not quite 19, so could not have been painted in 1767. Hamilton considers her to be Hester Frances, daughter of Hon. and Rev. Robert Cholmondeley, married, 1783,

William Bellingham, who was created a baronet in 1796. She died at Dunany House, Ireland, 10th Jan., 1844, aged 81. If this be correct it does not appear why the title "Honourable" should be on the print. Her cousin Hester, who was the daughter of Lord Malpas, was born in 1755, but would have been older than represented in the picture when it was painted. She married W. C. Lisle, Esq., of Upway, Co. Dorset.

4. George Colman. ID.

I. Before inscription, uncleared edge.

II. As described.

III. Modern, the "3" of 1773, partly effaced.

Born at Florence about 1733; educated at Westminster and Oxford; called to the bar, but gave up this profession for literary pursuits; author of the "Jealous Wife," "Clandestine Marriage," and other plays, and some translations from the classics. He was also manager of the Haymarket Theatre, had a stroke of palsy about 1790, and died at Paddington 14th Aug., 1794.

5. Princess Isabella Fortunée Czartoryska.

T. Q. L., sitting, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, close cap with fur edge, hair in long plait over left shoulder, striped dress, holding book of music on lap, harpsichord to right, on which are music palette and brushes, behind harp, in background picture and bookshelves, above a curtain. Under, Painted by G Marchi. Engrav'd by G Marchi. Princess Czartoryska. London, Publish'd April 1st 1777, by T Watson No 142 New Bond Street, & W. Dickinson, Henrietta Street, Covent Garden. H. 18; Sub. 16 $\frac{3}{8}$; W. 13 $\frac{3}{8}$.

Born 1743; daughter of Count de Flemming; married when very young Prince Adam Czartoryski; quitted him with Repuin, the Russian Ambassador, and they came to London, where the Duc de Lauzun fell in love with her. She was very accomplished and delighted in the society of literary persons. She died in Galicia, 17th June, 1835, having, in the Polish rising of 1830, turned her castle into an hospital for the wounded.

6. Samuel Dyer. REYNOLDS.

I. Before inscription, before lace on front of cravat was worked up as far as throat, uncleared edge.

II. As described. Brit : Mus.

Born about 1725; son of a jeweller in London; educated at Northampton, Glasgow, and Leyden; became an eminent classical and mathematical scholar, and natural philosopher. Friend of Johnson and his associates, and the first member elected into the Literary Club in 1764. He died in Sept., 1772. Hawkins appears to have suspected him of a tendency to infidelity, and Malone supposes that he had a part in the authorship of Junius's Letters.

7. Oliver Goldsmith. ID.

H. L., directed, facing, and looking towards left, throat bare, fur-edged cloak, right hand to breast, holding book, forefinger between leaves. Under, *R. Sayer Excudit. Sir Josa Reynolds pinxt. Eldest daughter of Henry Thrale, Esq., and Mrs. Thrale, the friends of Dr. Johnson, with whom this child was a great favourite; married, 1808 (his second wife) Admiral Lord Keith, who died in 1823. She died 31st March, 1857.

DAVID MARTIN was born at Anstruther, in Fifeshire, in 1736; he was a pupil of Allen Ramsay, and accompanied him to Rome. He gained premiums for drawing at the St. Martin's Lane Academy, and was a Member of the Incorporated Society of Artists; he practised portrait painting, and was much patronised in Edinburgh. He married a lady of some property, and lived for some years in Dean-street, Soho, but on the death of his wife went to Edinburgh, and died there in 1798.

He engraved in the line method portraits of the Earl of Bath and Lord Mansfield, and the following in mezzotinto, which display the delicate and elegant touch of the school of Ramsay.

1. Catherina Gabrielli. BATTONI.

II. As described.

Born at Geneva, 1711; wrote plays and novels, and in 1762, "Emilie," which was severely condemned, and on the populace attacking his house at Neufchatel, he set out for Paris and adopted the habit of an Armenian. Whilst there he met Hume, who brought him to England in 1766; he left the following year, and published other works of a quasi philosophical character. He died 3rd July, 1778.

Mrs. Delany, in a letter of Jan., 1772, writes, "I have searched the town over, and the Duchess of Portland has employed all her emissaries in vain to get a print of Rousseau, after Ramsay."

Bromley, p. 350, mentions a mez. of Sir John Smith, dated 1775. Evan's catalogue, No. 9,704, states it to be 4to size.

CHARLES MAUCOURT was a native of Germany, and practised portrait painting in London for several years. He was a Member of the Incorporated Society of Artists, and died in London, Jan., 1768. From the following it would not appear that his sitters were from the upper classes.

Mirth and Friendship.

Group of six persons, T. Q. L., standing, to right a table on which is a punch-bowl and two pots, behind, profile to left, a slight man with large wig and three-cornered hat, in centre two men without hats, both looking to front, and to left a fat man, profile to right, smoking and wearing a hat, in front of him a small man, apparently a waiter, his right hand holding a bottle, his left hand raised holding a glass, beside him a dog on its hind legs, behind a very tall man with his right hand raised, handle of violoncello leaning against wall in background. Under, Maucourt inv. et fecit Mirth and Friendship. H. 16 $\frac{5}{8}$; Sub. 15 $\frac{3}{8}$; W. 12 $\frac{3}{4}$. Brit: Mus.

The tall man is said to represent the Giant Bamfield, the waiter resembles the prints of Little Will.

There are copies which may be by Maucourt, but are without his name.

Similar, Sayer's address at bottom. H. 14; Sub. 12 $\frac{3}{8}$; W. 9 $\frac{7}{8}$.

Similar, H. 6; Sub. 5 $\frac{3}{8}$; W. 4 $\frac{1}{2}$.

The following appears likely to have been engraved by Maucourt, both from the style and from the Gulston impression having written upon it "Engraved by a Frenchman." Bromley calls it a mixture of etching and mezzotinto, and thinks it an altered plate; but this is not so, the lace and some other parts being merely touched up with the dry point to give more sharpness.

(Thomas Newell.)

T. Q. L., standing, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, wig, livery gown, lace ruffles, embroidered vest, within which left hand is placed, right hand holding up glass, on table to right a bottle labelled "Hock," curtain to left. H. 14; Sub. 12 $\frac{1}{4}$; W. 9 $\frac{7}{8}$.

Tinplate worker and common councillor for Farringdon Without. Died 1780, aged 70.

Francis Meheux was a native of Dover, and engraved a portrait of James II., and some other prints in mezzotinto, but they were not published in this country.

J. Menni is mentioned by Bromly, p. 408, as the engraver of a small oval mez. of himself.

ANDREW MILLER is said to have been born in London, of Scotch parents, and to have been taught his art by Faber. This latter assertion is open to some doubt, as his style is very peculiar, and does not resemble Faber's, but has some affinity to that of Van Haecken. Having practised in London for some years, he removed to Dublin, probably invited thereto by Brooks, and for whom he most likely engraved some plates, without putting his name to them. Meeting with fair success, he established himself, in 1744, on Hog Hill (now St. Andrew-street), and remained in Dublin, having the field nearly to himself after Brooks and his pupils had gone to London. Redgrave states that he was addicted to drinking, which accelerated his death; this did not occur, however, until September, 1763, although placed by Redgrave about the middle of the century, so the remainder of the statement may be inaccurate also.

A considerable number of the following were taken by Miller from other prints, they are very different, however, from servile copies, possessing a breadth and power observable in few of the originals; this superiority is very marked in the prints from those engraved in the line manner by Houbraken and Vertue in "Birch's Lives." In an advertisement of them in a newspaper, of September, 1745, Miller calls them the first Attempt of the kind in Metzotinto.

Nearly all the prints by Miller are of very great rarity. Pasquin mentions that "Joe Miller" was the only print he ever saw by him, and although Walpole, Bull, and other collectors, had agents in Dublin to procure the prints which had been published there, several were not obtained for them, and hence do not appear in "Bromley."

Miller and Ford seem sometimes to have been rivals, and to have each executed prints from the same originals, at other times they appear to have joined in the publication of some of Miller's prints.

The following were engraved by Miller in London. Nos. 2, 17, 23, 24, 29, 35, 43, 44, 46, 50, 51, 54, 57, 59, 63.

He also engraved amongst his subject pieces a nude female, after P. Veronese, and the Complaisant Lover, and Magnificent Lover, a pair after Courtin.

Joe Miller having become the name for an old joke, the existence of the individual might be doubtful, were it not for this print of him, acting, with inimitable drollery in his face, in Howard's play, "A poor Irishman, Heav'n save me and save all your three faces; give me a thirteen;" and for his epitaph in St. Clement Danes "Here lye the remains of honest Joe Miller, who was a tender husband, a sincere friend, a facetious companion, and an excellent comedian. He departed this life on the 15th of August, 1738, aged 54." Lines containing a volume of biography, and in style and feeling worthy of Robert Burns.

Born in Dublin, 30th Nov., 1677; educated at Kilkenny and Trinity College, Dublin; Secretary to Sir William Temple; published the "Tale of a Tub," 1704; joined the Tory party, and wrote many political pamphlets on their side; having entered the Church, obtained a small living, and appointed Dean as above, in 1713; published the "Drapier's Letters," in 1724, and "Gulliver's Travels," in 1727. He died 29th Oct., 1745; during the latter years of his life his mind was clouded in consequence of watery matter on the brain.

Although this portrait, which is drawn from same picture as the following, was painted some years before his death, there are traces in the face of the disease; it was at this period that he completed the arrangements for founding an hospital for lunatics.

Under, in centre, arms, Stevens pinxit, 1749. Andrew Miller fecit Charles Tottenham Esqr. A Member of Parliament. Publish'd & Sold by Thomas Sillcock in Nicholas Street. H 20; Sub. $18\frac{5}{8}$; W. $13\frac{1}{2}$.

Of Tottenham-green, Co. Wexford, succeeded his father, 1712; High Sheriff of Wexford, 1737; Member of the Irish Parliament. He died, 20th Sept., 1753. His descendants hold high positions in the counties of Wexford and Wicklow, one of them being now (1879) M.P. for New Ross.

This print is known by the name of "Tottenham in his Boots," the portrait having been painted in allusion to the occasion of a close contest in the Irish House of Commons between the Government and the country party, relating to the application of a large surplus fund in the Irish Exchequer, when Mr. Tottenham, hearing that the debate was to come on sooner than was expected, rode up from his country seat, and arrived at the House just as the division was about to take place; although there was a heavy penalty on any Member of the Irish House of Commons who did not appear in full dress, Mr. Tottenham claimed his privilege, entered in his riding-dress and voted, and in consequence the division was adverse to the Government by a majority of ONE.

Born in Dublin, 1580, and one of the first three students who entered Trinity College then; distinguished by great learning, was ordained in 1601, Bishop of Meath, 1620, and succeeded his uncle as Archbishop of Armagh in 1624. Having been plundered of his substance in the Irish Rebellion of 1641, he resided in England; refused to join when nominated to the Assembly of Divines in Westminster, which, with some sermons preached at Oxford, offended Parliament. He died at Reigate, Surrey, 21st March, 1655-6, and was buried in Westminster Abbey.

Born 28th Feb., 1681-2; appointed as above, 1720; published several topographical and genealogical works. He died, 11th May, 1759, and was buried in the south aisle of St. Bennet's Church, Paul's Wharf, London. His amazing collection of manuscripts, &c., were sold by auction after his death. Amongst them had been a great number of plays, and to these a servant having access, supposing them valueless, used to use them for lighting fires. Hence, many plays, of which we have the names, and which are known to have been acted, are described as "destroyed by Mr. Warburton's maid."

60. George Whitfield. JENKIN.

T. Q. L., standing, directed towards right, facing towards and looking to front, wig, bands, black gown, right hand holding book, left hand on breast, curtain to left, pillar to right. Under, M. Jenkin Pinxt 1750. Andw Miller fecit 1751. The Reverend Mr George Whitefield A.B. H. 13½; Sub. 12½; W. 9¼.

I. As described. One known.

II. Wig, face, and portions of dress altered, "A. B." changed to A. M., dates after artist's names erased, at bottom, Printed for J: Fuller in Blowbladder Street Cheapside; where may be had Sl Clarke's Family Bible, with his Learned and Usefull Annotations, with a Recommendatory Preface by the Revd Mr Whitefield.

III. Fuller's address and advertisement erased, instead, Printed for T Kitchin on Holborn Hill London.

IV. Retouched, Kitchin's address erased, instead, London Printed for John Ryall at Hogarth's Head in Fleet Street.

See page 442.

This print appears to have been engraved in Dublin and then sent over to London and spoiled by retouching; the first state gives more dignity and expression to the face than any of the other prints of him, whilst still preserving the cast in his eyes, which Whitfield probably thought would be sinful to withhold or alter in his likenesses.

61. William III. KNELLER.

H. L., in oval frame, on entablature, directed and looking towards front, facing slightly to left, long wig, robes, collar and George, on frame, Gulielmus Tertius D. G. Angliæ Scotiæ Franciæ et Hiberniæ Rex &c, below, on tablet, the crossing of the Boyne, July the First one Thousand Six Hundred and Ninety G Kneller Eques Baronettus ad Vivum Pinxit Andrew Miller Dublin Fecit 1744. H. 14; W. 10; O. D. H. $6\frac{7}{8}$; W. 6.

Not mentioned by Bromley.

62. Margaret Woffington. ECCARD.

H. L., with book, similar in same direction to print by Faber, jun., (No. 391 page 446). Under, Johannes Ægidius Eccard Pinxit 1745 Andrew Miller fecit 1745 Mrs Margaret Woffington. Sold by Andw Miller on Hog Hill near ye Round Church. H. $12\frac{3}{4}$; Sub. $11\frac{1}{4}$; W. $8\frac{7}{8}$.

One known. Not mentioned by Bromley.

See page 446.

63. Flora ROSALBA.

H. L., in oval frame, ornamented at bottom, directed and looking towards front, facing slightly to right, flowers in hair, low dress, wreath of flowers worn over left shoulder. Under, Rosalba Pinx. Andw Miller fecit 1741 Flora or the Spring. 4 verses.

Beauty how Sweet's — Fetters to be bound.

Sold by Andw Miller in Chang Court, Exeter Change in ye Strand. H. 14; Sub. $12\frac{3}{4}$; W. $9\frac{7}{8}$; O. D. H. $10\frac{1}{2}$; W. 9.

64. Diana. STEVENS.

T. Q L., standing, attitude and accessories similar in same direction to print of Lady Boyd, by MacArdell (No. 28 page 845), but face is that of some other person. Under, F: Stevens pinxt. Andw Miller fecit, 1750. Sold by Andw Miller on hog hill. & Thos Silcock in Nicholas Street. H. $13\frac{3}{4}$; Sub. $12\frac{3}{8}$; W. $9\frac{7}{8}$.

I. As described. One known.

II. "F Stevens" altered to W Ramsey, after "pinxt" Diana, address after "hog hill" erased.

Donna Isabella. See under Müller.

ADDITIONS AND CORRECTIONS.

Additional prints, or additional states of prints, coming between numbers already given, are numbered by adding letters "a" "b" &c., to the number of the next preceding print or state, as 3a., IIa. Should these additions come in before the first number or state, the a is prefixed, as aI., aI.

11. After description add— PAGE 464.

aI or Ia. Roll of paper in left hand blank. After II. add—The head is probably that of Virgil or some other classic poet. The painting is noted on an impression to have been done by "Hayls."

17. Description, line 5, for Str read St: PAGE 466.

After 18 add—

See Dart's Westminster, II. p. 139, where Lady Maraïamne Herbert is buried in the same grave with her husband, Colonel Philip Herbert. PAGE 467.

19. Line 5, for Ex read ex.

I. Add—And different lettering, as Privilegio and Ex. This might be the after state.

23. After I. add—

Ia. Altered as in II., but before Cooper's address was erased. PAGE 468.

24. After description add—

I. As described. PAGE 469.

II. Privilege, date, and address erased; instead, Printed and Sold by Robt Sayer at the Golden Buck opposite Fetter Lane Fleet Street.

27. II., line 1., for "Faithorne," read "Farthorne." PAGE 470.

29. Mr. Warwick considers that the states should be recorded thus: PAGE 471.
I. state described as III.; II., III. states described as II., I., and therefore from altered plate, and there are some marks on prints tending to prove this.

38a. Princess Sophia of Hanover.

II. Engraver's name, privilege, and address erased; instead, Printed & Sold by Tho: Bakewell next ye Horn Tavern in Fleet Street.

39. After description add—

aI. Before "The Princess of Hanover" was inscribed. One known.

PAGE 477. After line 3 add—It is stated in Baker's Washington Portraits that Robert Field, an Englishman by birth, was an excellent miniature painter and engraver, and practised at Boston, Philadelphia, and Baltimore, and was at Mt. Vernon in 1798. He went to Canada about the commencement of this century, studied theology, was ordained, and finally became a Bishop. Mr. Chas. H. Hart, of Philadelphia, considers him the same person as is mentioned here, in which he is probably perfectly right. His portrait of Washington is dated 1795, and Mr. Hart mentions ones of Jefferson and Shakespeare, all "exquisite for their work." They seem to be all in the stipple method.

Born at Kells, Co. Meath, 1739; having failed in Dublin, settled at Edinburgh and practised portrait painting. From the view from the Calton Hill he formed the idea of the panorama, and brought a half circle of Edinburgh to London in 1788. He afterwards completed the circle and executed one of London, and also others, building an exhibition room at the corner of Leicester-square. He died at Lambeth, April 8th, 1806.

Mr. Walter B. Tiffin, author of a Chronograph of Bow, Chelsea, and Derby Porcelain Manufactories, points out that the writer in Walker's Hibernian Magazine was in error in supposing that Worcester sprung from the ruins of Bow, as it was flourishing in 1750. Moreover, Bow and Chelsea were contemporary with each other, and were both purchased by Dewsbury of Derby.

It is right to state that the present representative of the family does not know of any portrait by Reynolds of his ancestress, and it is his opinion that this engraving is not her portrait. He has favoured the Author with an inspection of an undoubted original of her in crayons, and at first sight there does not appear to be the least resemblance. The crayon portrait is, however, of many years later date, not the same position of face, and the costume entirely different, so that it does not conclusively prove the negative. It is, of course, entirely a conjecture that Reynolds incorrectly entered the name in his pocket-book, and it is very strange that such a picture should have gone out of the possession of the family and not have been in any way recorded. It is not impossible that in such a break-up as the going out to Barbadoes in the old times would have caused, the picture might in some way have passed into other hands, but there is no certainty that it did so.

After 27. add—

II. As described.

There is so much stippling in this print that it can scarcely be styled mezzotinto. Bromley, p. 456, however, so calls it, and attributes it to Hancock.

3. (Id.)

H. L., directed to left, facing towards and looking to front, pillar to left. W. 2 $\frac{5}{8}$; H. 2 $\frac{3}{8}$.

This character was performed by Mrs. Barry (see page 961), when the play was brought forward at Drury-lane, 26th Feb., 1772. The print is therefore probably a portrait of that lady.

PAGE 625. Hodges. After line 25 add—

It has been stated that a print of W. Pitt, after Owen, published by H. S. Goed, Leicester-square, Jan 4, 1799, and two others signed with that name are really by Hodges, as the letters, "H. S. Goed," can be transposed to "Hodges." This is however scarcely sufficient proof, and it would be necessary to make out that no engraver named Goed existed and that Hodges did use this anagram.
